NEW NIXON SUBPOENA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski has subpoenaed former President Nixon as a prosecution witness in the Watergate cover-up trial.

Nixon has already been subpoenaed by his former No. 2 aide, John D. Ehrlichman, to appear as a defence witness in the trial scheduled to begin Oct. 1.

Jaworski's office confirmed today that the subpoena was issued Wednesday night and will be served on Nixon at his San Clemente, Calif., estate by FBI agents.

"He's been subpoenaed to testify," a spokesman for Jaworski said. "We expect him to testify."

Jaworski's subpoena calls for Nixon to appear in Judge John J. Sirica's courtroom on Oct. 1, even though he may not be called as a witness for several days.

Teachers to Seek 20-25% Pay Hike

B.C. teachers will be asking wage increase packages ranging from 20 to 25 per cent, Jim MacFarlan, president of the B.C. Teachers Federation, said in Vancouver today.

MacFarlan said wage demands are decided by teachers at the local level, but indications that have been received from some local chapters of the federation indicate the 20 to 25 per cent range.

He again emphasized that the BCTF will not consider salary bargaining on a provincial level as proposed by the B.C. School Trustees Association.

MacFarlan agreed with the calculation of the trustees association that this year the average cost of a teacher in salary and fringe benefits is $15,490.

But he said salaries vary considerably in different areas of the province, which is why the BCTF is insistent on bargaining at local levels.

He praised the few school boards that have refused to agree to provincial bargaining, and accused the BCSTA of attempting to force a breakdown in negotiations this year.

MacFarlan said the teachers' average wage increase of 11.1 per cent in 1974 was totally depreciated by inflation by mid-year.

Greater Victoria school board chairman Peter Bunn said he saw MacFarlan's statement as the first salvo in "the media battle for money every year which causes so much unhappiness".

He said the reason the B.C. School Trustees Association wants provincial bargaining on teachers' salaries is to "get the claptrap about filthy lucre out of the local scene."

Bunn said that with provincial bargaining negotiations could be conducted sensibly throughout the whole year rather than having the annual fall contest between teachers and school boards that can cause "the grossest unpleasantness."

Greater Victoria teachers won a 10.8 per cent increase for 1974, Saanich School District teachers 10.75 per cent.

B.C. PRICES HIGHEST

OTTAWA (CP) — Consumers in British Columbia and Thunder Bay, Ont., faced the largest increases in prices according to August figures released Wednesday by statistics Canada.

Halifax was one of only two cities where the August index level was less than 10 per cent higher than the level of August, 1973.

The other was Saskatoon — Regina where a combined survey of prices is done.

There were increases in all cities in August over July and the figures were: St. John's, five-tenths of one per cent; Halifax, two-tenths of one per cent; Saint John, one per cent; Quebec, 1.2 per cent; Montreal, eight-tenths of one per cent; Ottawa, eight-tenths of one per cent; Toronto, one per cent; Thunder Bay, 1.3 per cent; Winnipeg, seven-tenths of one per cent; Saskatoon-Regina, one per cent; Edmonton-Calgary, eight-tenths of one per cent; and Vancouver-Victoria 1.3 per cent.

Impaired Boating Charged

A 59-year-old man appeared in Victoria provincial court this morning charged with impaired boating after he became stranded Wednesday night when his 18-foot boat ran out of gas.

John Francis Rogers of 711 Johnson pleaded guilty and was fined $400 by Judge William Ostler.

The judge also banned Rogers from boating for the next four months adding "a person like you shouldn't be at sea at all."

Oak Bay police said Rogers radioed for help over his Citizen Band radio at 10:20 p.m. to say he was floating somewhere between Clover Point and Trial Island and wanted a tow.

He told the court his engine had quit and couldn't get it started.

Police arrived 2½ hours later and found him drifting in the tide about half a mile off shore.

They said he was "obviously impaired." He had a breathalyzer reading of .34, more than four times the legal limit of impairment.

Sooke Woman Slain

The partly nude and badly decomposed body of a woman found in a ditch in Abbotsford Tuesday was identified today as a 24-year-old Sooke resident, Linda Marlene Dueck.

Her death, believed to have occurred about three weeks ago, brings to eight the number of women who have been killed in the province in the past year while apparently hitchhiking.

Her body was found at 10:45 a.m. lying in long grass and water beside a road less than half a mile from the Abbotsford RCMP station.

The discoverer was a man looking for beer bottles.

An autopsy performed in Vancouver Wednesday failed to establish cause of death or whether she had been sexually assaulted.

Known to be a frequent hitchhiker, she was last seen alive in the Hope area over the Labor Day weekend. Her father lives in Hope; her mother in Chemainus.

Police said she had a boyfriend in the Abbotsford area and had left Victoria on or about Aug. 19 following an appointment with a doctor here.

Police believe there may be some connection between her death and another presumed killing in nearby Matsqui two weeks ago.

A set of women's clothing, splattered with blood, was found in Matsqui about 10 feet from the Fraser River. No body has been found but police "very strongly suspect" foul play. A paper found at the scene indicated a knife blade had been wiped clean.

Attorney-General Alex MacDonald, meanwhile, has announced that there will be no formal advertising campaign to discourage young women from hitch-hiking but that the government will set up an informal education program to warn of the dangers of the practice.

The government had been considering such a campaign after police linked several deaths as probably the work of one sex killer and said all had involved hitch-hikers.

NEWS BRIEFS

Sound as a Dollar . . . Unfortunately!

OTTAWA — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker celebrated his 79th birthday Wednesday and told reporters, "The only bad news I had recently was when I had a medical checkup and the doctors said, 'you're as sound as a dollar.' That distressed me to no end."

Subway Accord

MONTREAL (CP) — Maintenance workers attending a union meeting voted today to end a strike against the transit commission which has left the city without subway service since Aug. 7 and with no public transportation since last Friday.

Argentine Kidnaps

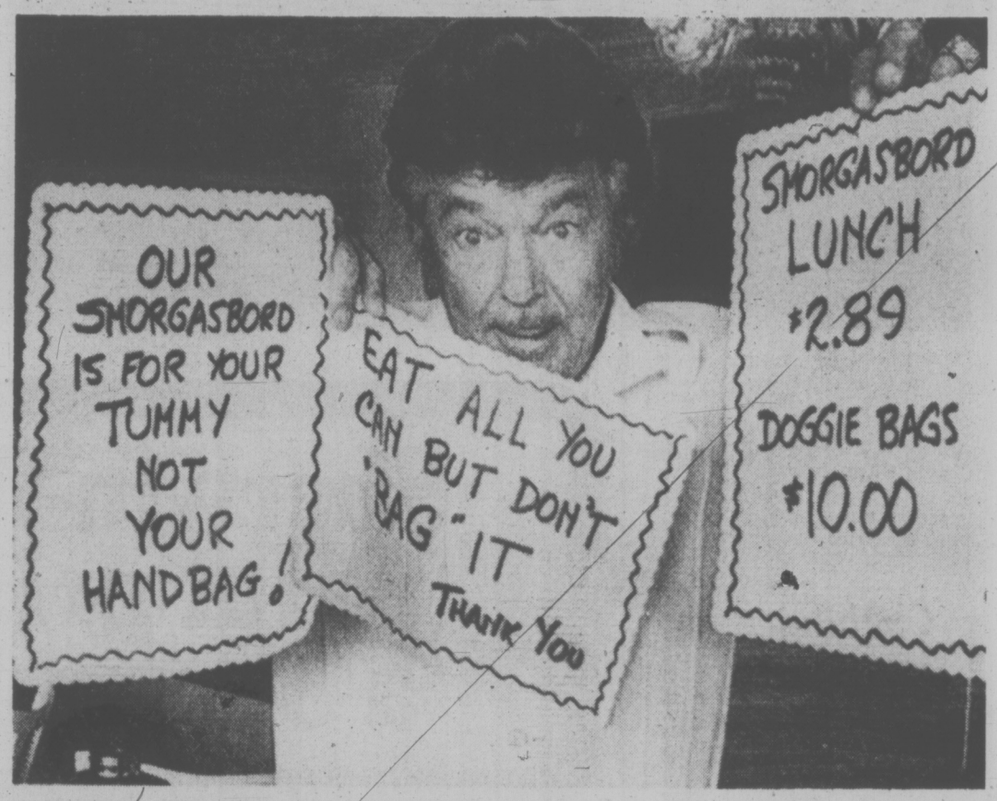
BUENOS AIRIES (UPI) — Thirty guerrillas armed with shotguns and dressed in police and telephone company uniforms kidnapped two Argentine business executives today in an elaborate operation that took the lives of a chauffeur and another executive.

Bank Debt Doubles

BONN (Reuter) — The financial losses of West Germany's biggest private bank — Herstatt, which collapsed last June — are reported to be more than double the original estimate of about $500 million.

Greece to Vote

ATHENS (Reuters) — Premier Constantine Carmantis announced new electoral laws Wednesday night and said national elections will be held in Greece as soon as possible. Observers believe the poll will be in about 45 days.



CUSTOMERS ARE BARKING up the wrong tree if they ask Frank Baker (above) for a doggie bag when they visit his West Vancouver restaurant. Baker, along with restaurant owners across North America has discovered that more and more customers are following up their lunches with a little "take-out" service for later consumption. Baker blames the spiralling cost of food for the increase in business to go. He now puts ketchup bottles without caps on the tables and has begun using individual servings of salt and pepper rather than leaving an easily-pocketed shaker available.

U.S. Gas Pact Nearer

Premier Barrett and a representative of U.S. natural gas importers emerged from a meeting Wednesday saying they are "closer" to agreement on the price and amount of natural gas to be shipped south of the border this winter.

"There are no details that I can give you about our discussions," Barrett said after more than an hour of talks.

"But I think that we are closer than we were before the meeting started."

John McMillan, president of Northwest Pipeline Corp. which has a contract to import up to 800 million cubic feet of B.C. natural gas per day, concurred with Barrett's remarks.

"I think we both understand each other," he told reporters.

The premier said McMillan will return to the U.S. to discuss the results of the meeting with "his people" and he expects to have some form of reply for B.C. within a week.

Barrett would not say whether he expected a conclusive answer from McMillian and refused to elaborate.

Also at the meeting were Attorney-General Alex Macdonald, the B.C. minister in charge of energy; Kelly Gibson, chairman of Westcoast Transmission Co., which holds sales contracts with distributors, and James Rhodes, chairman of B.C. Petroleum Corp.

The B.C. government has announced its intention to seek a higher export price for gas but Northwest Pipeline has resisted the proposal on the grounds that price increases must be accompanied by an agreement to share any shortfall in supplies this winter.

B.C. also announced earlier it did not intend to share this winter's shortages.

The B.C. Petroleum Corp., said it intends to seek a price increase from 61 cents to $1 per 1,000 cubic feet and B.C. has also filed a request with the National Energy Board to raise the price to $1.35.

The premier said he will discuss the situation again on Saturday when he meets with Washington State Governor Dan Evans. (See page 8)

Rocky Worth $62.5M

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice-president-designate Nelson Rockefeller said Thursday that his personal fortune is $62.5 million, and that he receives in addition income from trusts with total assets of $120 million.

Rockefeller issued those figures in advance of congressional hearings on his confirmation, saying he wanted to set the record straight because of misleading reports of his wealth.

". . . Total assets owned outright and the two trusts amount to approximately $182.5 million," Rockefeller said in a statement distributed to reporters.

The former New York governor, an heir to one of America's great fortunes, said he issued the statement because of earlier reports that he had filed a statement with congressional committees reporting his net worth to be $33 million.

Budget Error Sparks Anger

Opposition spokesmen and B.C.'s municipal leaders reacted with shock and anger Wednesday to the announcement of a $100 million budgeting error in the provincial welfare budget.

Liberal leader David Anderson said Premier Barrett is to blame for the underestimate and other budget bungling, and should resign as finance minister.

Fellow-Liberal Pat McGeer demanded the immediate recall of the legislature's all-party public accounts committee to investigate welfare costs as well as "drastic overspending" by the Insurance Corporation of B.C.

And municipal officials were virtually unanimous in denouncing Barrett's statement Wednesday that municipalities will have to pay their share — 10 per cent or $10 million — of what the premier termed a budgeting error.

At the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention in Vernon, delegates agreed to make room on the agenda today or Friday for an emergency debate on what municipalities will do about the sudden increase in costs.

Premier Barrett said today municipalities may be "jumping the gun in terms of how much of the cost will be going back to them."

Included in the $100 million over-run are some expenses which are shareable and some which only the province pays for.

The government will explain shortly exactly what spending areas are included in the $100 million.

He said there have been over-runs made in the human resources department before — including a "significant one" in 1970.

At that time, Barrett said, the municipalities had to pay their share of the budget over-run as well.

In a wire to Alex Fraser (SC-Cariboo), the chairman of the legislature's public accounts committee, McGeer (Vancouver-Point Grey) said the committee should "have full powers of investigation into current spending including the ability to engage auditors for the purpose of investigation."

The Liberal party's finance critic said in the wire: "If allegations of overspending in ICBC or human resources are anywhere near accurate it is irresponsible for there to be any delay in our committee commencing work."

If the legislature had to be called into session to give the committee extra powers, it

Explanation Monday

The mystery of the $100 million "clerical error" in B.C.'s welfare budget will be explained Monday by Human Resources Minister Norman Levi.

Premier Barrett said today Levi, who is out of town this week, will call reporters together to explain how his department underestimated this year's welfare budget.

The premier said earlier in the week that an "honest" clerical error had caused the government to budget for $264.5 million in welfare spending when the figure should be $100 million higher.

$5,000 Fishing Fines

SEATTLE (AP) — Five British Columbia fishermen were fined a total of $5,000 Wednesday for fishing in United States waters off Point Roberts, last week.

They each paid a $750 criminal fine and $250 civil fine, and reclaimed the boats. The boats had been held in Bellingham, where the five were brought last Friday after being seized by a Coast Guard cutter.

Four of the fishboat captains entered no contest pleas and the fifth pleaded guilty. Each admitted his boat strayed into U.S. waters but said it was accidental.

The fishermen are Arie de Vos of Richmond; John Edge of Surrey; Lon Bianco of Delta; Gregory Osaka of Steveston and Andy Kremides, also of Steveston, who pleaded guilty.

More to Qualify For Legal Aid

Extension of legal aid in B.C. to cover summary conviction proceedings and all offences under the Narcotic Control and Food and Drug Acts, was announced Wednesday by Attorney-General Alex Macdonald.

He said the extension will give practical meaning to the "right to counsel" promised under the Bill of Rights.

The expansion also includes the addition of nine regional offices to the six existing offices by March, 1975.

The B.C. Legal Aid Society will be given a $40,000 grant to launch an experimental public information campaign and legal aid staff lawyers will be given salary increases to bring them on a par with Crown counsel and other provincial legal staff.

The changes were requested by the society, which administers legal aid throughout the province.

Under existing legal aid, most summary conviction proceedings are not covered and offences under the Narcotic Control Act and Food and Drug Act are covered only at the discretion of the society or if the accused might face a jail sentence.

The new regional offices will be located in Prince Rupert, Cranbrook, Nelson, Williams Lake, Dawson Creek-Fort St. John, Surrey-Delta, Okanagan, Abbotsford-Chilliwack and Nanaimo.

Offices in New Westminster, Kamloops and Campbell River have just been opened. Victoria, Vancouver and Prince George had the first offices.

The new regional offices will give legal aid a greater opportunity to expand into other areas such as landlord and tenant law, consumer law and other civil administrative matters, said Macdonald.

Extension will mean it will now be possible to secure counsel "on a fee basis in all important cases in our criminal courts," he said.

Last year legal aid handled 21,000 cases and the extension is expected to increase that figure 10 per cent.

Massive U.S. Aid to Junta Revealed

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — The generals who toppled Chilean President Salvador Allende received one of the biggest United States military aid programs in Latin America — at the same time the U.S. was cutting support for Allende's left-wing government.

During the four years, 1970 to 1973, Allende was in power, U.S. economic aid dropped to $400,000 a year from $1.5 million, state department figures show.

At the same time, military grants to train Chilean military officers in the use of U.S. weapons remained at $900,000 a year, and credit sales of weapons to the Chilean generals jumped to $15 million from $5 million.

Together with the secret Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) support to political opponents of Allende, the U.S. economic and military aid programs form a pattern showing a direct U.S. effort to make it difficult for him to govern while strengthening the political and military forces that could depose him.

Meanwhile, prompted by the disclosures of CIA operations in Chile, President Ford and congressional leaders today privately reviewed the policy of covert activities abroad.

They reportedly found little support for proposed new controls on the agency.

Congressional leaders were unusually reluctant to discuss the issue when they emerged from a 90-minute meeting with Ford and Secretary-of-State Henry Kissinger.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield refused to comment on the substance of the meeting, saying only that it dealt with "the CIA in general, and Chile in particular."

Asked if his idea for a joint congressional committee to oversee the CIA had been discussed, Mansfield acknowledged that it came up briefly. But, he added, it was not received "with much favor."

Reports of secret testimony by William Colby, the director of the CIA, say the United States spent $8 million on opponents of Allende from 1970 to 1973.

Venezuela Punches Oil

CARACAS (UPI) — Venezuela has taken a sharp swipe at oil company tax payments and is preparing for what foreign oilmen fear could be a knockout punch, industry sources said today.

The government virtually wiped out an estimated $175 million in tax rebates that the companies have enjoyed since the early 1970s in an unannounced tax reform, government sources disclosed Wednesday.

The government now is preparing an excess profits tax that could mean more than $350 million in additional tax payments for 1974, according to authoritative government sources.

The one-two tax action hits companies where it hurts most — in profit levels which, according to oil experts, cannot be transferred to consumers as additional costs through higher prices.

At present, the oil companies, led by Exxon, Shell and Gulf, pay taxes to the Venezuelan government based on export price set by the government which now average $14.43 per barrel. The government's share is more than $9 a barrel, giving Venezuela about $10 billion in revenue this year.

Venezuela, world's third largest oil exporter and major supplier of oil to eastern Canada and the United States, has increased the price of its oil four-fold along with other major oil producers over recent months. In the case of oil price increases, the additional cost for the companies has been usually transferred directly to the consumer.

"Income tax is quite another thing," one Venezuelan oil expert said. "I don't think that any company has written into its supply contracts that the consumer will have to foot the bill for losses in profits."

Budget Error

should be reconvened immediately.

McGeer said the government is in a "state of financial confusion" which reflects a "much deeper financial malaise."

Fraser was not available for comment and Socred leader Bill Bennett could not be reached at the UBCM convention in Vernon.

In an interview from Vernon, Liberal leader Anderson said the $100 million underestimate was no surprise. He had estimated it at $123 million.

During debate on the department's estimates, Human Resources Minister Norm Levi had indicated the figures might not be accurate, Anderson recalled.

He said the blame for the underestimate rests with the minister of finance. This error coupled with ICBC's financial troubles and shortages in the education department show Barrett to be an incompetent finance minister, he claimed.

Anderson said municipalities cannot afford their 10 per cent share of the unbudgeted $100 million, under the formula which sees the federal government paying 50 per cent and the province the other 40 per cent.

"It's just money down the drain," he said. "Just the municipality's share alone would pay for the cost of rapid transit in the city of Vancouver."

(Preliminary indications are that Vancouver taxpayers will have to pay $3 million and Victoria taxpayers $500,000 unless the province agrees to pick up the tab for its own mistake).

Conservative leader Scott Wallace said the budgeting error reflects "a very inefficient and incompetent" administration.

"Equally important, I think, is the absolutely shocking way in which the finance minister informed the public of such a blunder through a hot-line show," said Wallace.

Barrett first conceded the $100 million shortfall in the human resources department's estimates during a hot-line television show Wednesday.

"It's a highly irresponsible method of telling the taxpayers they are short $100 million," Wallace said.

Greater Victoria municipal leaders attending the Vernon conference predicted problems if the municipalities are forced to pay for the provincial mistake.

Mayor Peter Pollen said in Victoria's case the sum could amount to $500,000, necessitating a short-term bank loan to be repaid from revenue and a mill rate increase next year.

"It seems inconceivable that municipalities should have to pay for the province's maladministration," Pollen said. "Homeowners can't stand any higher demands."

Esquimalt Mayor Art Young, another Vernon delegate, said money would have to be taken from other budgets such as public works to meet the additional levy on the municipality's welfare costs bill.

Surrey Mayor Bill Vander Zalm said Surrey will refuse to pay the extra costs, because the Municipal Act prohibits municipalities from spending funds which haven't been budgeted.

Population Rises 354,000

OTTAWA (CP) — The population total of July 1 was estimated at 22,479,000, up 354,000 during the preceding 12 months, Statistics Canada reported Wednesday.

The agency estimates population four times a year. On April 1 the estimate was 22,384,000.

Migration appeared to be a more important factor in the population growth but this could have been due in part to a problem with the counting process.

The estimate for the increase between April 1 and July 1 is made up of about 46,000 natural increase and about 49,000 net migration.

This compares with natural increase of about 43,000 and net migration of about 33,000 in the first three months of the year.

Clothing Tax Cut Checked

OTTAWA (CP) — The consumer affairs department said Wednesday it is checking to ensure that removal of the federal sales tax on clothing and footwear is passed on to consumers.

The 12-per-cent tax was removed by the government after the July 8 election but the department said in a news release there have been reports the "full benefits of the tax savings have yet to be reflected in retail prices."

Consumer Affairs Minister Andre Oullett said in the release, however, that "a number of retailers have informed the department that they were immediately reflecting the removal of the taxes in their selling prices."

The government's check will be as a survey of cost and price factors and is expected to be complete by mid-November. Results are to be passed on to the finance department.

Water Main Blast

NEW YORK (UPI) — A huge water main burst early today on the Upper East Side, rupturing a giant steam main and sending a geyser of steam 15 stories high. The explosion left two gaping craters in the street, shattered windows in nearby buildings and flooded the Penn Central tunnel under Park Avenue.

Gas Price War Starts in U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Independent gasoline stations in the United States are dropping pump prices as much as 13 cents a gallon, cuttig into sales of many higher-priced major-brand dealers, an Associated Press survey shows.

Industry gasoline supply figures indicate that there is more of the fuel in stock this year than the same time last year, but demand is holding about even with last year's level. This means that the major companies are having trouble selling all their gasoline through their own outlets.

Many dealers say the increased supply of gasoline has come from conservation by motorists. But some dealers say the major oil comapnies are purposely holding prices at high levels to boost their profits. This has acted as a deterrent to retail sales, which helps supplies but hurts business, they say.

Gasoline in Charlotte, N.C., down 13 cents a gallon from its peak, is sellin at 45.7 cents a gallon at independent stations. Major brands are still selling at 58.7 cents a gallon. the U.S. gallon is four-fifth of a Canadian gallon.

New dual ingredient medicine double effective for hemorrhoid sufferers.

The combination of an anaesthetic to relieve pain and itch quickly, and a soothing cream to help heal sore tissues makes new Hemoraids particularly effective on hemorrhoids.

Diperodon Hydrochloride—the water-soluble anaesthetic — spreads long-lasting relief directly into sore tissues by combining easily with natural, protective body moisture. This helps Hemoraids' smooth cream to effectively coat the irritated area, quickly relieving pain and itch.

The anaesthetic is carried in a soft-textured cream which can be spread over the most sensitive tissues without additional discomfort. And this soothing, cooling cream, in itself, has valuable healing properties. In suppository form, Hemoraids melts quickly and easily after insertion, becoming a gentle, healing cream.

Clara and Alta Rodriguez before surgery

Siamese Twins Separated

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Separated by surgery which took 6½ hours, siamese twin girls from the Dominican Republic slept in separate cribs for the first time in their 13 months of life.

"I know of no reason why they won't live," Dr. C. Everett Koop said after the long operation carried out Wednesday by 23 surgeons and nurses at Children's Hospital.

"They were two healthy little girls together; we have every reason to believe they'll be two healthy little girls apart," said Dr. Koop, who headed the surgical team.

He said not only are both girls expected to live, but that they should lead normal lives and even bear their own children.

Clara and Altagracia Rodriguez, who had been joined since birth at the pelvis and abdomen, were given their own complete sets of internal organs during the surgical operation.

In the initial recovery stage, Clara and Altagracia were placed in two beds, but they will be treated in the same bed later to prevent possible psychological trauma resulting from separation after living as one being up until now, hospital spokesman Shirley Bonnem said.

Farida Rodriguez and her twins came here 11 days ago from a farm outside Santo Domingo. When her daughters were born Aug.12, 1973, Mrs. Rodriguez said she was told they would die. Other doctors told her they would live into adulthood but could never be separated.

But Mrs. Rodriguez's cousin worked for an American woman in Puerto Rico, who told her sister in Pennsylvania about the siamese twins. Dianna Zimnoch of Warrington, Pa., arranged for the operation and her church raised the funds. Mrs. Rodriguez, whose husband remained at home, has three other children.

In the operation, doctors divided the girls' joint liver, possible because both had separate blood supplies to the organ. Their crossed ureters were sorted out to empty into the correct bladders from the kidneys.

Grits Issue An Open Invitation

The public will be invited to attend the Liberal party's annual convention in Veron next month.

The three-day convention starting Oct. 18 will be open to the public, according to a Liberal party press release, "in an effort to demonstrate that it is the only moderate alternative to the extremes that have dominated party politics in B.C. for the last 25 years."

The convention is being billed as the "The Great Liberal Roundup" and will include an accountability session with the five Liberal MLAs, examination of party policy and a brief constitutional discussion.

Special Gov't Spending Up to $38M This Year

The NDP government has authorized about $38 million in special warrant spending so far this fiscal year — more than nine times the amount authorized during the same period two years ago under the Social Credit government.

Special warrants are cabinet orders which allow the government to spend money above the approved budget and usually come near the end of a fiscal year.

From April 1 to Sept. 1, the first five months of the 1974-75 fiscal year, cabinet approved warrants totalling about $38.35 million compared with $25.69 million in the same period last year.

But in the same period in 1972 only $4.12 million in warrants were authorized and in other years under the Socreds the totals were much lower.

In the first five months of the 1971-72 fiscal year the total was $1.23 million; in 1970 the total was $537,000; and in 1969 the total was $516,000.

Asked about the high figure for this year's special warrants, Premier Barrett said Wednesday the amount "is not unusually high."

Barrett said he had promised if revenues were higher than estimated, the government would spend the un-budgeted amounts rather than hoard surpluses.

The special warrants are covered by revenues, he said, and the government will not be spending beyond its budget.

Special warrants are needed for a variety of different purposes and this year the major spending has been in the education field.

In one cabinet meeting, in August, for example the government authorized more than $29 million in spending on additional educational grants to schools and universities.

TORONTO MAN GETS POST

A Toronto man has been appointed executive director of B.C.'s department of travel industry.

David Livingstone, 47, joined the department this week after serving as assistant director of marketing services of the Canadian government office of tourism since 1971.

He is filling the post vacated October 1972 when R. L. Colby was appointed deputy minister of travel industry.

To Him That Hath, Etc.

The great disclosure day is over, and nothing has happened to change the view of many people that the whole thing should be kept on a semi-confidential basis — that is, the information regarding office-holders' property and business obligations should be maintained on file by the government for use only by persons seeking facts in the public interest.

It has benefited democracy in no perceptible way to have the details of an individual's investment portfolio — or lack of one — opened to general public view. Under the existing circumstances, of course, once one person's report was made public, all had to be, and some elected members in self-protection made a point of insisting that their disclosures be publicized.

The exercise, however, remains little more than a gesture — and a rather embarrassing one both for disclosers and their neighbors. No one bent on crooked deals in office would be deterred by the disclosure act; there must be too many ways in which the apparent intent of the act may be circumvented.

As always, the moral code of elected representatives and senior employees will be dependent on other factors than those involved in periodic property reports. Indeed, a man in office bent on nefarious doings might welcome the disclosure requirement as lending a certain moral cachet to his public image. Now inaugurated, the disclosure system may linger on indefinitely, but it will rarely rise above the level of a nuisance.

No Stars For the Deputy

After three years of United States denial and international speculation it has been established that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency channelled some $11 millions into Chile to overthrow the late Chilean President Salvador Allende. In a closed session of the House Armed Services Intelligence sub-committee CIA Director William Colby said the clandestine funds were authorized by a committee chaired by Foreign Secretary Henry Kissinger.

With hindsight born of resignation, what the United States does in its own interests is none of Canada's business. But as a member of the United Nations, and even more closely allied with the U.S. in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the North American Air Defence Command, we should at least be able to express an opinion. Yet when our good neighbor, playing the role of world policeman, does something that offends Canadian sensibilities, Ottawa becomes as silent as Chilean democracy.

Despite rumors of U.S. involvement in the coup which overthrew a democratically elected Chilean government, Canada was one of the first countries to recognize the military dictatorship. Our ambassador in Santiago was sympathetic to the military men — a fact which surfaced from leaked diplomatic dispatches. And our department of immigration couldn't have acted with less enthusiasm or facility when it came to processing Chilean refugees.

There has never been much public accountability in the department of external affairs. In the early years of the first Trudeau regime talk of "participatory democracy" drowned in an endless flow of white papers that changed nothing. Former Minister of External Affairs Mitchell Sharp believed that public debate had no place in the East Block. Perhaps Canadians will see new directions in the sensitive portfolio under Allan MacEachen.

Meanwhile, an independent Swedish report claims 30,000 Chileans have died in the coup and another 20,000 are under arrest. It is a tragedy to reflect on in a world where many third world nations look on Canada as the tacit deputy to the U.S. marshal.

It Should Come to Victoria

Georgia Strait seems to be as wide as the Pacific Ocean where the Canadian Radio-Television Commission is concerned. For the third time in two years, it has scheduled public hearings on broadcasting matters that affect Victoria. And for the third time local residents will be denied any effective representation.

Next month in Vancouver the broadcasting watchdog will listen to arguments on applications by radio stations CKDA and CFAX and CHEK television to renew their licences to use the public airwaves.

It is no more than a year ago when those in favor of a Victoria CBC station — using channel 10, the last unallocated VHF channel, — had to travel to Vancouver, and that was only a slight improvement on the situation in the fall of 1972. Residents with an opinion on cable TV rate hikes proposed at that time had to travel as far as Edmonton.

Mayor Peter Pollen is right to protest that holding hearings in Vancouver effectively denies local representation. It may be a laudable desire to save money by concentrating the hearings in Vancouver which motivates the CRTC, but the government body owes 200,000 local viewers and listeners the courtesy of a local public hearing.

WILLIAM V. SHANNON

The Unpardonable Pardon

WASHINGTON — The Nixon pardon is profoundly disturbing for what it forecasts about the Ford Presidency. The decision itself, the way it was arrived at, the quality of the persons the President chose to advise him, and the thought processes which he disclosed in his statement of explanation all bode ill for his future conduct in office.

The decision is widely recognized as a mistake, morally, legally, politically.

Morally, it introduces intolerable inequities into all the Watergate-related trials. Cynicism, deadly and disfiguring, has been flung like a corrosive acid into the fair face of American justice.

Legally, it complicates and may fatally compromise the trials of Nixon's former associates.

Politically, it associates a Republican President and the Republican party with the corruption, the lying, and the blatant hypocrisy of Watergate less than a month after the G.O.P. thought it had been freed of the Nixon incubus.

Wrong Way

If the decision was a major blunder, it was also arrived at in exactly the wrong way. President Ford acted in haste and failed to consult the special prosecutor or the Attorney General. He relied on Philip W. Buchen, his former law partner from Grand Rapids who is now White House counsel, and Benton L. Becker, a young Washington attorney who acted as secret intermediary between the White House and Nixon.

In private practice, Becker recently represented two disreputable businessmen convicted of stock fraud who now accuse him of urging them to give false testimony, a charge he denies. Buchen's defence of Becker takes us right back to the heyday of the Nixon Administration: "Becker is just as straight as he can be. He's a very savvy guy whose loyalty belongs to the Oval Office."

Or, stated differently, he is another ambitious young hotshot who, like John W. Dean 3rd, is out to please the boss in the Oval Office and get ahead in the world. With the advice of a legal team like Buchen and Becker is it any cause for surprise that Ford stumbled into his present difficulties?

Neither of them has the experience in public life, the standing with the public, or the professional attainments to advise and assist the President on a matter so delicate and possessed of so many complicated ramifications. The agreement they negotiated and to which Ford assented was a complete sell-out of the public interest.

At the very least, Nixon should have acknowledged publicly that he engaged in criminal conduct. He should also have consented to turning all of the tapes and documents of his Administration over to the special prosecutor for a thorough review of the "leads" to other crimes that they may contain. To place them in Nixon's custody and to require the special prosecutor to seek a subpoena to obtain what he suspects they may contain is reprehensible.

GERALD FORD

The intellectual and moral confusion of Ford's statement is dismaying. It derives from his faulty premise. He compares Watergate to a story in a book which it is within his power to finish by writing "the end" and closing forever. That might be true if Nixon, as an isolated individual, had committed a single wrongful act.

But Watergate is actually a one-word description for a complex web of crimes and conspiracies involving millions of dollars and dozens of individuals in both public and private life. Much more remains to be learned about this web.

Thus, former Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally is about to stand trial for allegedly accepting a $10,000 bribe to influence Nixon in reaching a decision on the price of milk. Where did the passing of money stop in the milk case?

Similarly, the special prosecutor's staff has been intensively investigating the financial transactions of C. G. Rebozo, the former President's closest friend, to determine what happened to the $100,000 in cash he collected from Howard Hughes and other contributions, some of which appear to have been "laundered" and transferred to Nixon.

Ugly Rumors

The milk case and the Hughes-Rebozo case are only two of a dozen subjects that the special prosecutor was investigating when Ford pardoned Nixon. Disconcerted by the adverse reaction to the pardon, the President now contemplates pardoning everyone. But if these and other cases are not pursued in a thorough and responsible manner, partially-substantiated facts and ugly rumors will circulate for years. There is no way to close the book on them.

The President would do better to revoke the agreement yielding the tapes and documents to Nixon's custody, transfer them to the special prosecutor and allow the various trials to go forward. A mass pardon limited to Watergate defendants would multiply the mistake of the Nixon pardon and might provoke such disbelief in his integrity as to threaten his capacity to govern over the next two years.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

Protest

Canadians are always ready to fight for a good cause. We deploy our peace force all over the world, we starve in front of the Russian Embassy for a writer in jail, we boycott South African and Rhodesian goods because of those countries' apartheid policy and we denounce Japan for its continued hunting of the endangered whales.

It seems very strange then to me, that everybody is so quiet when a grave injustice is carried out right here at home. I have waited for politicians and churchmen to speak out and take an active stand regarding the James Bay project.

Try and bring this situation down to a personal level and imagine if it happened to you. Another family would move into your backyard, threatening to take over your property and deprive you of your livelihood. First you ask them to leave, then the leader of the squatters mumbles something about compensation. You tell him no, thank you, because you like it here and the property has been in the family for generations and you value it beyond money.

Then you are told that the squatters are more numerous than your folk and their need for the property is greater. Now you are almost ready to reach for the shotgun. But this is not a lawless country, so you get a lawyer instead. In due time the courts hand down their decision in your favor.

You are jubilant of course, but soon you realize that it was a hollow victory. The squatters appeal and while the matter drags on in the courts, they are working furiously. They want to make sure, that no matter what the final decision, there will be nothing left for you and your family to enjoy or to live on.

This is the situation concerning the James Bay power project. I will try to take a stand against it, despite the fact that I am just a housewife and mother with no political connections. I realize that basically I am not fighting so much for the Indians and the Inuit, I am fighting for justice and human rights, so that I and later my children won't have to be ashamed to be called Canadians.

On September 30, 1974, the opening day of Parliament, around noon, I intend to put down the first stone for a cairn as a reminder to our government about James Bay, and their moral duty to halt all construction and destruction until the courts have made their final decision. I appeal to all Canadians who share my feelings, to come to Parliament Hill and put down a stone, just north of the centennial flame. If you live too far away from Ottawa send a small stone in a letter to your member of Parliament, asking him to put it on the cairn for you. Letters to the House of Commons are postage free.—Lisbeth Mousseau (Mrs. T.J.) 208 Grenfell Crescent, Ottawa.

Safe Drivers?

Liberal Leader David Anderson please note the following:

In the first week of May, 1974, my wife and I were the victims of an impaired driver. We were crossing an intersection on the green light when this impaired youth came through the red light and demolished our car.

The insurance adjuster told us that since the I.C.B.C. had been in force one month only, they had over 4,000 claims. This same adjuster told us that by the end of the second week in July, they had received over 10,000 claims. This in the Victoria area. Mr. Anderson, how can you say that Victorians are safe drivers and how can Victorians expect the $30 or $40 rebate?—George Jackson, 1026 Linden Avenue.

E and N Service

With regard to the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway application to discontinue service, it is interesting to remember the last time. When the Canadian Transport Commission held public hearings in Victoria in 1970, the Commission did not approve discontinuance or subsidy of the service. The decision of the Commission's report on November 12, 1970, noted that to become eligible for a subsidy, the railway must prove that the service . . . "is incapable of being rendered profitable . . ."

In writing the Commission's decision, Commissioner D. H. Jones said: "the evidence at the hearing has convinced me that the passenger train between Courtenay and Victoria is being run without any real regard for the comfort and convenience of passengers and insufficient attention to the commercial principles that the CPR applies to its other business with such success."

There is little likelihood that the Canadian Transport Commission could be justified in delivering a different decision in 1974.—(Mrs.) E. Norwell, Sec. for Nancy Heath, (A. E. H. Heath), The Senate, Ottawa.

Give Back Our Heritage

Remember it? That delightful beach in Oak Bay?, Where mothers brought their children to paddle and to build sand castles? Other youngsters came to frolic and sail toy boats. Sunbathers came and picnickers with lunch baskets enjoyed a few life-giving hours. Senior, and not-so-senior, citizens came to sit on the promenade benches and joyously watch white-capped waves roll in and out.

Waterfowl used it as a stopover on their way north or south. Remember the excitement when a rare type appeared and bird-watchers converged with their wildlife books to compare notes with other enthusiasts? Those were the days! And all for free.

Come and see it now. What was a gem-like bay full of interest and charm is now a dead backwater. No longer do the waves roar in and out to cleanse the beach. The bay simply increases and decreases in size: no waves, not even a ripple. And all this since, at a cost to the Canadian taxpayers of close to half a million dollars, a breakwater was built from the Oak Bay Marina and another from Mary Tod Island so that the Marina owner could have a few more spaces for a few more boats.

He got a few more spaces. And what did the taxpayer get? Come and see. When the water is high, but never so high as formerly, it is dead and motionless; when it is low what used to be a pleasant beach is now a mass of nauseating sludge and rotting seaweed. No children, no adults, no seabirds, except gulls. No self-respecting duck, coot, or sandpiper ever comes now. The taxpayers' hard-earned dollars contributed to the utter destruction of this delightful beach.

Now the federal government is being prevailed upon to spend a million dollars of our taxes to put in yet another breakwater for a commercial operation, this time in Saanichton. What will be the aftermath of that? Utter destruction of more foreshore as in the case of Oak Bay? Not everyone wants or can afford a boat but is content with the simple joys and pleasures supplied by nature. No wonder the Indians are upset.

Is there any remedy for Oak Bay? Yes. The federal government paid to put in the two breakwaters. Let them now drastically reduce the length of those breakwaters and give back to the people their heritage — the delightful, health-giving beach we had once.—Vox Pop.

Politics and Gas

Premier Barrett has announced that the price of gas sold by B.C. to the U.S.A. will be doubled, and that, if there is a shortage of gas in B.C. this winter, our supply of gas to U.S.A. will be reduced rather than reduce the gas supply available to people of B.C. This announcement has caused a considerable flurry in B.C. as well as in the states of Washington and Oregon. Bill Bennett, and other leaders of opposition parties emphasize that the sanctity of the contract must be upheld.

It would be useful to look back at the history of this contract. When Westcoast Transmission applied in the U.S.A. for the franchise to distribute gas in the Pacific North West, their application was turned down in favor of an American distribution firm which used as one of its main arguments, the claim that it could supply all the needs of the Pacific North West region of U.S.A. with gas from Texas and California.

As soon as this company got the franchise, it turned to Westcoast Transmission and made a dicker to get a large proportion of the gas it needed from B.C. The agreement to sell this gas to the U.S.A. had to receive the approval of the Canadian government. (National Energy Board) and the B.C. Social Credit government. At the time there was considerable opposition to this contract for two reasons.

First, many people were concerned about our own future needs in gas. No problem, Mr. Bennett assured us, there was plenty for all, both the U.S.A. and ourselves, for many years to come.

Secondly, many people were outraged that the terms of sale gave U.S.A. customers our gas at a lower price than it was available in B.C.

So, once again, as in the short-sighted Columbia River Treaty, Premier Barrett is being blamed for trying to correct errors that the previous government made.

It would seem to me that the company presently holding distribution rights for the Pacific North West region of the U.S.A. — a company which said it could supply the total needs of that region from Texas and California — should be allowed now to fulfil its claims.

It would seem time, also that we in Canada smartened up on two points:

The resources which we in Canada seem to consider inexhaustible, are, in fact, very limited and will not be sufficient to supply our own needs for very much longer at the rate we are presently using them up.

Any agreement with our neighbor to the south to supply energy in any form which will make them dependent upon us for that energy, will be very difficult to terminate or adjust in any major fashion. This latter statement is in no way critical of the U.S.A. One can understand and appreciate their alarm when they see that the energy necessary to run many of their industries and to heat many of their homes and public buildings is likely to be greatly curtailed.

The criticism is of the short-sighted policy that allowed this contract to be signed in the first place. — J. Philip Fawcett, 57 Wellington St.

60 YEARS AGO

From the Times of September 19, 1914

Registration of Germans and Austro-Hungarians living in Victoria and the vicinity is proceeding apace at the city police detectives' office, and the number now on the rolls for police supervision is close to 300. It is believed however, that there are some who have not yet given in their names and descriptions and police state they will take steps against delinquents who do not register. Only one German has registered in the municipality of Saanich, though the police there state that six or seven alien residents of the suburb had registered in Victoria before the Saanich warning was issued. Only one citizen of German birth was located in Oak Bay and none in Esquimalt.

India: It's Never Been So Bleak

By MARK GAYN

The monsoon rains arrived late in India. They fed the rivers, which overflowed their banks and wreaked havoc in five Indian states.

With the floods came disease. In Bihar, which has some 60 million people, an estimated 24,000 people died of smallpox, and the federal minister of health said bluntly the loss could have been averted if state officials had acted promptly.

Such disasters only added to the waves of discontent rolling across the land. Most of these were produced by economic distress. India is never well off. When the monsoons fail, as they did in 1972, tens of millions go hungry. When foreign aid falters, essential projects are trimmed down.

But things have never been as bleak as they are now. The trouble began last fall when the Arabs raised the price of oil. To describe this as a calamity for India would be to put it mildly. Last year, her planners put the cost of crude oil to be imported in 1974 at $560 million. Today the same amount would cost up to $1.8 billion, which India simply does not have.

The face of despair

Yet India needs oil as much as you and I need blood. Kerosene is used by most housewives to cook their meals and light their homes. Fuel oil is needed to keep industry going. The small pumps that carry water to the fields need diesel oil. Naphtha is needed to produce fertilizer.

Experts say that a cut of a million tons in crude oil imports means the loss of somewhere between 500,000 and 750,000 tons of grain for lack of fertilizer. With 1974 imports of crude set at about 3.4 million tons below last year's figure, this might mean the loss of two million tons or more of grain for the hungry.

The choice before Prime Minister Indira Gandhi thus is cruel. She must cut imports of crude to a minimum. But she also knows that she is gambling with massive hunger if the crop is poor, or if farmers hoard. And Indian farmers, bless their greedy little hearts, do hoard. They know the grain supply is low, and they are hoarding and black-marketing. But they, too, have a real grievance. To buy fertilizer, they must go to speculators.

To survive this summer of distress, Mrs. Gandhi has begun to tighten the national belt. On July 6, with inflation at a harrowing rate of 36 per cent, she put through some draconian depression measures. All newly won wage increases are to be put into compulsory deposit accounts for a year. So will any new cost-of-living allowances. This comes close to a wage freeze, and will slash the purchasing power of 18-million wage-earners by about $620 million — a crushing blow to a low-income family. Dividends also will be sharply cut.

The second blow came on the last day of July. Mrs. Gandhi boosted taxes on cigarettes and cotton textiles, on steel and cement. A tax was put on highgrade paper. True, the low-grade paper used for children's notebooks was exempt, but everyone knows that for a year no such paper has been produced, and textbooks and notebooks cost five times as much as they did two years ago. Still ahead are sharp cuts in the government's own spending.

The Indians are hurting. Always living close to the poverty line — and most of them below it — they are now thrust into deep want. Mohan Singh, the average man, is probably earning no more in real income than he did 10 years ago. And, much more than before, his wife now has to rely on the black market for flour and cooking oil, for kerosene and cotton cloth, and even for life-saving drugs.

Not surprisingly, this has been a year of riots and wholesale killing. The turmoil has been fuelled by economic distress. But into it also went anger with the profiteers, the corrupt officials, the rich living high on the hog, a government which cannot give the young the jobs they need.

Once universally admired, Mrs. Gandhi is at the lowest point in her popularity. It went up when India exploded her nuclear device on May 18, and some feel that was a "political A-bomb." But such popularity is fickle, and hers is again being eroded.

Mrs. Gandhi's strength is that there is no alternative either to her or to her immense Congress party.

At this point, one might have expected India's friends to come to her aid. But, alas, the help is shrinking. The Soviets measure their assistance with a careful hand. The Americans, who resent Mrs. Gandhi's anti-American moralizing, will this year give a niggardly $75 million. Canada, in a huff over the Indian A-test, is expected to give about $70 million in 1974-75, of which $40 million will be for food.

As usual, people in well-fed countries do not worry unduly about empty stomachs half the world away. And only when the hungry rebel, and the dangers of their revolution become clear, do the rich bestir themselves, either to rush emergency aid — or, as often, to complain about the ingratitude of the starving.

A Total Denial Of Legal Rights

THE GLOBE AND MAIL

Quebec's Fire Investigations Act. Never mind the evil it was designed to combat. In the beginning it was a frighteningly dangerous piece of legislation, a dangerous threat to human rights, a dangerous undermining of all that justice is believed to mean. And the purgatory it has now visited upon Constable Robert Samson of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police has left its dangers, and its iniquity, underscored.

This is the legislation that has given the imprimatur of a modern state to the medieval inquisition now going on in Montreal, the fire commission inquiry into the July 26 bombing at the home of Montreal supermarket executive Melvyn Dobri.

It is legislation that compels Constable Samson — still charged with no crime 40 days after the event — to testify against himself, a violated human right no formally accused person would ever have to suffer in a Canadian court. It is legislation that has given Fire Commissioner Cyrille Delage authority to jail Constable Samson for 60 days for refusing to testify further, an authority that contemptuously tramples upon the right of an accused person — which Constable Samson, remember, is not — to remain silent without any reflection upon his guilt or innocence.

It is legislation that was given birth by the Quebec Legislature on December 18, 1968, and it was in truth born from panic.

The Front de Liberation du Quebec was in fullest evil bloom — 65 bombings in a 12-month period, terrifying, maiming, killing citizens of the province. The Fire Investigations Act was to be one of the weapons of the state to get at the secret FLQ cells, enabling the state to arrest and detain without charge, to compel suspected terrorists and their sympathizers to talk, to punish them with jail if they refused, to give no legal side-doors to escape the state's determination to protect peoples' lives.

To protect lives, the state smashed rights.

In its wording, the legislation gives designated commissioners the authority to investigate every fire or explosion which "does not appear to have resulted from mere negligence or to have been purely accidental". An inquiry—public or private—must be held if the investigation commissioner "has reason to believe" that "culpable conduct or design" was involved.

It gives the Fire Investigation Commissioner power — with or without public knowledge — to order an arrest, jail a person for 24 hours without bail or absolute right to counsel, extend the jail period unless a Superior Court orders otherwise, force him to testify and, if he refuses, find him guilty of contempt and impose any sentence he wants. All of this, we repeat, can be done without public knowledge if the inquiry is in camera.

The so-called protection afforded to witnesses — that evidence they give cannot be used against them in subsequent proceedings, except for perjury — is empty. If a person submits and testifies against himself, he is forever saddled with that testimony, publicly if the inquiry is public, for to refute what he said would be to acknowledge himself as a perjurer.

And if he is sentenced to jail for refusing to testify at an inquiry, he is still liable to be called before the commissioner again and told to confess. On and on and on — or as Commissioner Delage said to Constable Samson after telling him he would be brought back again at the end of 60 days to answer more questions about the bombing: "I have every intention of continuing this inquiry with even more vigor, if that is possible, until we are able to explain to the public the dark underside of this business."

All this is done to a man who has been charged with no crime. It is purgatory, a state which Constable Samson can escape only by cleansing himself through confession and suffering.

The baffling, angering question to be asked is — why? Why is Constable Samson being put to the rack when the evidence that has already been publicly given at the inquiry by police is sufficeint to justify a decision on laying criminal charges? Why do Quebec authorities insist upon carrying out this disgusting circus spectacle?

And why do the people of the Province of Quebec continue to live with such a bald and total denial of protective rights in a system of justice — rights and justice, it can thankfully be said, that still serve the rest of Canada?

And Still War Goes On

THE MANCHESTER GUARDIAN

Since the peace agreement of January, 1973, which did not work, and the second peace agreement of July the same year, which did not work either, Vietnam has gone into the basket of irrational problems on which the world considers it has already spent more than enough time. Not many people even affect surprise that the scale of the war, as measured in its casualties, is as great now as it has ever been except during the major Communist offensives of 1968 and 1972.

Not many people seriously expected that the program of national reconciliation, duly announced in the first peace agreement and duly rehearsed in the second, would ever be more than a thin disguise for an American withdrawal. There must have been a few naive hopes that American disengagement would signify the end of civil conflict. The combatants, it is safe to say, had no such expectations: neither had the Americans. Yet if the chronicle reads like a text-study in political cynicism it should be remembered that idealism, not cynicism, was the mainspring of the original American involvement in Vietnam; the failure of all America's weapons, money, and diplomatic skill to secure peace in a war-weary Third World country has been not a cynical tragedy of our times but a heart-rending one.

It is not profitable to adjudicate on the breakdown of the peace agreements. In his broadcast at the time President Nixon said that as part of the "peace with honor" the South Vietnamese would have "The guaranteed right to determine their own future without outside interference." The implication of the words is that free elections would be held — as indeed the peace agreement said they should. But since they could in no sense be free, with the Communists just as able to conduct intimidation in the villages as they were during the years of fighting, it is not surprising that the South should have found excuses for delaying them. The North may have believed that it would win the elections anyway without resort to intimidation.

It has the benefits of discipline and conviction (is not historical necessity on its side?) and its opponents would give it the bonus of Saigon corruption. So with no prospect of gaining by the ballot what it failed to gain by the bomb, the North has reverted to attacks on the vulnerable strategic areas north of Saigon and south of Da Nang.

Even with the almost unlimited American backing it received the South Vietnam government was unable to fight the North to a standstill. American arms and techniques were no match for a guerrilla movement. With the departure of the Americans the war has become one or more formal engagements between the armies of the two sides, though with the South's army losing in sophistication and the North's gaining. As by habit, though, defence strategies for the South, and particularly for the Delta, are conceived and abandoned with the same regularity as they were during the American era.

Our reports have pierced the facade of the tactical exercise, which is what Vietnam is liable to look like from afar, and have shown the war for what it continues to be — an endless sacrifice of young lives and a welter of suffering in the military hospitals as limbs are cut off and bodies patched up. The Americans did their utmost to end the war and paid heavily for it both in lives and in international esteem. There is not much more they can do to bring about the "peace with honor."

Congress has already cut the funds to supply South Vietnam. This does not diminish the scale of the war: it simply makes it more likely that the Communists will win, or at least that the South will retreat into its Delta, abandoning the much contested towns and villages elsewhere. It would be a token of their seriousness about detente if the Russians would cut their supplies likewise, but that is outside Western control except as part of a more comprehensive agreement. The saddest spectacle is most likely: that the Vietnamese will continue their decades of ideological fratricide before a world audience powerless to stop them.

He'll Be Around for a Long Time

By WILLIAM V. SHANNON
New York Times

Why did he do it?

The public effects of President Ford's pardon of Mr. Nixon are clearly bad. But speculation as to his private motives continues unabated.

Unless the President gives a clear statement of the reasons for his decision, no definitive explanation is possible. But it is reasonable to assume that like most of us when we make a major decision, President Ford had a mixture of motives.

As a politician he may have calculated that the sooner he cleared up his Nixon problem the better.

As a private person, he is kindly and compassionate. Richard Nixon has been his political colleague and friend for 25 years, not a close personal friend — Nixon has only two or three intimates — but significantly close to make him feel a sense of obligation and concern.

Nixon, sure to go down in American history as one of the really great charlatans, skilfully played upon Ford's sympathies. He floated rumors that his health was rapidly deteriorating. Through Nixon loyalists still in the cabinet and the White House staff, he planted the fear in the President's mind that he — Nixon — might commit suicide if the pardon did not arrive soon.

Sudden bad health is, of course, the oldest dodge of the criminal defendant. One is reminded of Albert B. Fall, one of the chief figures in the Teapot Dome scandal, arriving for his trial in a wheelchair, clutching a cane, and wearing a shirt collar three sizes too big. Fall tottered to his courtroom chair and promptly pretended to faint.

Fall's counsel pleaded to the jury to send this dying man "back to the sunshine of New Mexico." The judge, with an asperity worthy of Judge John Sirica, told the jury: "Neither you nor I have anything to do with sunshine. You are here to decide this case on the evidence and nothing else."

Convicted for bribe-taking and sentenced to prison for a year, Fall recovered his health with remarkable speed and lived for another dozen years, dying at the ripe age of 83. I predict that Nixon, phlebitis and melancholia notwithstanding, will do the same. Clearly he was not too distraught when he beat Ford's emissary to his knees and got that pardon totally on his own terms. Would that we all protected our interests so well when we are distraught.

Unburdened by a conscience and unconcerned about anyone but himself, Nixon is invulnerable to remorse or shame. His iron ego protects his body against psychosomatic distress. Pardoned, he now will go serenely on for decades embroidering the truth and fantasizing his memoirs. In another year or two, he will be issuing statements and giving birthday interviews.

A sense of obligation?

As Rep. John Anderson, R.-Ill., told a reporter in what was truly the quote of the year: "Why were we ever stupid enough to think this awful man would fade away like one of MacArthur's old soldiers? He was always going to be dragged, kicking and screaming, into oblivion."

★ ★ ★

Granted that Ford was suckered a bit by the Clifford Irving of American politics and granted that on grounds of personal sympathy and political loyalty a pardon was always in the cards, the question still has to be asked why, as a politician, he did not proceed more carefully with regard to the terms and the timing?

To arrive at an answer to this political question, Ford's previous career has to be borne in mind. As House minority leader, he never disagreed with Nixon on the substance of legislation, on tactics, on appointments. The closest thing to a dissent that his record contains is a single vote against a mass transit bill.

During his nine months as vice president when he should have been quietly preparing himself to deal with inflation and the other serious problems that he knew would soon be his responsibility, Ford was barnstorming the country making forgettable speeches and confusing his news conferences with his zigzag defence of Nixon.

"The weight of the evidence does not justify the President's impeachment," he said as the House Judiciary Committee prepared to vote — as if he had actually read the thousand of pages of evidence.

If Ford had been a member of the Judiciary Committee, there is little doubt that he would have been ranged with Representatives Wiggins, Dennis and Sandman, doggedly defending his party chief despite the evidence and the promptings of common sense.

In short, Ford became the nation's leader because he was a very good follower. When Nixon made him vice president, there was no written warranty guaranteeing his political imagination or sensitivity. On the contrary, in his first month in the Presidential cockpit he has already displayed more of those qualities than most observers thought he possessed. But as the bumpy ride of the recent days should have told you, our new pilot is flying this plane by the seat of his pants. Keep your seat belt fastened.

B.C. Hydro Takes Option To Mine Pt. Hardy Coal

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Hydro and Cobre Exploration Ltd. of North Vancouver have executed an option agreement under which Hydro will explore and possibly develop Cobre's Suquash coal licences, 12 miles southeast of Port Hardy on northern Vancouver Island.

The agreement calls for an initial cash payment to Cobre of $10,000. Hydro must make cash payments on an advance royalty basis of $10,000 a year through 1978, $20,000 a year from 1979 through 1983, and $25,000 a year thereafter.

Royalties of 20 cents a long ton will be paid to Cobre on coal mined from the property and advance royalty payments will be recoverable from first royalties paid on coal production.

National Boosts Tin Price

PITTSBURGH (AP) — National Steel Corp., third largest United States steelmaker, has announced that it is increasing prices on its tin mill products by an average of 2¼ per cent.

The increase will become effective Oct. 21.

A spokesman for National Steel said that because of the variety of items involved he was not able immediately to give a dollar figure for the increase.

The major use of tin mill products is in the manufacture of beverage and other containers.

National said the increase "is necessitated by drastic increases in our costs for basic raw materials such as ore, coal and coke and increased transportation and other costs."

Tin mill products account for about 22 per cent of National's business. U.S. Steel is the top U.S. steelmaker and Bethlehem is second.

World Economy Harmony Urged

MONTREAL (CP) — A prominent American banker said Wednesday global economic harmony should be the first priorit yof the international financial community.

David Rockefeller, chairman of the board of the Chase Manhattan Corp., New York, said "economic crises do not carry passports or stop at frontiers."

Unless global problems are solved, "we face a very difficult, and potentially tragic, situation ahead," Mr. Rockefeller told the Canadian Conference on Banking.

Mr. Rockefeller, brother of U.S. vice-president designate Nelson Rockefeller, said the world faces the problems of inflation, the massive flow of funds to the oil exporting nations and the search for capital to develop vitally needed industrial projects.

"Without being overly melodramatic, I would suggest that unless there is concerted teamwork by every nation to deal with these questions, there may be catastrophe for some to the final detriment of all."

Mr. Rockefeller said Canada should welcome foreign banks which can help finance development of raw materials and energy sources.

"A restrictive atmosphere which discourages the presence of foreign banks here or elsewhere can only jeopardize the ability to proceed confidently with urgently needed large-scale economic development projects."

Conversely, expansion abroad of Canadian banks is essential to their growth and profit potential, said Page Wadsworth, chairman and chief executive officer of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

The growing complexity and interdependence of major world trading nations requires a close knowledge and access which can only be gained by a continuing physical presence in major world trading and financial centres, he said.

"Facilities for finding, attracting and employing capital must be ready and able to keep pace with our growing needs. At the same time, Canada is increasingly becoming an exporter of capital.

"Canadian banks play an important role in mobilizing and channelling these vital two-way flows."

A leading British banker told the conference, however, that expansion of major banks into international markets will soon start to slow down.

"With our capitalist system under pressure and with the worst inflation within living memory for the great majority of us, it is difficult to think that international bankers are going to show a great deal of bravery and enterprise for a bit," said Anthony F. Tuke, chairman of Barclays Bank Ltd.

"My guess is that the 20 or 30 major banks will continue to expand their representation, but less vigorously than in the past."

He said he believes the most important aspect of international banking during the next decade will be the emergence of financial consortia — groups of banks dealing in huge financial transactions.

Washington, B.C. Chiefs Hold Summit

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (AP) — With Gov. Dan Evans contending that relations are not deteriorating between Washington State and British Columbia, legislators and officials of the province and state met today for a first-ever summit meeting.

Sponsored by Western Washington State College and both governments, the three-day symposium is being attended by Evans, Premier Barrett and other government officials.

The conference comes at a time when the state and province are engaged in tense negotiations on the supply of B.C. natural gas to the rest of the northwest. Other touchy subjects on the agenda include the possible raising of Ross Dam on the Skagit River, Canadian fishing in U.S. waters, oil tanker traffic and land use.

Evans said this week he sees the symposium as "a very important meeting and one which comes at a happy time."

"There are incidents and frictions which occur quite often, but I certainly don't think the over-all relationships between the province and state are bad or combative," he said.

"I think the problems are escalating, but that doesn't mean that the relationships have to deteriorate.

"I think it means that we are going to have to spend more time and pay more attention to continuous contact between members of the governments on the two sides."

Barrett and members of the B.C. legislature have supported the conference in a city which in many ways considers itself a suburb of Vancouver, B.C., said conference director Dr. Gerard Rutan of Western Washington State College.

Westcoast Gas Eyeing Bid On Mackenzie

The British Columbia government, a staunch opponent of the planned international MacKenzie Valley natural gas pipeline, has apparently become a silent partner in a rival bid for an all-Canadian pipeline.

The involvement comes with participation of Westcoast Transmission Co. Ltd., of which the government is part owner, in a proposal for a Canadian line which would carry gas from the MacKenzie Delta to Canadian markets only.

The pipeline nicknamed "the Maple Leaf line," reportedly received the official blessings of Alberta and British Columbia and the approval of Ontario and Quebec during last week's closed-door meeting of provincial premiers in Toronto.

Westcoast announced earlier this week it is joining Alberta Gas Trunk Line Co. of Calgary in the ownership of Foothills Pipe Lines Ltd., the company which will promote the Canadian line.

Premier Barrett said today he had no comment on the Westcoast involvement and didn't even want to discuss it.

He denied however, that B.C. has given tacit approval to the bid.

Barrett has said in the past that he does not see why Canada should assist the United States by developing gas reserves in the Mackenzie Delta by pooling its expertise and financial resources and risking an unfavorable impact in Canada.

Kelly Gibson, chairman of both Westcoast and Foothills, said he had not discussed the matter with Barrett.

"I will be talking shortly with Barrett but I can't see how he would object to a project like this," he said.

Foothills officials have said the Canadian line would cost between $3 billion and $4 billion and be in operation by 1979.

Alberta Gas Trunk resigned Monday from the consortium of 26 Canadian and U.S. companies which has already filed applications in Washington and Ottawa to build the line carrying both MacKenzie Delta and Alaska gas to markets in the U.S. and Canada.

There is a third proposal by El Paso Natural Gas Corp. of Houston, Tex., to build an all-American pipeline across Alaska — ignoring the MacKenzie Delta gas deposits — to liquefy the gas and ship it down the west coast in tankers.

The U.S. State Department has been extremely sensitive about Canada's natural gas export situation.

CHARGES LAID IN UTAH ROW

PORT HARDY — Private charges and counter charges under the Criminal Code were being drawn up today in connection with picket line violence at Utah Mines Ltd. Monday.

RCMP said private information was being filed by a company supervisor and by three pickets involved in a fight when tension erupted between the company and the newly-certified Office and Technical Employees Union.

Police said the supervisor was charging three pickets with common assault and two pickets with mischief by interfering with the operation of his automobile.

The supervisor was being charged with common assault upon pickets.

Police said they were acting on behalf of the individuals, not for the crown.

There have been no incidents since Monday night when two old vehicles used by the company to blockade access to the mine property were burned by persons unknown.

Police said no charges are contemplated in that connection.

Trouble broke out when members of the locked-out International Union of Operating Engineers Local 115 in support of the office workers turned out in large numbers and blocked access to the mine before the company placed the vehicles across the road.

Operating engineers said they were trying to force resumption of negotiating talks which had broken down. Office and Technical Employees are seeking their first contract with Utah and are on legal strike.

Meanwhile, Bill Swanson, a senior officer of the OTEU, arrived Wednesday in Port Hardy to take park in reopened talks involving provincial mediation officer Fred Geddes.

The plane carrying Geddes from Vancouver was unable to land due to fog, which persisted today, and plans were to resume negotiations without him, according to Dan McCauly, chairman of negotiations for the operating engineers.

O.K. Firms' Men To Vote on Union

Employees of the O.K. group of companies will vote Friday on which of two unions they wish to join.

The representation vote was ordered by the B.C. Labor Relations Board among nine of the companies.

The two unions seeking to represent the 130 employees are the Three-Way Pact (Teamsters, Operating Engineers and Laborers) and the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers.

Voting will be held in Victoria and Courtenay and counting of ballots is scheduled for Saturday.

The nine companies are O.K. Trucking Company Limited, O.K. Paving Company Limited, Sangha Equipment Rentals Limited, O.K. Equipment Company Limited, Tayco Paving Company Limited, Tayco Paving, O.K. Paving Upper Island Limited, Pioneer Paving Company Limited and Crown Paving Company Limited.

The Three-Way Pact represents one of the companies and the CBRT four.

Teamsters Union business agent Frank Peters said today the Three-Way Pact is urging employees to join it because of a superior contract — $1 to $1.50 an hour above CBRT — and better job opportunities.

"The employees would join the family of building trades so job opportunity is significant," he said.

Dick Henham, regional vice-president of CBRT, said the Three-Way Pact has been unsuccessful in the past in organizing O.K. companies while CBRT has taken employees from low wages to "a good area" and he promised continuation of this.

He said CBRT is a Canadian union with all dues staying inside the country and "we have plenty of job opportunities" because CBRT "represents companies that do 80 per cent of the paving on Vancouver Island."

The savings are on us.

When you buy an Austin Marina you save money from day one. Because Marina gives you a lot more car than other imports and more extras than most domestics.

When you buy a Marina you get a handling and performance package that includes front power disc brakes, radial tires, rack and pinion steering, torsion bar front suspension and an 1800cc engine as in the renowned MGB.

Throw in electrocoat primer, deep gloss paint and 32 square feet of undercoat and there's even greater value. Austin Marina also gives you a heavy-duty battery and alternator, pre-engaged starter, electrically heated rear window, door-to-door carpeting and reclining front seats. About the only extras you can buy are automatic transmission and radio.

Really, owning an Austin Marina is like having a savings account instead of a charge account. And it's because of this kind of value and because all Austins are backed by regional parts depots and a coast-to-coast dealer network that some people call us "The Austin Savings & Trust."

Inquest Told Siren Faulty

A siren switch in the Saanich police cruiser involved in a fatal accident Sept. 2 at the intersection of Tillicum and Trans-Canada Highway was defective, a coroner's jury was told Wednesday.

The jury hearing evidence concerning the death of Barbara Anne Payne, 35, of 831 Ellery, was told by Saanich police Sgt. Anthony Clark the switch in Constable Allan Kangas's cruiser was actually set to operate the car's public address system when it was in position to operate the siren manually.

"The switch was indicating the wrong position to activate the siren," he said.

Clark said the siren also would not work when a siren-pedal on the floor was pushed.

He testified that the cruiser, which had been westbound on the Trans-Canada Highway had made a 212-foot skid mark.

The cruiser's breaks appeared in good working order.

The speed limit on the highway, he said, is 40 m.p.h.

Kangas's lawyer, Cecil Branson, told the inquest that according to the B.C. Manual for Safe Driving 140 feet are required to stop at that speed.

The night of the accident was dry and clear. Clark said.

The inquest was adjourned to tonight, with 14 witnesses still to be heard.

Eased Voting Urged

VERNON (CP) — Voting rights should be restored to non-resident property owners for municipal elections, delegates to the Union of British Columbia Municipalities convention said Wednesday.

The UBCM, beginning consideration of 86 resolutions, rejected a resolution that would have asked that municipal elections be moved from the third Saturday in November to the second Saturday in December.

Also turned down was a resolution that would have given mayors and councils greater flexibility in the declaring of emergencies.

E&N CLOSURE SOUGHT

Canadian Pacific has filed its application to discontinue passenger service on the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway, but no date has been set for public hearings.

The intention to file was stated earlier and information was sent to the Canadian Transport Commission Sept. 6 from CP head office in Montreal.

CP stated "It is not considered feasible to operate the whole or part of the service by changing the method of operation or by interconnection."

Previous attempts to discontinue the diesel car service — daily except Sunday between Victoria and Courtenay — have been rejected by the transport commission.

Suspects Probed In Public?

A new style of interrogation for suspects in certain more serious crimes was suggested Wednesday by Atttorney-General Alex Maedonald.

The minister said he wants to see public discussion of an "interesting proposal" by the Canada Law Reform Commission suggesting interrogation of suspects should be carried out in public before a judicial officer.

If questioning was carried on in an open forum, he said, "then much of the kind of questioning that goes on in a police setting might be unnecessary."

Society has made "such a sacrosanct thing out of silence," said Macdonald, when in some situations a suspected criminal owes society an explanation.

He said it might be necessary to compel suspects to testify or adopt a principle whereby it would be considered an inference of guilt not to testify.

Apples Not So Rosy

KELOWNA (CP) — The 1974 Okanagan Valley apple crop will show a decrease of about 25 per cent from the record-setting seven million boxes harvested last year.

A spokesman for British Columbia Tree Fruits Ltd. said Wednesday although the crop is of good quality, the volume would be down.

The Macintosh harvest would be the smallest in recent years. Workers have been harvesting the crop for the last two weeks. Harvesting of other varieties is expected to begin next week.

The Red Delicious apple crop will be down about 23 per cent from last year's figure of two million boxes, the company spokesman said. Golden Delicious will show a decrease of about 14 per cent to 560,000 boxes.

Spartan apples, the newest commercial variety, will be down about 22 per cent to 787,000 boxes. A record million boxes were picked last year.

Mine Plans Delayed

Mines Minister Leo Nimsick said Wednesday he will wait until the end of September before announcing any decision on methods of sparking new mine development in B.C.

Meanwhile, he said, a "few" mining companies have written him expressing enthusiasm that relief may be in sight for new mines.

Nimsick announced two weeks ago he was concerned about the absence of new mines in the province and said he might consider changes in the controversial new Mineral Royalties Act to provide incentives for new mine development.

Before making the decision, he said he hoped to hear from the mining industry on other possible solutions to the problem.

The letters he has received so far have been enthusiastic about the announcement, said Nimsick, but their suggestions have been vague.

The new fuel for the new cars.

If you're thinking of buying a new car, you may need a new kind of fuel. Esso 2000 Unleaded gasoline. Developed by Esso research to match the performance requirements of today's engines.

For all '75's with a catalytic converter, unleaded gas is a must. The car manufacturers will tell you that. Even if unleaded gas is not specified, Esso 2000, can still be beneficial to your new car. Here's why:

With regular use over an extended period of time Esso 2000 Unleaded can keep critical components of your engine cleaner, especially if used from the beginning of your car's life. Esso 2000 gasoline contains special detergent additives which help maintain carburetor cleanliness. These additives control deposits that may interfere with combustion efficiency.

Regular use of Esso 2000 Unleaded also means longer spark plug life. Mufflers last longer, too. Which means that if you start with Esso 2000 and stay with Esso 2000, lower maintenance costs can be expected over the life of your car.

In addition to those useful benefits, it's nice to know that Esso 2000 Unleaded gasoline can help maintain exhaust emission standards. Overall, the result is a more efficient, smoother-running engine.

What if you drive an older car? Check your owner's manual. Many '71 and later cars can use unleaded gas as well. For those cars Esso 2000 Unleaded can help extend spark plug and muffler life.

Meanwhile, if you're heading for the new car showrooms, Esso 2000 Unleaded is the name to remember. The new fuel for the new cars.

Industrial Outlook 'Gloomy'

LONDON (Reuter) — The Bank of England in its latest quarterly bulletin paints a gloomy picture of western industrial countries, showing only weak signs of recovery from the recent fall in production.

In the bulletin, which takes a general look at the first half of this year, the British central bank said today that a fall in demand led to a small drop in output of goods in industrial countries in the first six months of 1974.

Because of the fuel crisis, it went on to say, production fell in the United States, Japan, and Britain earlier in the year and also fell slightly in West Germany. In France and Italy, production rose in the early part of the year.

There was a slight recovery in the United States in the second quarter, and production continued growing in Italy, the bank said. But figures levelled off for France and West Germany, and there was a further drop in Japan where the impact of oil prices has been most severe.

"Any tendency for demand and output to recover in industrialized countries is undoubtedly weak as yet," the bank said.

Although these countries are still struggling against inflation, the bank sees some hope of containing the price explosion.

Inflation "continued at alarming rates" in the second quarter. But the more expensive Arab oil had now been absorbed into western domestic prices, and falling costs of other industrial materials should help to reinforce counter-inflationary policies in most countries.

British production had recovered from the short working week at the turn of the year, and the balance-of-payments deficit had been offset by inflows of capital. But the bank warned that the deficit must be reduced to maintain Britain's international credibility, and efforts should be made to improve it before help can be sought from the oil from the North Sea.

The bank also warned of poor profit prospects for British industry and said continued expansion of investment was crucial.

AUTO TRADE DEFICIT

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada had a deficit of more than $300 million in automotive trade with the United States during the first half of the year, Statistics Canada reports.

The value of exports slumped 8.5 per cent below the total for the same period of 1973. The first-half total was $2.622 billion this year and $2.872 billion last year.

Imports increased 7.4 per cent to $3.151 billion in the first half of this year from $2.934 billion in the same period of 1973.

"The fall in U.S. demand for Canadian automotive products was primarily the result of a large contraction in sales of new cars in the United States," the federal agency said Tuesday. "At the same time, Canadian demand for cars and trucks remained high, resulting in increased imports in the first half of 1974."

The $529-million deficit in the first half compared with a deficit of only $62 million in the first half of 1973.

In trade with other countries, the first-half deficit was $305 million compared with a deficit of $237 million in the first half of last year. There was a decline in imports to South America and an increase in exports from Japan and Europe.

The average price of Japanese imports rose by 9.5 per cent, British imports by 14.5 per cent and German imports by 16 per cent.

Broker Believes U.S. Economy Turning Corner

CALGARY (CP) — The chairman of the American Stock Exchange says he believes that the United States economy will improve in the foreseeable future.

Inflation will be checked and there will be a peaking of interest rates, Paul Kolton told a news conference.

"I feel reasonably confident that in the not too distant future market conditions will change for the better."

Kolton and other officials of the exchange were in Calgary meeting with members of the local exchange community, representatives of companies listed in the American Stock Exchange and executives of companies qualified for listing.

The American Stock Exchange wants to see more Canadian company listings, which already account for a substantial amount of the total exchange market volume.

He said the Amex natural resource index, in which 42 Canadian issues are grouped, has shown the best performance to date of the eight industrial sub-indexes calculated daily by the exchange.

And getting to know the business community in Calgary is important, since it is the headquarters for more than 400 companies directly connected with the petroleum industry.

The American Stock Exchange, second largest in the United States, is the principal U.S. market for 50 major Canadian stock issues. The market volume of these Canadian issues totalled $14 million, or 36.1 per cent of the market volume of the exchange list, at the end of 1973.

Two Canadian oil issues — the common shares of Imperial Oil and Gulf Oil Canada — top all American Stock Exchange traded securities in terms of a combined market worth nearly $5 billion.

However, both companies are controlled by parent corporations in the United States — Imperial Oil is a 70-per-cent owned subsidiary of Exxon Corp. and Gulf Oil Canada is a 69-per-cent-owned subsidiary of Gulf Oil.

Both for economy and efficiency of operation, the American and the New York stock exchanges are looking at ways of increased co-operation. Already the securities industry Automation Corp., a subsidiary of both exchanges, is serving as a central clearing house.

Kolton said the anticipated improvement in the U.S. economy and the recent removal of the U.S. interest equalization tax, which penalized Canadian investors if they sold a taxable Canadian issue in the U.S. market, "should encourage more Canadian companies to seek listings on the American Stock Exchange."

Eased Lending Urged

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's chartered banks are not making a big enough effort to provide term loans to small businesses, the president of the Canadian Federation of Independent Business reports.

John Bulloch of Toronto said a survey of federation members shows new businesses less than four years old are having the most trouble getting bank financing.

The survey showed, however, that independent businessmen overwhelmingly prefer to deal with chartered banks for their cash needs, Bulloch told the Canadian Conference on Banking.

Furthermore, 63 per cent of businesses surveyed said banks are filling their needs for short-term operating loans to finance accounts receivable and inventories, said by Mr. Bulloch to be "undoubtedly the most important service the banks provide to independent business."

"It is evident from the study that all the problems relating to the financing of new and growing businesses cannot be laid on the doorstep of the chartered banks," he said.

"In many instances, small firms lack an adequate equity basis to justify conventional loans."

J. K. Finlayson, deputy chairman and executive vice-president of the Royal Bank of Canada, said the chartered banks are "heavily and aggressively" committed to supporting independent businesses.

"The heart of Canadian banking is — along with personal accounts — the servicing of small businesses," he said.

Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch
Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.
A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.
One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.
And most important—this improvement was maintained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these tests and observations were made on patients with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. All this was accomplished with a healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.
In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a stated cause of hemorrhoids.
Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Creditors Besiege ICCS

SAIGON (UPI) — American creditors are threatening to force the debt-ridden international truce team to halt peacekeeping operations in South Vietnam.

Two U.S. contractors vowed Wednesday to cut off vital supplies to the International Commission of Control and Supervision unless the four-nation peace group pays its bills.

The firms — Air America and Pacific Architeets and Engineers — have provided food, transporation, security and maintenance for the ICCS mission over the past 20 months.

"We have informed the ICCS in early August, and very recently, that we need payment if we are to continue to support their activities," a PA&E spokesman said.

He said PA&E and Air America "are in the process because it has become apparent that the ICCS is without operating funds."

PA&E threatened to phase out all services by the end of this month. "What the effects will be, we are unable to judge, but we understand the ICCS has other alternatives," the firm said.

The truce team, made up of delegates from Iran, Indonesia, Hungary and Poland, piled up debts of about $6 million in the fiscal year ending last April 1.

The 1973 truce accord calls for the signatories — the United States, South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong — to pay 23.5 per cent each of the peacekeeping budget. The truce nations pay the rest.

The United States, however, is the only signer to pay its share of the new $24.5 million budget. South Vietnam has agreed, but has yet to pay. North Vietnam and the Viet Cong have refused.

In moves to cut back expenses, the truce team has grounded two-thirds of its 20 helicopters and has made plans to move some regional units to Saigon, ICCS sources said.

Air America and PA&E are supposed to receive at least $16.5 million out of the truce team's $24.5 million budget.

Air America, a commercial airline frequently used by the Central Intelligence Agency in the Indochina conflict, has been providing air transportation for ICCS delegates.

PA&E, which did construction work for the U.S. armed forces during the Indochina war, has been in charge of housing, security and food for the 26 regional truce teams.

CP PLANS EXIT

CP Steamships is studying a move of its Victoria stores operation to Vancouver, where the rest of the marine division has been based since 1963.

"We are looking at the possibility of consolidating the stores operation in Vancouver," a spokesman said.

He said although the ships Princess Patricia and Princess Marguerite are based here and are mothballed here after their summer service concludes, Patricia works out of Vancouver during the Alaska cruise season now ending.

To provision Patricia from Vancouver would be more convenient, it was suggested.

GAS LEAK POWDERKEG

MARACAIBO (Reuter) — This western Venezuelan oil centre is sitting on a virtual powder keg today because of leakages from the city's obsolete gas network, municipal authorities said.

Officials told a news conference that the atmosphere was polluted by about 6,180 million cubic feet of gas seeping annually through more than 10,000 leaks detected so far in the 250-mile network.

Weekly Newspaper Reporters Honored

VANCOUVER — Jim Ulrich of the Comox District Free Press won the $500 first prize in MacMillan Bloedel's 12th annual competition for writers on B.C.'s weekly and semi-weekly newspapers.

Ulrich won with a three-part series on continuing aerial surveillance in the Arctic by Canadian forces at CFB Comox. He accompanied crews during one mission over the Arctic.

Baird Blackstone of the White Rock and Surrey Sun received $250 for second place. Lorna Deacon of the Quesnel Cariboo Observer, and Gary Cleve and Ed Sager of the Haney Gazette won honorable mentions worth $100 each.

'No Blame' In Drowning

TOFINO (CP) — A coroner's jury has ruled that no one was to blame for the Aug. 31 drowning deaths of Bessie Horner, 65, of Burks Falls, Ont., and her granddaughter Bonnie Horner, 10, of Gibsons.

Coroner Hugo Peterson found the two died when their rubber dinghy, which he described as "a glorified inner tube" capsized because it was not suited to ocean waters.

$170,000 To Cancer Campaign

Vancouver Island donors have given more than $170,000 to the 1974 Conquer Cancer Campaign, now in its last two weeks. Greater Victoria area donors contributed $124,000 of that total.

More than $1 million has been raised across B.C., $880,000 through direct contributions and $200,000 from memorial contributions.

To date $771,000 from the 1974 campaign has been assigned to cancer research programs in B.C.

PUB TALKS PLANNED

A public debate on the proposed Fernwood pub will be organized by the Fernwood Community Association.

As well, the group will conduct a plebiscite in the area on how residents feel toward the pub idea.

The vote will be taken by placing ballots in all business and meeting places in the district.

Early in July, a group led by Ron Spence, a former president of the association, announced intention of establishing a pub at the corner of Fernwood and Gladstone.

A petition against the pub is being circulated.

Hans Frederiksen, president, said the community association has not taken a position on the pub controversy and will be directed by the results of the plebiscite.

Some residents at a meeting this week said they were not opposed to the establishment of a pub, just the proposed location, which they said is too near the school.

Two Key Posers in Priory Case

Who are the legitimate members of the Society of the Love of Jesus? And were those alleged to have been dismissed from the society removed by proper legal means?

Mr. Justice H. C. McKay said in B.C. Supreme Court Wednesday he sees these questions as the ones he must determine in the lengthy trial he is presiding over — and the lawyers for the two warring factions within the society agreed.

The society, a Roman Catholic community of religious sisters, operates an extended care hospital and a home for the aged at St. Mary's Priory in Langford. It has assets estimated at $1.5 million.

The judge visited the priory site briefly this morning, to familiarize himself with the layout, before opening the eighth day of the trial at the Law Courts.

Five plaintiffs, who, the church will argue, have been dismissed from the society, are suing for control of the society.

Termed the "traditional" faction, they include Mother Cecilia Mary Dodd, 85, who founded the society 52 years ago and who now runs an animal shelter at Mill Bay, and Sisters Mary Agnes Eaton, Mary Josephine Donovan, Mary Lucy Forde and Mary Julia Kelly. Their counsel is Hugh McMillan.

The "modern" faction, which has control of the society at present, includes Mother Prioress Leonette Hoesing and sisters Mary Elizabeth Dumbowski, Mary Grace Neider and Mary Patricia Jones.

In their brief discussion Wednesday on what lies at the heart of the case, both McMillan and Branson indicated they will be pointing to the same two past legal cases to support opposite points of view.

In evidence earlier in the day, Sister Mary Agnes Eaton, McMillan's fourth witness, told how she had been offended by activities permitted at the priory in recent years which had in the past been the cloistered residence of the nuns.

Under Prioress Hoesing, "meditation" and "encounter" groups had been allowed to meet and sometimes stay overnight at the big four-storey convent, she said.

The meditation group had been allowed to bed down wherever members wanted. She suggested some among them "used drugs," there was a "sickly odor" and they were "sort of hippie types."

Of the encounter group, she said they posted centrefolds from Playboy on walls of the convent's community room — "I thought that was going a bit too far."

Sister Eaton said her objections to these and other group activities were that they were taking place in a convent.

When Mother Leonette first came to the society (in 1965), she said the patients then housed in the priory building must go because they disturbed the sisters, said Sister Eaton. But then the group activities followed.

After one of a number of complaints to Leonette, Sister Eaton said she was told: "These people are ill and they need help."

The plaintiff sisters have complained they have been shunted aside in recent years and assigned no tasks in the community.

Sister Eaton said after repeatedly asking Mother Leonette to assign her some work, she was told: "Sister, I haven't any work to do myself. How can I give you any work?"

One of the issues the plaintiffs list is the failure of the community to say the Divine Office, a lengthy series of daily prayers, together, as had been traditional.

Sister Mary Josephine Donovan testified earlier that Mother Leonette had discontinued taking Divine Office with the traditional group after Sister Donovan emphasized the word "enemies," which occurs frequently throughout the spoken prayers.

Schools Threatening Employees—CUPE

The Canadian Union of Public Employees, Local 382 Wednesday called for an education department investigation of the Greater Victoria school board for threatening and intimidating its employees.

"The dictators are still empire building and this local intends to do its utmost to inform the public and requests an investigation into this board of administering "nothing but intimidation, threats and coercion of its employees and manages to cause nothing but problems with its employees.

"The dictators are still empire building and this local intends to do its utmost to inform the public and requests an investigation into this school district by the education department."

Board chairman Peter Bunn responded today: "This is a typical union ploy prior to commencement of negotiations.

"It is just the typical pressure play, the gaining of stance prior to the getting down to bargaining.

"The education department has enough work to do for the next 10 years just catching up with what it hasn't done in the last two," Bunn said of the suggested investigation.

The union, representing custodial and maintenance workers at local schools, said its members have "withdrawn their services" for night school and rentals of gyms.

"We regret that this action had to be taken but we feel we had no choice."

It said rating of schools to equalize the workloads of custodians and janitors, part of the agreement reached during the strike in 1973, has not been implemented.

"In late April and early May of this year we requested a labor officer be present to try to solve this and other infractions of the contract by management.

"They were told to settle this matter and others with the union. This they have not done. In fact they haven't even tried since May to rate any schools until such time as the union served ntice of the action they intended to take."

Talks aimed at settling the dispute last Thursday failed.

The school board has asked Labor Minister Bill King to intervene in the dispute.

Bunn said superintendent of schools Jake Longmore had a good talk with King about the dispute, but added that King was "not prepared to get involved at this time."

Age of The Non-Talker: Three Likely Reasons

As I may possibly have remarked before, I disagree entirely with my friend Gorde Hunter's attitude to hitch-hikers since I consider it equally unlikely that he'll be coshed by a male or accused of simulated rape by a female which, as he noted in a recent column, are his main reasons for never ever stopping.

But of late, I must admit, my life-long policy of stopping for anyone who sticks out a thumb, largely a selfish exercise to find out what other people are thinking about, has been under a bit of a strain.

Fact is I've become painfully conscious that among the young of today there seems to be a great many advanced cases of what John Collier has called Conversational Elephantiasis.

There is something of a to-do these days about students reaching the university level without being able to spell or to handle the basic elements of grammar, one answer being crash remedial courses. But I wonder if we shouldn't be more concerned that we're rearing a generation that has a built-in inability to articulate in the most basic kind of communication, by mouth.

It is generalizing of the worst kind, I admit, but I would guess that four out of every five young men or women I encounter on the highways seem incapable of uttering a declarative sentence. As one who's always prided himself on an ability to draw out a person, an essential occupational ability in the trade I've followed, I'm appalled by what seems either a reluctance or an incapability to put ideas or impressions or thoughts into any kind of coherent flow of words.

The subject has interested me so much in this past year, though I've not written of it because of my feeling that we're hard enough, as it is, on young people, that I've discussed it often with teachers who are in the best position to know whether or not it's a cause for alarm.

A frequent explanation, perhaps the most charitable, is the suggestion that I've simply come up against the generation gap, that so many young people are turned off by the mess we've left for them that they simply refuse to open themselves up to a dialogue.

My guess is that there's some truth in this. Very often, when I've penetrated the iron mask of some of my riders, I've found the most extraordinary scepticism towards adults generally, an unwillingness to believe that there's anything to be gained by even a friendly rap with a stranger.

A more critical explanation is the undeniable fact that communication by speech is one of the gravest shortcomings of the school system, that we turn out high school graduates who have never learned to express themselves conversationally.

A teacher I admire tells me, for example, that a student may go through the entire experience of primary and secondary schools without ever being asked to express himself verbally. In two years as an exchange teacher in Manchester, he says, he was struck by the way English youngsters are thrown into debate, into oral exercises and discussion groups that simply have no counterpart in our curriculum. "We do not teach children in this country to talk," he concludes. "If they are not natural-born talkers, and not very many of them are, school teaches them only that the safest route is to say nothing at all."

If this is true, and I expect it is, it means that there's been very little change in teaching methods since my own school days when the shy girl or the shy boy was inculcated with an inferiority feeling that could last a lifetime.

The third explanation, the one that seems to me the weightiest, is that I am encountering the first real products of the age of television, of homes where conversation had become a rarity because the entire family is glued to the tiny screen and the flickering shadows became a substitute for talk in the one arena where it was once dominant.

LIGHTING UP before the current price of cigarettes goes up in smoke are Mrs. Venus McArthur, left, and Penny Hopkins, both of 9768 Third St., Sidney. Imperial Tobacco has announced it'll be worth more to quit smoking at the end of this month. Starting Oct. 1 a 20 or 25 cigarette package will cost two cents more and the price of a carton will be hiked 20 cents because of increases at the wholesale level. Other cigarette manufacturers are expected to follow suit.

Non-Profit Housing Plan Platform of Candidate

The Capital Region Tenants' Association Wednesday endorsed association president Ann Tarasoff as a candidate for Victoria alderman in the November civic elections.

Tarasoff, 701 Esquimalt Road, said today the main issue in her platofrm would be the construction of non-profit housing accommodation in the city.

"There is almost a no-vacancy rate in Victoria now and because money is available to municipalities for housing, we feel that if we are not represented on council the issue will not be brought up," she said.

"All councils need tenant representatives on them and we intend to get a full slate of candidates to run in all municipalities."

Tarasoff said the executive of the association would be looking for people willing to run in other municipalities in the region.

Tarasoff has been a member of the association since it was formed in 1969.

She said the group is now concentrating on circulating a petition which will be presented to provincial cabinet ministers at a meeting Sept. 25.

Appointments with Attorney-General Alex Macdonald, Consumer Affairs Minister Phyllis Young, Housing Minister Lorne Nicolson and Human Resources Minister Norm Levi have been confirmed.

The petition opposes the lifting of legislation which limits rent increases to eight per cent and asks the government to enter into a "massive non-profit housing construction program."

Tenants' associations from throughout B.C. will be represented at the meeting.

WITNESS LIST GROWS BY ONE

A third man has been added to the list of possible witnesses Esquimalt police are seeking in connection with the brutal murder of two women in the municipality Sept. 6.

Police chief Arthur Burton said the additional witness was reported by a lady on a bus who remembered seeing a young man walking south to north on Constance across Esquimalt at 2:20 p.m. either minutes before or after the murders had occurred.

She described the man as about 5 feet, 11 inches tall with sharp features, dark complexion and wearing an olive green work suit. He was carrying a small parcel.

Police believe the man resides in the immediate area of Ray's Food Market, 1325 Esquimalt, where Isobel Plume, 51, and Florence Bevan, 62, were bludgeoned and stabbed sometime between 1:55 and 2:30 p.m.

Burton said two other witnesses are still being sought.

Both young men are in their 20s, one was apparently lounging against a fence abutting a vacant lot opposite the liquor store half a block away about the time of the murders. He is described as 5 feet, 10 inches tall, clean cut, with dark hair blocked at the back and wearing blue denims.

The other man, about the same height and complexion though stockier and attired also in blue denims was reportedly in the small corner grocery store sometime between 2 and 2:10 p.m. He was overheard, inquiring about where he might purchase some crab meat, by a customer just leaving.

Machine Candy Up

Victoria vending machine operators will follow the lead of retail stores and increase the price of candy bars to 20 cents.

Ryan Co. manager Bob Alexander said the company received its new stock two weeks ago and the 20 cent price tags had been in effect for a week.

A spokesman for Lewis Vending Machines Ltd., said the company was trying to hold prices down but indicated they would probably rise to the 20-cent level within a few weeks.

Cruiser Crashes

A Victoria police cruiser was in a minor accident Wednesday at Douglas and Fisgard.

City police report today the cruiser, driven by Const. J. McDonald, was in collision with a car driven by Margaret Chesson, 3944 Winton.

Both vehicles were southbound.

Damage to both cars is estimated at $175. There were no injuries.

Tough Times Ahead

Because of inflation, this year's target is up by more than 10 per cent over last year's, he said.

"It looks like a tough year to raise funds. So there is an even greater need to support the United Way."

He urged delegates to donate by payroll deduction and asked them to consider "something in the neighborhood of an hour's pay a month."

Osler said without labor's support "there would be very little likelihood of success." While many people felt the new provincial government would be funding many of the 23 agencies, this hasn't happened and "we are charged with filling the void."

The council endorsed this year's United Way Campaign and will ask its affiliated unions to support the drive.

Retirement Early For Beetle Expert

Dr. John Chapman, internationally-known scientist with the Canadian Forestry Service, has retired after 21 years with the Pacific Forest Research Centre in Victoria.

A specialist in insect physiology, his work on ambrosia beetles led to the forest industry being able to produce a timetable for felling timber that would bypass beetle attacks.

M. H Drinkwater, director of the Victoria centre, says Chapman's work has had a strong influence, not only in North America, but in other parts of the world where bark beetles are a problem.

Chapman's studies also helped determine what factors led beetles to attack certain logs.

He will continue to write scientific papers, of which he has written more than 50.

Active in a number of local natural history groups, Chapman was associated with the National Science Foundation and the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He was a member of the Biological Council of Canada and served as president of the Entomological Society of British Columbia.

Recreation Utopia Promised Oak Bay

Every Oak Bay resident will have a swimming pool, sauna, whirlpool, curling rink and ice arena within one and a half miles of his front doorstep.

The Utopian-like edict comes from the municipality's superintendent of parks and recreation Duncan Russell and fruition of facilities is slated for September, 1975.

Emerging from the concrete and steel construction site at the corner of Bee and Goldsmith streets adjacent to Oak Bay junior secondary school is the municipality's $3 million Oak Bay recreation centre, one-third completed.

A newsletter circulated to residents this week shows the multi-dimension components, including the regulation ice arena, eight lane, 25-metre pool, a training pool designed for use by senior citizens and swimming classes, two saunas, a whirlpool and curling rink as well as a social lounge on the second floor with glassed-in view of the recreational activities going on below.

In the works, are negotiations with the Greater Victoria school board for four covered tennis courts directly behind, and plans include offering school students a tennis instruction option.

"It's all kind of exciting," says Russell.

The complex will also have spill-off advantages for Victoria residents.

"The location is on the boundary of Victoria and Oak Bay and we have no intentions of using it exclusively for our residents."

He wants every inch of the building "serving all the people all the time."

The complex is funded jointly by federal, provincial and municipal governments and construction was started in January after one year's work assembling the four-acre site at a cost of $600,000.

Q. Please define the differences in the following jobs within the bureaucratic world? M.M.

A. There is no job specifications in the public service for either administrative assistant or executive assistant. Generally, however, an administrative assistant's duties are confined to acting for a minister within the minister's department while an executive assistant can also work for the minister in his constituency, assuming duties with political connotations. A personal secretary handles correspondence and other personal business for an employer while a press secretary is an information officer.

There's an Explanation, But It Doesn't Explain

THE RUGBY SCENE

By Max Low

Why do three Irishmen play rugby for a Scottish university in Canada?

You start off by asking the question quite innocently in the Edinburgh University team's dressing room after their 25-0 defeat Tuesday night at the hands of UVic Vikings.

And some time later, after several rounds of the most confusing dialogue in the true Irish tradition and a barrage of ethnic jokes, you are still none the wiser.

So you turn to a sober Scotsman (sober meaning serious, that is) and assistant-manager and B.C. tour arranger Gordon Wilson tells you there has been a long-time tradition of Irishmen going to Scotland to study.

Wilson points out there were four Irishmen in the party — Peter Gray, Steve Hagan, Euan Wilson and Ian Davey — but only three played Tuesday night.

"There would have been a Canadian along with us, too," Wilson said, "but Alastair Hamilton, whose home town is Vancouver, had to stay in Edinburgh to study for exams."

The other two who played were Hagan, 20, a civil engineering student from Bangor in Northern Ireland, and Wilson, a 21-year-old chemical engineering student from Belfast.

And all three said the reason they chose Scotland to study was "to make new friends."

"You know, it's a bit narrow to go to school in your home town," suggested Euan Wilson.

The Scottish-Irish mixture seemed to work out fine. They were an extremely friendly bunch, who got on well together and with those they met. But they were ill-prepared for what was the first game on their first-ever visit to North America.

Rarely do you see a game in which the merits of being fit and the folly of being terribly unfit are both underlined so clearly.

Veteran playing-coach Alan Rees, who at 38 qualified to play on the student team because he has been accredited as an MA student, has put his Vikings through the most strenuous training sessions every day for almost the last month. The Vikings didn't go into this game cold; they had played several matches including last weekend's 42-3 romp over Castaways of the Victoria Union's first division.

On the other boot, you have Edinburgh manager-coach Jim Harris explaining in a rather helpless fashion that their league season doesn't start until Oct. 5.

The Scottish team was supposed to be a strong one. There are half a dozen players who regularly represent the Scottish Universities Rep team, several who play for the Edinburgh Under-23 side and two who are reserves for the powerful British Universities squad.

There was obvious talent in just about every position and yet a team of this calibre came to Victoria without having played a single match and having only "trained lightly" for one week.

Unless this was intended to be nothing more than a holiday, it seems rather pointless to come such a great distance and play such poor rugby.

Ball Coach Bankrupt

CHICAGO (AP) — Johnny Sain, pitching coach for Chicago White Sox of baseball's American League, has filed for bankruptcy. Sain claimed debts of about $24,000 in his former home of Walnut Ridge, Ark., and assets of $1,000. In 1973 Sain earned a salary of $27,500 and also received $15,000 from baseball's pension plan.

Booth Leads

Three players from Reynolds Roadrunners dominate the individual scoring race in the Greater Victoria High School Soccer League.

Greg Booth occupies the top rung with nine goals while clubmates Mike Dominique and Drew Finerty are tied for second with four goals apiece.

The league starts its fourth round of matches Friday with winless Esquimalt Dockers tangling with Claremont Spartans in the feature match at 8 p.m. in Royal Athletic Park.

FOREMAN TO PICK FIGHT DATE

KINSHASA, Zaire (Reuter) — World heavyweight champion George Foreman today was keeping Zaire, Muhammad Ali and boxing fans around the globe guessing about the new date for the "fight of the century."

Foreman said Wednesday he alone would decide when the bout will take place. It was put back from Sept. 25 because of an eye injury the champion suffered in training Monday.

Appearing at the training hall in Nsele for the first time since the accident, he told a press conference: "George Foreman is the doctor."

Can Team Canada Do It Again?

TORONTO (CP) — Bruce MacGregor, an unsung hero in Team Canada's 3-3 deadlock with the Soviet Union in the opening game of the 1974 hockey summit series, raised a question Wednesday about Canada's ability to play two good games in a row.

"Sometimes, when you're not in top shape, you can't reach back for the extra energy you need," said the red-haired right winger, who jumped to Edmonton Oilers of the World Hockey Association from New York Rangers of the National Hockey League.

"I'm not saying it will happen that way, but it could."

MacGregor said the Russian team, while outstanding, produced no surprises.

"We knew they were fast and we knew they were strong physically. But they weren't any more physical than I had expected."

MacGregor, a noted playoff performer and solid checker, agreed Russian netminder Vladislav Tretiak was brilliant.

His statements echoed those of coach Billy Harris, who suggested Team Canada again had under-rated the lanky Soviet star. Tretiak was considered the Soviets' weak point before the 1972 Canada-Russia series, but played well.

Before the opening of the current series, which continues here tonight with the second game, some suggested Tretiak had played beyond his capacity two years ago.

"If anything," said Harris, "Tretiak is better than he was two years ago."

Harris announced Team Canada will make one change from the lineup that rallied to overtake the Soviet Union in Quebec City Tuesday night. Mark Howe will play left wing and Marc Tardif will be rested.

Harris said Mark, who emerged from a training-camp slump with four points in the final game of an exhibition series with a western junior all-star team, will play beside his father, Gordie, and centre Ralph Backstrom.

Tardif's spot on the French Selection, beside right winger Reggie Houle and centre Serge Bernier, will be filled by Frank Mahovlich, who spoke confidently Wednesday about Team Canada's prospects for the rest of the series.

Mahovlich made no apologies for missing the net by inches when Gordie Howe sent him in on Tretiak with 36 seconds remaining. He accepted the fact that Tretiak did what he had to do—forcing the Big M to wait a fraction too long before shooting.

"Frank made a great play to get in front," said Harris. "Tretiak made even a better play to beat him."

Harris also said the Team Canada alternates in the first two games—defencemen Marty Howe, Pat Price and Al Hamilton and forwards Jim Harrison and Tom Webster—will get a chance to play in Winnipeg Saturday, when the third game is scheduled.

He indicated previously that goaltender Don McLeod probably will start the third game.

9¾% EVERY YEAR FOR 9 YEARS

GOOD NEWS ABOUT THE CANADA SAVINGS BONDS YOU NOW OWN!

If you are one of the two million Canadians who already own past series of Canada Savings Bonds here's good news for you. The cash bonus payments announced last May have been increased to produce, from September 1, 1974 to maturity, an average annual yield of 10½%.

Everyone who owns unmatured Canada Savings Bonds, dated on or prior to Nov. 1, 1973, will be entitled to receive the new, higher cash bonus payments on the dates payable, provided that the bonds have not been cashed in the meantime.
Here are further details.

1. When a cash bonus becomes due, simply present your bond to any Bank or authorized Trust or Loan Company and Caisse Populaire and you will get your bonus immediately.
2. For tax purposes, the Government of Canada proposes to permit taxpayers to treat cash bonus payments either as interest income or capital gains. As a result, if holders include such interest under the proposed $1,000 deduction for interest income, the bonus payments will become exempt from tax. Alternatively the holder may find it to his advantage to include the bonus under the favourable tax treatment accorded to capital gains.
3. The cash bonus payments are in addition to all the other outstanding features of your Canada Savings Bonds. Bondholders who are taking advantage of compound interest privileges may continue to do so and will continue to be paid compound interest in the amounts specified at the time of issue of each series.

All Hail The Canucks; Now, About that Ferry...

Today: the press conference. Tomorrow: the season. It was ever thus. But at least this year Victorians are a lot closer to the only B.C. team in professional hockey than they were before. The Vancouver Canucks are guests here this week as they prepare for year five in the National League, and it's nice to see.

So it's the first time they've trained in B.C. yet, and one reason: "We want Victoria to be a part of the team." That was the official announcement a few weeks ago. That's great, and the practices are wide open, too, which is a change from the days of the Los Angeles Kings when everything was almost top secret, and no media meetings either.

But there's still that question of priorities. What about the late ferry? Victorians would love to go to the games, but howinhell are they going to get back? Eh, Phil?

But then that's government policy, or broken promises, or both. But why shouldn't the Canucks be made welcome? Hope still springs eternal and with a new alignment in the NHL this year, maybe . . . well; just maybe, this could be the year that everything jells. Besides, a playoff berth isn't entirely out of the question as it was in the past.

Under the new format the Canucks are in Division III with Chicago, Kansas City, Minnesota, St. Louis. And under the revised playoff system 12 teams, three from each of the four divisions, will qualify for the post-season play. Which means the Canucks, if they concede first place to Chicago, would only have to beat out any two from K.C., Minnesota and St. Louis. And with K.C. an expansion club, the odds come up even better.

No Secrets, So All Come

But that's all to come. Right here is the team and if it's any better or any worse than last year, who's to know right now? Certainly, there aren't any great new additions or earth-shattering trades, and if some of the highly-touted rookies are going to make the club, coach Phil Maloney isn't saying who either. Not now.

Still, he's happy with things, as he has said daily. Which is what a press conference is for, such as:

"Yes, they looked pretty good. Everyone had been on ice during the summer . . . Caron (Jacques) was the only goalkeeper who had not seen a puck before coming here . . . Having scrimmages on opening day is nothing new . . . Why not drop the puck and let them at it?

And more.

"Yes, Barry Wilcox is back. No, I didn't expect to see him. But naturally, I was glad to see him when he arrived. I told him I'd try and get him a room. He had bad luck last year. Two broken arms. One didn't set properly. He decided not to go back to school." (Earlier it had been announced that Wilcox would forego hockey to get his master's degree in education at Washington.)

About secret workouts:

"I don't have any secrets. I tell my players what I know. That isn't much. So why shouldn't people watch? It used to gripe my butt when I was a kid and couldn't get into a rink. So why shouldn't the workouts be open? Tell the people we'd love to have 'em. The public's welcome."

'They Make the Decisions'

About ex-captain Orland Kurtenbach, in sequence, daily:

"No, he's not here. Yes, he's talking about the Seattle coaching job . . . No, I don't know when he'll be here . . .

"No, he's not here. Yes, he will be coaching in Seattle. It has been announced in Seattle. The reaction has been favorable. His contract is for more than one year. No, I don't know when he's coming, but there's a room reserved for him . . .

"No, he's not here, and I really don't want to talk about it any more. But yes, he's coming . . . when, I don't know . . ."

Later that last day:

"Hi, Kurt."

(Then yesterday, Kurtenbach showed and the press show was mainly his. See story.)

About goalkeepers.

"They're pretty respectable here. I'm happy. McClelland (Dave) has improved a lot in the last year. He's small, but he's been looking good. Smith hasn't allowed a goal yet (that was Tuesday). Wednesday he gave up his first.

About things generally.

"Yes, we had a good practice today. We are dividing the team mainly into last year's club and the others. Then they'll get to know. Those who go down can always come back up. On merit. Others can go down for the same obvious reasons. They make the decisions for you. So, it's not that tough, not that much of a problem.

"I hope!"

Victorians too, Phil. But that doesn't solve our problem . . . Now, about that late ferry . . .?

Ealey Sparks Bomber Win

WINNIPEG (CP) — Coach Bud Riley says his Winnipeg Blue Bombers still need improvement if they are to be contenders for the Canadian Football League's western conference championship.

But he was obviously pleased with what he saw Wednesday night as Chuck Ealey, playing his first full game as Winnipeg quarterback, piloted the Bombers to a 19-13 victory over Edmonton Eskimos.

"I thought he did an excellent job with what we gave him," said Riley of his new quarterback.

Eskimo coach Ray Jauch blamed the loss the fact Wednesday's was the fourth game for the team in 16 days.

But he added, "We're still in first place and we're still master of our own fate. I suspect we'll bounce back and be just as effective."

The Bombers marched deep into Edmonton territory three times in the first half, but the Edmonton defence tightened up each time they penetrated past the 20-yard line.

Placekicker Walt McKee was successful on one attempt from 34 yards out, but two other attempts—one from the 38 and the other from the 15—resulted only in singles.

Early in the second quarter, Stuart Lang snagged a 53-yard pass from Eskimo quarterback Tom Wilkinson and got to the Winnipeg five yard line and two plays later Roy Bell shoved his way across for Edmonton's only major.

Dave Cutler converted to set the stage for Edmonton's 7-5 half time lead and early in the third quarter, he added a field goal.

But two second-half interceptions by rookie defensive back Merv Walker—thrown by Eskimo quarterback Bruce Lemmerman—resulted in go-ahead touchdowns.

The first, which Walker returned for 47 yards to the Edmonton 27, enabled Ealey a few plays later to set up John Bledsoe for a three-yard touchdown plunge, despite a shoulder injury Bledsoe had suffered earlier in the game.

After McKee converted, Bombers led 12-10 until 4:27 of the final quarter when Dave Cutler kicked a field goal to make it 13-12.

Then Eskimo pass strategy failed when a pass intended for Stuart Lang was picked up by Walker, and four plays later Ealey hit Bob LaRose from 21 yards out. McKee's convert completed the scoring.

The Eskimos sustained two injuries in the game, but the extent of damage was not made public.

Kickback Clause Denied

By ERNIE FEDORUK
Times Staff

Western Canada Hockey League executives came on strongly Wednesday to deny the existence of any "kickback clause" in their player contracts.

They admit there are "new teeth" in the player-owner agreements.

Canada's three major junior leagues in Quebec, Ontario and Western Canada introduced a controversy-stirring new clause "partly because club operators need protection and partly because players need protection from unscrupulous player agents."

Yet a Toronto lawyer who is considered one of the more respected "agents" in the business feels the clause "is necessary" and throws his weight behind the junior leagues.

Alan Eagleson of Toronto, familiar with player-owner agreements, said "it is the only way junior hockey operators can continue operating."

In the West, WCHL president Ed Chynoweth — supported by Victoria Cougars' Pat Ginnell — strongly objected to an Ottawa story Wednesday that reported the three major leagues were demanding a kickback from a player's salary for his first three years in professional hockey.

"I've just received our contracts," said Ginnell. "You can have one and I'll guarantee you that you won't find any kickback clause. (There wasn't one.)

"All we're doing is simply getting our players under contract to protect us from the pros," he added. "Our agreement with both the National League and the World Hockey Association ends next June. We need protection.

"The other point is that, on the player's behalf, we want to have the right to approve an agent. Let me tell you, there are some dillies around . . ."

In Saskatoon, Chynoweth said the clause that stirred the storm in Ontario was "grossly misunderstood and misinterpreted."

The Ontario clause states that 20 per cent of a player's worth during his first three years of pro hockey is to be returned through the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to the player's last junior team. Chynoweth said the money would not come from the player but from the pro club signing him.

In Toronto, Eagleson said there is a need to revamp junior players' contracts because of recent actions by the WHA.

"The WHA has refused to pay for some players they have taken which were developed by these junior teams," he said.

Gym Completion Delayed

Construction slowdowns due to delivery problems with building materials have postponed completion of the new gymnasium complex at the University of Victoria.

Athletic director Mike Elcock confirmed Wednesday that the $2.4 million complex, due to be completed at the start of this month, won't be ready until January at the earliest.

The complex, which will include a gymnasium, swimming pool, squash courts, dancing studio, apparatus gym, weight-training room, correctives room with whirlpool, classrooms, laboratories and offices, was expected to take a lot of the load off the old gymnasium.

TEXANS SET TO MOVE

Times News Services

Mayor Calvin Allen of Shreveport, La., announced Wednesday that the World Football League is moving Houston Texans to Shreveport.

Allen said: "The league owns the team, and is offering us an option to buy it." He said Shreveport residents will be invited to submit names for the team.

In Wednesday's games, J. J. Jennings overcame a virus as easily as he overpowered the Chicago defence for 132 yards on 20 carries to lead Memphis Southmen to their seventh consecutive victory, a 25-7 triumph over the Fire; Portland Storm nipped Jacksonville Sharks 19-17; Florida Blazers tripped Philadelphia Bell 24-21; Southern California Sun dropped Detroit Wheels 29-24 and the Hawaiians downed New York Stars 17-14.

Canadian Rider Injured in Spill

POMONA, Calif. (AP) — Jockey Rudy Turcotte, a native of Grand Falls, N.B., suffered a fractured collarbone Wednesday in a spill in the ninth race at Los Angeles County Fairgrounds.

Three other riders were involved in the incident.

Jockey Rudy Campas was held for observation at a nearby hospital but Bill Mahorney walked away from the accident and the fourth rider, Frank Inda, was treated for abrasions and released.

The spill occurred in the first turn when Mini McCoy apparently broke down, unseating Campas, starting a chain reaction that sent three other horses down.

With half of the eight-horse field eleminated, stewards declared the race "no contest" and all wagers were refunded.

Patient Cougars Twice Rewarded

By ERNIE FEDORUK
Times Staff

That's how it is in hockey's hunt for talent. The player coveted by one coach won't always find a welcome mat at another coach's door.

If perchance there is agreement, then patience can be an important virtue.

Derek Haas, Greg Miazga and Don Cairns bring out the examples of the differences and the waiting game that coaches play in the Western Canada Hockey League.

They're logical choices because they figured prominently in Victoria Cougars' actions on and off the ice Wednesday.

Only 17, he turned out to be one of the Cougars' better centres. Greater than the 57 points he contributed was the anticipation of the service he could provide with two more years of junior eligibility.

The front office changed and Pat Ginnell arrived on the scene. Somewhat surprisingly, he showed little or no concern when Haas failed to report for training camp.

Wednesday Ginnell announced he had traded the 18-year-old native of Trail back to Calgary in exchange for Lyle Murray, an 18-year-old centre, and Dave Beardsworth, a 17-year-old defenceman who stands six-four and weighs 210 pounds.

Two years ago both were on the protected list of other clubs — Miazga with Saskatoon Blades and Cairns with Calgary. When Miazga decided to enroll at Waterloo University, the Blades struck him off their list. Cairns played with the tier two Calgary Canucks and, inexplicably, Munro scratched the winger's name off Centennials' list.

Victoria claimed both.

If the performances of Miazga and Cairns in Wednesday's intra-squad game are an example of what to expect, then Ginnell's patience may find its reward in the coming season.

The 19-year-old Miazga scored two goals and set up a third and Cairns picked up three assists as their White team played the Reds to a 5-5 tie. Curt Fraser, the right winger on Miazga's line, also scored twice.

It was clearly the best line on the ice.

Lucas forced the draw by deflecting Tim Williams' point shot into the net with only 13 seconds remaining in regulation time. The Red team had pulled goalie Danny Rogers and enjoyed a second man advantage when Kim Clackson was sent off with a minor penalty.

Cougars play another intra-squad game tonight, starting at 6:45, then divide ranks to prepare for exhibition games.

Changes Due In Regina

By The Canadian Press

Saskatchewan coach John Payne suggested Wednesday that some changes will be made in the roster of the Roughriders after they lost a Canadian Football League interlocking game 23-10 to Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

"We just couldn't do anything. We dropped passes, fumbled a punt and had passes intercepted. We're going to have to do something —make some changes," said Payne after the game in Hamilton.

Payne, like the Ticats, virtually ignored George Reed's spectacular effort as the Rider fullback ran for 101 yards to become the first professional football player to rush for more than eight miles.

Reed needed 46 yards to reach that record-setting plateau and he made it on his sixth carry—a 12-yard burst over the right side of the Hamilton line early in the second quarter.

It marked the 54th game in which Reed has gained 100 yards or more—his sixth this season—and leaves him four short of the career total registered by now-retired Jimmy Brown who played with Cleveland Browns of the National Football League.

Etter looked impressive, but Hamilton coach Jerry Williams thought he was cooling out early in the fourth quarter and he replaced him with Don Jonas, who manufactured the insurance points for the Ticats.

The former Winnipeg Blue Bomber quarterback moved the home team 48 yards in six plays, then threw a 19-yard scoring pass to another veteran, Terry Evanshen. It was the wide receiver's first touchdown since joining the team after being dropped by Montreal Alouettes early in the season.

Bobby Thompson combined with quarterback Ron Lancaster for a 66-yard pass-and-run play to score the Saskatchewan major. Brian Berg converted and added a field goal.

"I was real nervous and couldn't call a play properly," said Jonas. "You get that way on the bench."

Toros Deal Carleton

TORONTO (CP) — Wayne Carleton has been traded to New England Whalers for a second-round draft choice and future considerations, Toronto Toros announced today.

He had asked to be traded by the Toros because he apparently did not see eye-to-eye with coach Billy Harris last season. Additionally, it has been rumored he was annoyed that he was not asked to play with Team Canada.

Birds Zero In on Yanks

By The Associated Press

New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles are still running 1-2 in the American League East race but the Orioles are closing fast and Boston Red Sox are moving up from behind.

Those teams moved closer together in the pennant race after the Orioles defeated the Yankees 10-4 and the Red Sox whipped Detroit Tigers 8-5 Wednesday night.

The results left the Yankees with a half-game lead over the Orioles and left the Red Sox within striking distance at 2½ games behind in third place.

The Red Sox got an extra push in the stretch run from rookie Fred Lynn. He collected four hits, including a double and triple, and drove in four runs.

In other American League games, Oakland A's beat Kansas City Royals 5-4; California Angels beat Texas Rangers 4-1 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing the second, 2-0; Cleveland Indians tripped Milwaukee Brewers 6-3 and Chicago White Sox beat Minnesota Twins 3-1.

In the National League, neither Los Angeles Dodgers nor Cincinnati Reds appear to want to win the pennant in the Western Division. Both clubs lost again Wednesday night. The Dodgers dropped a 3-2 decision to Houston Astros in 10 innings while Cincinnati lost 6-5 to San Diego Padres.

The National League East race tightened when Pittsburgh Pirates cut St. Louis' lead to 1½ games by beating the Cardinals 4-1.

Elsewhere, Montreal Expos swept a doubleheader from New York Mets 3-2 and 4-0. Chicago Cubs topped Philadelphia Phillies 5-2 and Atlanta Braves downed San Francisco Giants 4-2.

Winning for only the seventh time in the last 24 games, the Red Sox kept alive their flickering hopes for the East title.

Lynn, starting only his second major league game since being recalled from Pawtucket of the International League, lined a run-scoring single in the first, tripled off the wall in left centre as Boston went ahead 4-3 in the third and doubled off the wall in left for two more RBI in the fourth.

Then he lined a single to right centre and scored on Dick McAuliffe's fifth homer, a drive into the Boston bullpen in right centre, in the sixth.

Rookie shortstop Rick Burleson had three hits, including a double, and scored one run while driving in another as the Red Sox broke out of a batting slump with a 14-hit attack.

Detroit's Al Kaline had a home run, double and a single, leaving him only four hits short of becoming the 12th player in history to reach the 3,000 mark.

Kaline's homer produced the Tigers' last two runs in the ninth. The blow tied Kaline with Rogers Hornsby for 14th place on the all-time RBI list with 1,579.

Mike Cuellar became a 20-game winner for the fourth time as Baltimore broke a tie with seven runs in the sixth inning and crushed New York. The triumph was Baltimore's 17th in the past 22 games.

The Orioles' big inning against three pitchers included three walks — two with the bases loaded — three singles and consecutive two-run doubles by Rich Coggins and Bobby Grich.

Cuellar, 20-10, scattered 12 hits, two apiece in the second, third, fourth and eighth innings and three in the ninth. The veteran left-hander raised his life-time mark against the Yankees to 17-7. It was the first time the Yankees have lost two games in a row since Aug. 12-13.

"I think those two games were important, but not critical," said New York Manager Bill Virdon. "I think this one tonight is critical for our club. I think we need to win this one."

Jim Kaat scattered seven hits to lead Chicago over Minnesota.

Rookie outfielder Greg Gross was Houston's hero. He started an uprising in the eighth inning when the Astros broke a scoreless tie with two runs. He threw out the potential winning run at the plate in the ninth inning, and he scored the winning run in the 10th.

Light-hitting Enzo Hernandez, who said he never had driven in more than two runs in a game, knocked in four for San Diego against the Reds and scored the winning run on John Grubb's sacrifice fly.

Jim Rooker hurled a six-hitter for his 13th victory and Al Oliver doubled in two runs, boosting the Pirates past the Cardinals.

The Expos won the opener with a two-run seventh inning, capped by Tim Foli's run-scoring squeeze bunt single. They took the nightcap behind the combined four-hit pitching of rookies Dennis Blair and Dale Murray.

Referees, Linesmen Set To Go

Any hockey teams or leagues on the southern end of Vancouver Island requiring the services of referees or linesmen should get in touch with the referees' alliance well before the start of the season.

Anyone needing officials or interested in refereeing may obtain further information by telephoning alliance president Don Funk (479-3851 or 388-4248) or secretary-treasurer Steve Holoduk (478-7083 or 388-3637).

Kurt's New Game

By BILL WALKER
Times Staff

"Coach Kurtenbach" obviously hasn't got the same ring to it as "Captain Kurt."

Orland Kurtenbach, who has owned both titles, will just as quickly agree that to him it's a brand new ball game, too.

Kurtenbach, former captain of the Vancouver Canucks of the National Hockey League, now is coach of the Seattle Totems of the Central Hockey League. On his introduction to the media at the Imperial Inn Wednesday afternoon he readily admitted:

"Everything is new to me. I used to think as a player. Game over and off you go. Now I have to analyze things differently.

"It was embarrassing to me, too, on the ice. I wasn't familiar with some of the faces in camp. I didn't know them. So the easiest thing to do was to introduce myself. Which I did."

General manager-coach Phil Maloney of the Canucks described Kurtenbach's appointment as "one of the plus things" that had happened to the Canucks, and Seattle, but he tempered the statement with the observation later that the Canucks had also lost a centre who would have to be replaced.

It was explained that the terms of Kurtenbach's contract were that the Canucks would supply Seattle with players for two years until Seattle's entry into the NHL.

Kurtenbach took that to mean that Maloney would do the selecting. But Maloney partly corrected the Seattle mentor with the observation that they would work together.

Kurtenbach said he would first have to work with Phil "then I'll have my own preferences. I will have to decide 'what's a good player . . . what's a bad player' I know that by what he picks and who he plays is what makes or breaks a coach," he admitted.

He also said that his basic coaching style wouldn't be that much different than Maloney's, if at all. Maloney explained that there were no ideals of his to be followed, or pursued. "They could be diametrically opposite," he countered.

"Kurt has his own ideas and he can play it his way," he said, "and I know it will be a professional style of hockey."

Maloney sees Kurtenbach's appointment as a gain for Seattle and a loss for Vancouver.

"We've lost our captain," said Phil, "and there's no plus there."

BUFFALO (AP) — Jim McMillian has been named captain of Buffalo Braves of the National Basketball Association. McMillian takes over from Bob Kauffman who was traded to Atlanta.

INJURY ENDS HOOP CAREER

NEW YORK (AP) — Centre Willis Reed of New York Knicks has retired due to an ailing knee following a 10-year National Basketball Association career, the club announced Wednesday. Reed, 32, had two years remaining in a contract reported to be worth $300,000 a year. Reed was the most valuable player in the NBA's playoffs in 1970 and 1973, which were the two years the Knicks won the league title.

14 Ex-Cons Face Trouble In Halfway House Furore

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Enforceent of city zoning laws may mean the end of home for 14 ex-convicts and drug addicts trying to go straight at the Joshua Halfway House.

Mayor Muni Evers said Wednesday he wants the house shut down because it violates zoning laws.

"There is no way we will allow 30 people in one house in a single family-zoned area," he said, adding he will take all necessary legal measures to evict the group.

There are other apartments in the block, but Evers says these were established before present zoning was introduced.

Bill Pick, executive director of the Joshua Townhouse Society, said Wednesday that if the house is shut down, the 14 people now staying there will have no other place to go.

Mike King, who manages the house, said there has been no problem with the neighbors, but on Friday their landlord received a notice from the city ordering the tenants evicted immediately.

King, 34, and his wife Wendy, 22, took over management of Joshua last December when it was located elsewhere. They moved into the new premises, a 20-room, run-down old house on Sept. 1, after spending $5,000 on renovations.

"We had almsot 30 people here when we moved in," said King. "It was ideal."

King and the landlord, Accord Mortgage Co., said they plan to fight eviction, but King conceded it might be foolish in the long run.

"I'd like to stay and fight but the others can't," he said.

"If the police come and tell one of the guests to leave he'd have to. If he didn't it would be resisting arrest, a violation of parole, and he'd be back in prison.

Even the spoons are a reminder of the tough house rules. A hole had been drilled in each as a warning that residents had better not get caught using one to "cook up" cocaine or heroin.

And backing up the warnings is King, a 250-pound exconvict who isn't beyond using a baseball bat to keep his most difficult guests into line.

"I tell them no booze, no drugs and if you get caught you're out," King said.

They used to get $5 a day for each prisoner from the British Columbia government but the New Westminster welfare office has cut that off.

Dramatic Tax Hike Feared

VERNON (CP) — Residential property taxes could increase drastically next year, a legislative committee examining proposed changes in the provincial assessment system has been told.

The committee, headed by Carl Liden (NDP—Delta), met in closed session with the executive of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities during the group's annual meeting.

Sources on the committee said UBCM members feel new tax legislation must accompany proposed changes in the assessment system to prevent skyrocketing of residential property taxes,

The main change in the assessment legislation will require that all properties be assessed at 100 per cent of true value.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

A Victoria man, fined in provincial court Wednesday for possessing marijuana, will get back the hash pipe used as evidence against him — if it's empty.

Paul Steven Williams, 19, of 1010 Linden, raised the issue before being fined $75.

Judge William Ostler said he could see no reason why Williams' pipe — Which police found containing a small amount of marijuana — could not be returned providing it was "clean."

Osterl said Williams could apply to the police department to have it returned.

Questioned about the request, Victoria police chief Jack Gregory said outside the court, "if there is hashish in the pipe he will have to sue for its return."

In other cases of possessing marijuana, Andrew John Huntington, 20, of 1010 Linden, and Kenneth Allan Craig, of 1345 pandora, were each fined $75, and Karen Toillon, 18, of Brandon, Man., was given a suspended sentence and put on probation for six months.

A man given a one-month jail sentence for failing to attend court in 1972 had the conviction and sentence erased later in the day.

Edward John Galloway, of Orofino, Idaho, pleaded guilty after the court's afternoon session started, but was called back later when Ostler realized the charge was laid after the six-month limitation period had expired.

Ostler nullified the conviction.

Galloway failed to appear in county court May 29, 1972, for trial on a charge of cultivating marijana.

He was to appear on that matter in county court today.

Defence counsel David Lisson said Galloway lost the $3,000 bail posted in 1972.

★ ★ ★

Robert Fraser Mackie, 20, of 203 Andrews, was fined $400 and had his licence suspended for impaired driving; and David Gordon Whelply, 25, of Young Lake Road, Sooke, was fined $350 and banned from driving for 30 days for driving with a blood-alcohol level of more than .08 per cent, and Wayne Robert Simpson, 26, of 306 Chester, was fined $300 for the same offence.

Cominco Talks Break Down After Seven Days Straight

TRAIL (CP) — Negotiations between the United Steelworkers of America and Cominco Ltd. broke off Wednesday after seven days of continuous bargaining.

Marv McLean, president of Local 480, said negotiations broke off when the company refused to move on the issue of early retirement.

He said the membership will vote during the weekend on the company's latest offer when meetings are held in Trail, Kimberley and Salmo.

John Giovanetto, Cominco's labor relations manager, said the union had rejected a new company offer to end the strike and had given Cominco demands which were unacceptable.

The bargaining committee, however, was complying with the company's request to take the company's increased offer to a membership ballot.

Cominco has offered to extend the early retirement provision to age 58 after 34 years. The union wants retirement at age 55 after 30 years.

Giovanetto said that the company's offer includes a dental plan, sickness and accident plan improvements, further wage benefits and an offer to pay employees up to three weeks of vacation pay to offset some of the effects of the strike.

About 4,000 workers at Cominco have been on strike for 12 weeks.

Prior to the strike, the company offered an increase in the base rate to $5.10 an hour from $4 and an increase for journeymen or tradesmen to $7 from $5.55.

First Pact Signed With Radio Station

PENTICTON (CP) — Jim Pennington, president of Local 1707 of the Association of Commercial and Technical Employees, says the union has ratified a first contract with one Okanagan radio station and reached tentative agreement with another.

Employees at stations in Penticton, Summerland, Grand Forks and Osoyoos approved by a 58.8 per cent majority a two-year contract with Okanagan Radio, owners of CKOK Penticton and its satellite stations, Pennington said.

The agreement provides a basic rate of $450 a month for announcers with no previous experience and a minimum of $850 a month for announcers on morning shift with at least two years' experience.

Salary range for copy writers was set at $450 to $675 a month, and traffic and office staff were to get between $450 and $650 a month.

The agreement, retroactive to Sept. 1, calls for a 12 per cent across-the-board increase in the second year of the contract.

Martial Law Stays

MANILA (AP) — The Supreme Court Tuesday dismissed habeas corpus petitions from 25 political prisoners and ruled that President Ferdinand Marcos's government may detain persons without charge and restrict their freedom after release. The court said a state of rebellion existed when Marcos imposed martial law in September, 1972, and "the state of rebellion continues to the present."

Kamloops Bodyshops Won't Work for ICBC Pay

KAMLOOPS, (CP) — Automobile bodyshops in Kamloops and the South Thompson valley have refused to repair some damaged vehicles because the labor rate paid by the Insurance Corporation of British Columbia is too low.

"If they come in with an ICBC estimate, we are telling them it is not acceptable and we won't work on their cars," said Angus Currie, spokesman for a group of bodyshops who have joined to negotiate with the government-owned corporation.

Sixteen bodyshops in Kamloops and three in the South Thompson Valley this week have been turning away damaged vehicles with repair estimates based on the ICBC labor rate of $14 an hour.

Currie said the bodyshops want an increase from the current rate which he said is $1 an hour less than what his shop charged before ICBC began operating in March.

"In the meantime, wages have gone up and the cost of material and paint has soared beyond belief," he said. "At $16 we would not be ripping off or gouging the taxpayer but would be getting something fair and reasonable."

An ICBC spokesman in Vancouver said the corporation is studying the situation in Kamloops as well as doing a study of repair costs throughout the province.

"Right now we feel $14 is a fair and realistic level," he said.

In a similar boycott situation in Alberni earlier this year, ICBC trucked damaged vehicles to Victoria for repairs. When the system failed, the corporation agreed to pay higher rates under a bid system in that area.

ICBC pays a base rate of $14 an hour to all bodyshops in the province although there are isolated exceptions.

Bodyshops in Trail, Castlegar and Salmo have told ICBC they intend to start charging $18 from Oct. 1 and motorists for the difference.

Currie said when bodyshops in Kamloops decided to impose $2 surcharge, beginning last Monday, the ICBC claims office altered its method of estimating.

Instead of estimates broken down into hours of work for each part of the job, only a total figure for labor, based on the $14 rate, were given, he said.

RUSTLER STINGS BEEMEN

WINNIPEG (CP) — It appears Manitoba may have a honey rustler and the provincial beekeepers association is becoming increasingly concerned.

Since this spring five major thefts of honey and hives have been reported to the association.

Randy Barker, secretary of the association, said Wednesday he believes the thefts are the work of the same people in all cases and feels whoever is responsible is definitely experienced in handling bees.

Exact loss is not known but the present price of a single hive complete with the iner workings is about $100. On top of the hive losses, thousands of pounds of honey have also been taken.

Alta. MP Testifies In Water Squabble

LETHBRIDGE (CP) — Ken Hurlburt, Conservative MP for Lethbridge, described Wednesday how a $250,000 land disagreement forced him to sell most of his ranch and personally saw open a padlocked irrigation gate this spring.

In more than 4½ hours of testimony in Alberta Supreme Court, he said he saw an agreement between himself and a Fort MacLeod ranch family disintegrate.

At the centre of the dispute, he said, was a hired hand, who "felt he had me over a barrel."

"It was my personal feeling he was trying to cause trouble between the Hunters and myself," Hurlburt told Mr. Justice W. K. Moore.

He is suing to have Martha Hunter, 74, and her brothers Charles, 71, Howard, 67, and Joseph, 79, honor an agreement they signed on June 15, 1972. The trial is also hearing a counter suit by the Hunters, which says Hurlbert misrepresented the deal.

Hired hand Gus Moneo of Granum, Alta., was to take the stand today in support of the Hunters. He was hired to run the 2,400 acre Hunter ranch after Hurlburt leased it.

Early in 1973, Hurlbert testified, the Hunters began to sour on the agreement he had reached with them to lease (with an option to buy) the ranch just west of Fort MacLeod.

"They called me and told me they would like to raise the rent to $8,000 (from $4,000) without any option agreement."

The Hunters said in a statement in court that they only meant to give the MP first right to buy the ranch if they decided to sell, and that the rent agreed on was $8,000 a year.

Hurlburt testified he made it "crystal clear" to the Hunters he wanted an option to purchase.

"The Hunter brothers and Martha would like to have more money so they refused to turn the (irrigation) water on and they had the key," Hurlburt said.

He said he asked his hired hand in a phone call from Ottawa to saw open a lock on the irrigation gate. Moneo refused.

Eventually the lock was opened by the Hunters after a letter from Mr. Hurlburt's lawyer, but not before it cost him $8,000 to replace a lost hay crop, the MP said.

Hurlburt said he had to depend on Moneo until after the spring operations of 1973. Then, "I fired him."

He didn't ask anyone to open the irrigation gates for him this spring. "I took a hacksaw and cut the lock off myself."

Hurlburt testified that an eviction order from the Hunters forced him to sell the major portion of his own ranch northwest of Fort MacLeod.

WELFARE BOOSTS

WINNIPEG (CP) — Provincial welfare recipients are to get increased allowances beginning Oct. 1, Health and Social Development Minister Saul Miller announced Wednesday.

The move reflects a cabinet decision last year to adopt a system of indexing welfare payments, thereby tieing them to increases in the cost-of-living, he said.

Allowance for a single parent with two teen-age children will rise to $224 a month from about $205. For a single person aged 20 to 64 years, the monthly benefits will rise to $77.50 from $66.

For a single person, the food allowance will rise by 22.3 per cent to $49 a month, the clothing assistance will increase by 13.8 per cent to $13.10, and the allowance for personal needs will rise by 13.9 per cent to $15.40.

★ ★ ★

WINNIPEG (CP) — Public insurance minister William Uruski has termed "realistic" a prediction that fire insurance premiums sold by private firms in Manitoba will rise by 20 per cent. Industry spokesmen blamed the need for higher premiums on inflation and a rise in arson in Manitoba.

★ ★ ★

A dwindling population would mean there will soon not be enough people around to support even a second-rate existence and the Liberal leader said his party is not prepared to settle for a second-rate province.

Guerrillas Escalate Argentinian Violence

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — an outlawed Marxist guerrilla band has escalated its underground war in Argentina, threatening to execute all military prisoners.

The Peoples Revolutionary Army accused the Argentine military Wednesday of slaying 16 captured guerrillas last month and vowed to treat military captives the same way.

A guerrilla communique said the commandos were shot to death after surrendering to army troops Aug. 11 at the end of a day-long battle in northwestern Catamarca province.

The army has said the commandos died in combat during an attack by about 50 guerrillas against a govenment garrison in the province.

Previous communiques from the guerrillas have said two army hostages held by the Marxist group would be submitted to "revolutionary trials."

The Marxist band took one of the hostages during an attack last month against a military arms plant in central Cordoba province. The other hostage was taken in an April raid against an army base southwest of Buenos Aires.

The guerrilla threat came hours after a right-wing labor ministry official was shot to death and President Maria Estela Peron called an urgent meeting of Argentine leaders to deal with increased political violence across the country.

The shotgun death of labor official Dante Balcancanera was the seventh political killing in three days. Two men pumped shotgun blasts at Balcancanera near the industrial suburb of Quilmes. He died instantly, police said.

The victim also was a delegate of the Meatpackers' Union and member of the "62 Organization," a conservative Peronist labor group.

More than 120 bombings in the past three days have created what Interior Minister Alberto Rocamora called a "state of general violence" in Argentina.

Rival right-wing and leftist guerrillas have bombed Argentine and foreign companies, offices of the Major Landowners' Association, miltary installations and street corners. Three persons died in the attacks.

The increase in bombings appears linked to the decision by the Montoneros, the largest left-wing Peronist guerrilla group, to begin open opposition to Mrs. Peron.

The commando campaign has claimed a victim every 19 hours since Aug. 1, one month after Mrs. Peron's husband died and she succeeded him as president.

Barge Upset Drowns 250?

DACCA (Reuter) — A large barge capsized in the Bay of Bengal Wednesday and a local newspaper in the Bangladesh capital said today that 250 people are feared drowned.

Two survivors were picked up and taken to hospital, it said.

District officials said a search had been mounted for missing passengers.

There was no confirmation of the death toll.

Welland Shipping Resumes

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Forty-three ocean vessels that had been waiting at the Lake Ontario entrance to the Welland Canal—some as long as a week—have resumed their upbound voyages after an interim agreement was reached Wednesday ending a pilots dispute.

The 54 pilots, members of the Corporation of Great Lakes Pilots, voted to end their boycott of upbound traffic, but Capt. Ross King, president of the union, emphasized the agreement is only an interim one that will last until the end of the current shipping season.

The Canadian pilots have been angered by what they feel is a violation of a 1961 international agreement that says pilotage in the international waters of the St. Lawrence Seaway should be shared equally by both Canadian and United States pilots.

The Canadian pilots contend that for the last five years, their American counterparts have been taking more and more of the traffic.

N. America Assets Pool Urged

TORONTO (CP) — United States economist Eliot Janeway and U.S. Senator Vance Hartke (Dem. Ind.) have called on Canada and the United States to pool common assets and develop a joint approach to solve inflation in North America.

The two men, along with Stephen Gardner, deputy secretary of the U.S. treasury, spoke at a news conference here where they attended a private meeting with businessmen.

The men advocated common commodity markets to be set up by two countries but emphasized this would not be an American attempt to secure Canadian resources.

"You keep what you have got and we will keep what we have got," Mr. Janeway said.

"What we should do is pool our common assets that we have available for the rest of the world."

He suggested joint planning of large financial requirements and said the main problem today is "the surplus of unemployed dollars" in countries like the Arab countries while Canada does not have money to build pipelines.

"Your oil, nickel and zinc will come cheaper to you if, instead of bidding against each other for capital, we work together."

WON'T BE EASY

Senator Hartke said it is wrong to say that such a joint approach would be easy but the "basic experience and the pitfalls are already there in the European Common Market."

Answering questions on the American economy, Mr. Gardner said U.S. fiscal and monetary policy is still evolving, with the new Ford administration studying all methods used in the past to control inflation.

"The American public is absolutely tuned in to inflation today. This provides an opportunity in that there is a willingness to deal with a national emergency. The depression in the 1930s was totally different from this, but everyone understood then too."

IN MEMORIAM

BAXTER — In loving memory of our dear brother Jack who passed away September 19, 1971.
"We often think of days gone by,
A shadow o'er our lives is cast
When we were all together,
Our loved one gone forever."
—Sadly missed by his sisters Ellen and Wyn.

NOBLE — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Danny Noble, passed away September 19, 1972 — "Always in our hearts".
Mom and sisters.

THEY SHALL GROW NOT OLD, AS WE WHO ARE LEFT GROW OLD. AGE SHALL NOT WEARY THEM, NOR THE YEARS CONDEMN. AT THE GOING DOWN OF THE SUN AND IN THE MORNING WE WILL REMEMBER THEM.
—WITH GRATITUDE, SANDS.

$86,500

Contemporary design, on the hill and scheduled for completion in mid October — is rather difficult to visualize the end product but we are "game," if you have an imagination. One thing is certain; the builder always specializes in quality construction, upper level for sleeping; main level for dining, entertaining and relaxing; and basement suitable for future recreational development. Four bedrooms, two and one half bathrooms, den, pantry, laundry room, walk-in closet, two sundecks, panelling, wall paper accents and wall-to-wall throughout. Even a built-in dishwasher is on order! Carpet is on the way but still time to select your light fixtures. MLS 9284. (Wear old clothes).

256 WATERFRONT PROPERTIES

GORGEOUS HOME PLUS 125' OF waterfront. Truly this is one of the loveliest waterfront properties we have the privilege of presenting. A small estate, . . . a wooded wonderland of beauty and seclusion. Nearly 1 Acre with 2,700 sq. ft. of living area, all on one floor. Spacious outside entry takes you into the luxurious w-w carpeted living room has raised hearth floor-to-ceiling glass facing the terrific view of your own waterfront and picture view of Mt. Baker. Glass doors from dining room led to a cement patio which extends across the front of the house, and the landscaping has been tastefully chosen to compliment the over-all picture. Entertaining sized living room has raised hearth floor-to-ceiling white brick fireplace — coloured indirect lighting around the room add enchantment at night. Separate panelled den is complete with bar and sink. Kitchen has a daylight ceiling complete with Senwood cabinets, built-in dishwasher, range and oven and garburator. At one end of the home there is a huge family room with fireplace, also overlooking the view, 2 twin-size bedrooms and 4-piece vanity bathroom. Down at the other end is your laundry and sewing room and a master bedroom with glass wall facing the view, beautiful 4-pce. vanity bathroom ensuite. There is another patio at the front of the house besides your 2-car garage and workshop. Heating is oil hot water. Part basement. The roof is hand cut shakes. There is also boat mooring down at the beach. All this is for $135,000. No drive-by please. It must be seen. To view call MARGARET WILSON 386-2911 or 383-4569. Homefinders, Wall and Redekop Realty Ltd.

Legal Steno's Text Raises Women's Ire

TORONTO (CP) — A textbook for a course for legal secretaries brought gasps from members of the Ontario Status of Women Council.

"Read it and your blood pressure will go to 200," chairman Laura Sabia said.

The text advises aspiring young secretaries to pamper the "ego needs" of young lawyers.

"If she attempts to dominate him, she will destroy him" it instructs.

The text — the Lawyer's Private Secretary — is used in a course offered by the Law Society of Upper Canada. It was revised in April, 1973.

It offers advice on how secretaries should dress and the ideal relationship between a young lawyer and his secretary.

"He is still, believe it or not, socially insecure with women and often does not know quite how to handlethe master-and-servant relationship which presents itself," the book states.

The council agreed to bring the text to the attention of the governing body of the law society.

The council was told that textbooks considered biased are included in the list of new texts approved for Ontario classrooms.

Sherrill Cheda, head of the Seneca College library, is preparing a booklet dealing with stereotypes in textbooks for 60,000 teachers from kindergarten to Grade 6.

She said 80 per cent of the texts up to Grade 12 are sex-biased. History books omit women, and they are never referred to in examples in mathematics and spelling books.

She said the 20 per cent that do refer to women have them in aprons and passively looking out the window watching their brothers.

MONTE CARLO skirt is the name of this outfit designed by Danish inventor Karl Kroyer. It is so named because Kroyer thought up the idea in that Mediterranean city. The skirt can be described as a pair of shorts or tights with a skirt on. It is one of the outfits introduced at the Scandinavian Fashion Week this week.

Victorian To Attend Guide Meet

In October, Mrs. Joyce Tinney of Victoria will join Girl Guide music advisors from across Canada in a training conference at Doe Lake, Ontario.

Purpose of the session is to enable each of the delegates to expand their own personal musical knowledge and to improve their skills in teaching and sharing that knowledge with their Brownies, Guides or Rangers. The program includes vocal and instrumental music, dance and drama.

Ad De-Sexing Frivolous Pursuit

elizabeth forbes

I don't suppose there has been a time in the past 50 years when I have not been in favor of equal rights for women.

In all those years I have worked with many responsible women's organizations, here and across Canada, to bring equal opportunity to women.

Despite these facts, I cannot, for the life of me, see the necessity for such a hullabaloo over the de-sexing of help wanted advertisements. Nor, for that matter, over semantics involved in making it know jobs are waiting and ready to be filled.

To me there are so many more serious inequalities to be wiped out at this time. And, I am certain that in scratching and clawing at such an inconsequential (yes, I mean that) grievanee, we are not only weakening our hard-earned position as dedicated workers for equal opportunity but we have opened a way for men to make us a laughing stock.

Why on earth, if an employer wants a woman in a certain position (and is willing to pay her the same wages or salary as a man) can that not be said in print? The same goes if the employer wishes to hire a man.

Indeed, why is Kathleen Ruff, director of the Human Rights Branch of the provincial government, conning the advertisement columns, picking out what she terms the discriminatory listings and telling those particular employers that such words as male or female, waitress or waiter and others of the same ilk, are a no-no?

I have a great respect for Mrs. Ruff. I believe she is an intelligent, dedicated young woman. At the same time, she must surely know that right now there is no law on the statutes that makes it mandatory such words be deleted.

A recent newsletter issued by the Victoria Status of Women Group spells this out carefully, clearly and without bias. In two paragraphs of an interesting resume of the Human Rights Code.

According to SWAG, administrative sections of the new Code, passed in the Legislature in November, 1973, are already in effect "BUT the substantive sections are not." These, it is expected, will be proclaimed when the House sits this fall.

At present, the newsletter tells us, "human rights legislation prohibits any advertising in connection with employment that expresses directly or indirectly a specification or preference as to the race, religion, color, ancestry, nationality or place of origin of a person." THERE IS NO MENTION OF SEX.

The same section in the new Code, scheduled, it seems, to be proclaimed this fall, will still continue these prohibitions (all of which make good sense).

However, in addition, that section will also prohibit any employment advertising which expresses directly or indirectly a specification or preference as to the sex of a needed employee.

In other words, advertising for a Girl Friday or a salesman will then (not now) no longer be allowed. Which as far as I am concerned makes the recent hullabaloo little short of nonsense.

Adding the word "sex" to the text is merely splitting hairs. It's designed to placate, not to cure. And it is — as I have already said — inconsequential in the face of the far more serious grievances that need to be corrected as far as women are concerned (and especially single parent mothers).

NOTE — Signing of two young Victoria women as trainees in the R.C.M.P. is a real step forward on the road to equality of opportunity for all Canadian women.

We will watch the careers of Barbara Wood and Jane Smith with much interest. For there is little doubt that it will be on their performance and of other young women across Canada who were signed at the same time, that future female applicants will be considered and accepted.

A Further Note — To those who telephoned to ask what happened to my column on Monday evening, let me say it was the Gremlins again — those unseen somethings that throw a monkey wrench into newspaper work, from time to time.

As you know by now, the column did appear on Tuesday night. My thanks for your interest!

Hearing Set On Home

Public hearing on proposed construction of an 18-unit senior citizens' residence next to St. John's Anglican Church on Quadra will be held Sept. 26 at 2 p.m. at city hall.

The church needs a land-use contract with the city before going ahead with the $395,000 project.

The provincial government is paying $131,330 of the construction costs, the federal government the rest. The church had donated the land.

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: In your reply to "Scared," who was dating a young man who had been arrested for indecent exposure, you recommended that if the man claimed to have had therapy, she should ask to talk to his therapist.

As a practicing therapist, I must take exception to that advice. If I were confronted with such a request, I would have to explain that to do so would be violating professional ethics.

I know of one psychiatrist who was successfully sued for divulging information under similar circumstances. This is as it should be, since the therapist is the agent of the patient, not of others.

"Scared" should obtain information about exhibitionism in general from a professional in the mental health field (not from her boyfriend's therapist, if he has one). — Psychiatrist.

DEAR PSYCHIATRIST: I did not suggest that the young woman should attempt to get privileged information from her boyfriend's therapist without the boyfriend's consent.

It would seem that if the boyfriend had indeed had treatment and the girl was in no danger by continuing to go with him, he would be eager for her to talk to his therapist for reassurance.

If a patient asked you to talk to his girlfriend, would you then refuse to see her?

DEAR ABBY: This is in reference to the family who, when relaxing outdoors at a barbecue, or just sitting and visiting, were always "joined" by a neighbor, who stayed until they went inside, even when they were entertaining guests.

You advised the writer to either suffer the intruder's presence, or tell her that you'd like a little privacy.

May I add another solution? Why not build a six-foot fence? — Al Centeno.

DEAR AL: That's a pretty sneaky way to get a plug in for the fence business, but it's a good idea for those who can afford it. How about a moat stocked with crocodiles?

DEAR ABBY: I have had it! All summer long we ran a free hotel for my husband's relatives. His sister and her husband came for six weeks. His brother and his wife came for two weeks. (The brother used my car, so I had to take taxis the whole time!) Others took turns. We had company from June 1st until after Labor Day.

No one offered to give me a lift with the work, and my grocery bills were like, forget it. Nobody even picked up the tab when we ate out. (We are supposed to be "the poor relatives" compared to them.)

I've put up with this for three summers, and I'm sick of it. How can I keep this from happening next summer short of divorcing my husband? He's a soft touch. — Had It.

DEAR HAD IT: They're your husband's relatives. HE should tell them what the ground rules shall be for future visits. If he refuses, then YOU tell them. And if you don't, you can expect a re-run of the last three summers and every summer henceforth.

Babies—the Master Showfolk

When you are holding him, a baby can, by a cunning collapsing motion of his shoulders and a corresponding swiveling motion of his neck, suggest that his head is perilously close to coming off. Just as you are becoming fairly adept at cuddling what feels like a six-pound sack of wet Cream of Wheat, he will peremptorily stiffen, dig his toes into your midsection, and lunge backward.

Whenever a baby is being burped, all conversation in the room automatically halts and everyone assumes a rigid and unnatural silence as if listening to the reading of a will. When the burp comes, the entire assemblage carries on as if the baby had just spoken in tongues.

Some babies breathe sonorously at approximately five times the normal rate. Other babies, out of perversity, don't breathe at all and must be periodically picked up and jiggled to reassure their owners that they are, in fact, alive.

A baby delights in coming out all over with a leprous-looking, magenta rash under his chins and armpits at 10 p.m. on a Sunday. After driving all over the city trying to find a drug store that is open, his father will return home with $6.98 worth of ointment only to discover that the rash vanished three months ago.

But a baby is at his best when his grandmother visits. He will purposely scratch his nose so that nothing is visible between his eyes and mouth but a gigantic scab, completely ignore the blue plastic rattle she brought him, and will sit there stolidly eating the tissue paper wrapping.

When the colder season sets in, you will again be thinking of entertaining. Whether you plan a small or a large gathering, you'll never go wrong with a wine-and-cheese party.

The 16-page illustrated booklet "The Art of Being A Good Host with Wines and Cheese from France" offers useful hints how to make your party a success.

You might display the cheeses on straw mats or on plates covered with large fresh leaves. Cut large cheeses into portions, slicing them from the centre to the edge. But put small cheeses on the try uncut.

Serve several types of wine according to your budget and limit the cheeses to six to eight varieties. Buy the wines a few days in advance to give them a chance to rest.

The booklet warns not to put strongly scented flowers close to your wines and cheeses.

With the cheese serve bread rather than soda biscuits. Try to get some long French "baguettes" and cut them into one-inch pieces. Allow half a baguette per guest.

The centrefold of the booklet shows illustrations of 60 different cheeses made from cows, goats and ewes milk. You will also find a list which tells you what type of wine goes best with what kind of cheese.

Single copies are available from: Foods from France Box 177, Place Bonaventure, Montreal, Quebec H5A 1A7. Please allow at least 2-3 weeks for delivery.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By SYDNEY OMARR

Forecast for Friday, Sept. 20

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Strive to understand financial arrangements of partner, mate. You obtain answers which are both an advantage and a burden. You find that those who mean the most to you express the most love.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Legal affairs dominate. The papers, the nuances, the meanings and implications are paramount. Pisces, Virgo persons figure prominently. Here is a mood of anticipation, deception, clandestine and thick glamor. You'll love it!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Stick to hard facts. Leave the "soft stuff" for others or for another time. Basic issues dominate and so do your diet and health. Capricorn, Cancer are in picture. You are asked to produce a working formula.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Finish rather than begin; bring forth creative resources. Chips are down and member of opposite sex insists on commitment. Aries, Libra are likely to be involved. Some aggressive associates may go too far.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accent is on structure, justice, ultimate decisions. Those who are radical are jealous of your position, attitude. You should assert views in direct, independent and dynamic manner. Protect your interests. You have no obligation to feed the voracious appetites of those who feed on self-pity.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Emphasis is on ideas and how to make them work. Family member may be more conservative than imagined. Key is to make concessions without abandoning principles. Obviously, you will be walking a fine line.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Cycle is on upswing; you have reason to celebrate. Financial windfall is not out of picture. Means you get more than you expected. Gemini, Sagittarius persons are likely to be involved. Expand horizons. Reach beyond present expectations!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your natural qualities, abilities surface — and they are appreciated. Timing improves and more persons become aware, intrigued. You are able to correct past errors. You are in enviable position because you get proverbial "second chance."

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Be ready for a variety of experiences, including possible change of scenery. Gemini, Virgo and another Sagittarian could be involved. You could be called upon to aid in special club or group activity. Be receptive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You get your wish! Key now is to make amends to family member for recent misunderstanding. Be a gracious winner. Taurus, Libra persons are in picture. Accent is on increased opportunity, domestic adjustment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Emphasis is on responsibility, an elevation of your standing in community. Beware of false flattery — some now want something for nothing. Pisces, Virgo persons aid in seeing picture as it actually exists.

PISCES (Feb 19-March 20): You can see at a distance — means you understand what is upcoming. Sense of perception, direction are sharpened. You get messages, assignments and your views will be more widely distributed. Capricorn, Aquarius and Cancer persons could be involved.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are sensitive, moody and, during 1974, you made significant changes, some involving opposite sex. December will be one of your most important months of the year: Gemini, Virgo individuals are drawn to you. You are creative, analytical and a natural reporter-writer-teacher.

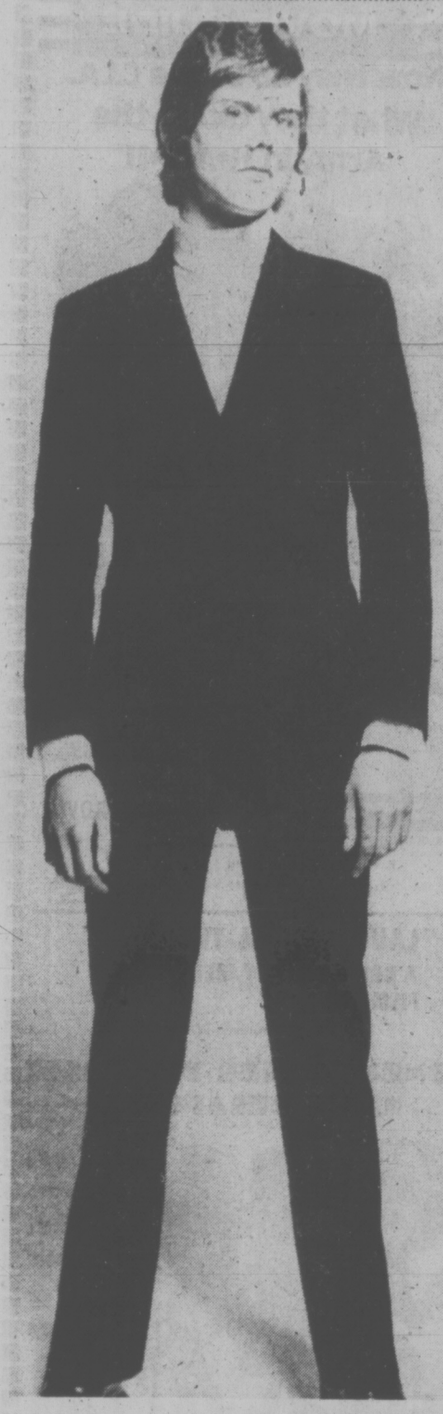
Hong Kong Suit Fading Into Past



HONG KONG (NYT) — The Hong Kong suit, long considered one of the world's great bargains, has gone the way of inflation.

Many Hong Kong tailors still offer the discriminating traveller pain-staking work and expertise that delights and satisfies the most fastidious and demanding dresser but relatively few tourists today are taking advantage of this service.

Whereas 50 per cent of visitors to Hong Kong seven years ago invested in at least one custom-made outfit, only 13 per cent did last year, and the current forecast points to a further decline.

Local tailors are prone these days to reminisce nostalgically about the days when travellers — particularly those from the United States — rushed off to the tailor shops immediately upon their arrival in this British colony.

They would eagerly order several suits, one or two sports jackets, and perhaps a few pairs of slacks.

The prices were excellent, the work was exemplary and the service rapid (some tailoring establishment's boasted of being able to deliver as many as 200 suits at 24 hours notice).

While some of the service and expertise has remained virtually unchanged, inflation, rising rents and wages and two devaluations of the dollar have forced many tailors to put down their needle and thread in search of more lucrative occupations.

Others have been forced to increase their prices significantly, often doubling them. Their products now are priced as high as the readymade suits available in the major American and European department stores and specialty shops.

Rents in the popular tourist areas have increased by 17 per cent over the last year and by 40 to 57 per cent over the last three years.

Similarly, wages were boosted by 17 per cent, and inflation has accounted for another 16 per cent increase in costs.

What's more, the tourist today is finding that his dollar does not stretch as far as it used to; dollar devaluations have reduced its spending power in Hong Kong by about 35 per cent.

As a result, the better known and more reputable tailoring establishments insist they cannot meet their costs unless they charge $120 to $200 for winter suits and $100 to $120 for summer outfits. In contrast, four years ago, when tailoring was still a booming business here, a custom-made suit ranged in price from $60 to $80 for summer-weight garments and $80 to $100 for suits of finer English-made winter cloths.

Anxious to maintain their business and keep their prices down, smaller shops have merged and have established joint workshops. The same cutters and sewers service as many as five or ten tailoring shops.

This innovative solution has been only partly successful. The tailor has been able to keep his own overhead — and therefore, his prices — down to more interesting levels, but he is no longer able to maintain the degree of quality control and personalized service demanded by his customers.

Consequently, his work does not bear the stamp of excellence on which Hong Kong originally built its tailoring reputation.

Travellers who have selected a tailor largely because he offers a better price have recently complained of poor workmanship and finishing coupled with the use of shoddy materials.

A bargain tailoring in Hong Kong, shoppers have discovered, today invariably means an inferior product. The word spreads and the interest in a Hong Kong-made suit wanes.

HONG KONG tailors have kept their expertise but inflation, rising rents and wages and two devaluations of the dollar have forced many tailors to put down their needle and thread in search of more lucrative occupations.

Old Times Fun Times Says Nurse

TORONTO (CP) — Nurses today "just don't know how to have fun like we did," said Dorothy Banfield.

The oldest living graduate — class of 1903 — of the Toronto General Hospital School of Nursing, Mrs. Banfield is 100 years and seven months old.

"I have pleasant memories," she said. "One of them is taffeta petticoats that swished and rattled so temptingly."

In her training days she worked 12 hours a day for $6 a month.

One of seven children, she became a nurse because "there was nothing else for girls to do."

"My dad was a clergyman and he warned me about the hard work but I've never regretted anything."

After graduation she lived with an uncle in Nelson, B.C., and worked "in the baby ward" until she married the following year.

Amnesty Response: A Visit

VANCOUVER (CP) — About 100 Vietnam war objectors living in British Columbia have responded to president Gerald Ford's offer of conditional amnesty, says the Vancouver chairman of the Committee to Aid War Objectors.

"But it's not the kind of response the U.S. government is expecting," said Larry Martin Wednesday.

"Most of them are interested only in how they can go back for a visit without penalty. Two of them might be willing to serve six months (under President Ford's condition of up to two years alternative service)."

Martin said anyone who has taken out Canadian citizenship or is a landed immigrant could put his status in jeopardy by going back to the U.S. to clear his record under President Ford's conditions.

He noted that the amnesty conditions require taking the U.S. oath of allegiance, which could cause loss of Canadian citizenship.

Also, to keep landed immigrant status, a person has to keep roots in Canada. If a person returned to the U.S. for any substantial time, it would be up to the discretion of Canadian immigration officers whether he would get back into Canada, said Martin.

Actress Doris Day (right) was awarded more than $22 million Wednesday in a fraud suit against her attorney, Jerome Rosenthal. Judge Lester Olson said Rosenthal was guilty of the "grossest negligence" in business which the judge said "stinks to high heaven." He was found guilty of defrauding Miss Day and her late husband, Marty Melcher, in a variety of business ventures, including speculation in oil wells and the construction of two hotels.

Leary Rapped as Weirdo Judas

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A galaxy of stars of the beatnik, hippie and yippie eras announced great fear Wednesday that under prison pressure Timothy Leary has given false testimony against scores of people that will touch off a nation-wide witch-hunt.

The fear was elaborated in a news conference at a major hotel here.

At the head table were Allen Ginsberg, the beatnik poet; Jerry Rubin, a yippie founder; Ken Kelley, former publisher of Sundance magazine; Baba Ram Dass, who as Richard Albert was Leary's long associate, and Leary's 24-year-old son, Jack.

"Timothy has shown that he would inform on anybody he can to get out of jail, and it would not surprise me if he would testify about my sister or myself, if he could," the son said. "He has already implicated my sister in his escape."

The elder Leary, 54, was arrested in Afghanistan last year and now is serving a maximum of 25 years for marijuana possession and for a 1970 escape from a California prison. He once wrote a letter saying his escape was engineered by the weathermen, and its fugitive leader, Bernardine Dohrn.

Leary has been brought as a witness at a sweeping inquiry by a federal grand jury in Chicago, and the speakers at the news conference feared indictments against "a score of leftist attorneys" and many others.

"Timothy Leary has broken down and now is at the mercy" of the justice department, which has "forced and persuaded him to fabricate stories to get out of jail," said Rubin.

Ginsberg suggested that Leary now sees himself as "a spiritual president clearing the karma blackboard by creating a hippie Watergate."

Albert who was ousted along with Leary from Harvard teaching posts a decade ago, said Leary always told imaginative tales when it suited his purpose.

"I can vouch for the fact that Timothy can't keep a bankbook," he said in reference to a charge Leary masterminded a smuggling ring.

"If he were running the hippie mafia, believe me, it would not be profit-making."

BRIGHTON, Ill. — Randy Seeger says he's ready to go to the Supreme Court because Teenage Psycho Meets Bloody Mary didn't scare him. Seeger says he and his wife sat through nine hours of what were advertised as horror films and weren't scared once. So the 61-year-old legal investigator decided to sue. The movies were not horrifying, he said — just plain horrible.

VANCOUVER — Elimination of book review pages from an increasing number of newspapers has made it necessary for authors to publicize their own works, says Hugh MacLennan.

★

HOLLYWOOD — David Carradine, the Kung Fu star, has been charged with burglary, malicious mischief and trespassing in what was apparently a drug-induced rampage in a neighbor's home. When police arrested Carradine, 37, in the office of his producer at Warner Bros. studios in Burbank Monday, he explained vaguely that he had found himself in "a strange house" that had "closed in on him" and that he had tried to "break out." He is to appear in court Friday.

After 60 years of making encyclopedias for adults, Funk & Wagnalls has learned enough to make one for children.

It's called the Young Students Encyclopedia. And it's designed to do something more than just get them through the next homework assignment—to make them want to learn on their own.

Instead of burdening your children with tons of forgettable detail, it appeals to their native curiosity. The article on Airplanes, for example, illustrates an experiment children can perform at home showing how things fly. There are hundreds of other drawings, games and puzzles that not only teach but provoke, involve and entertain in the process.

In other words, it's an encyclopedia children will actually use. They'll also use it a long time. It's designed to be simple enough for children just learning to read and comprehensive enough to serve until they're ready for an adult encyclopedia. They can't outgrow it the way they do shoes.

Which brings up another nice point about the Young Students Encyclopedia: it's intended exclusively to help children, but it helps grown-ups too.

First, it doesn't put much of a dent in your budget. Since it's sold direct to you through us, you can buy the complete 20-volume set a volume or two a week for only $1.99 each. And the first volume for the introductory price of twenty nine cents.

Second, it helps prevent you from doing what you shouldn't be doing anyway—your children's homework. It provides the answers; you just provide the encouragement.

So instead of just shopping for things to nourish growing bodies, come in and pick up a Young Students Encyclopedia. And nourish their minds as well.

Checking the Nurseries Shows Right Fall Bushes

To enjoy fall color in our coastal gardens, we must consciously choose what will not only make harmony in fall but also contribute something of special beauty during at least part of the remaining year.

The size of the property limits the number of trees to be planted, so that shrubs must be used to advantage. A small-growing tree or two such as red fruited Malus Eleyi and Malus sargentii, seldom reach more than seven or eight feet. Both have beauty of form and flowers in addition to their masses of edible red fruits for a long fall.

At this season, begin to haunt the nurseries where you see shrubs coloring outdoors under the sun. Get all the information possible, but first get the botanical name of each plant you like. Write them down so that you can look for them in good encyclopedia to see what care they need. You discover a lot too by looking at them as they grow in the nursery.

★ ★ ★

Some species of the commonly grown spiraeas have foliage of startlingly lovely color by the end of September. The most noticeable is Spiraea prunifolia, the Peach-leaved spiraea. The double form flore pleno is the one to look for. Colors are different to every person, making descriptions rather useless. A warm bright crimson is the nearest to my own assessment of this shrub's coloring in fall.

Even the common S. thunbergi with very tiny leaves, has worthwhile coloring by the time you cut the last chrysanthemums.

Cotinus coggygria, the Smoke-bush having green leaves all summer, suddenly takes on the colors of flames after a late September frost. You need to see it to believe it.

The best specimen I have seen has been growing on a Union Road (Saanich) property for more than 20 years.

The Snowball-bush, Viburnum opulus sterile, is worth growing for two reasons, the long period of early summer white flowerheads and the equally long coloring period beginning in mid September. The foliage colors are particularly lovely in the slanting rays of the rising sun. These shrubs attain a height of 10 feet if not pruned occasionally in their early years.

★ ★ ★

I have a plant of Stewartia pseudocamellia which promises to be a fall beauty as it grows up. Not of flowering size yet, but the leaf coloring is developing warm rosy gold tones, deepening day by day and may prove a fall garden asset even though it never blooms in my lifetime.

Too much color in fall foliage is not desirable in a small garden for the leaves must eventually fall, creating rather bare spots unless plesty of broadleaved shrubs are grown as background for the winter garden.

Coloring of berries is another cheerful fall note at this time to be considered as part of the color harmony.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

The "tight" defence so essential to winning bridge championships can be observed in today's deal, which came up in the National Mixed Team-of-Four Championships held this past July in New York City. Sitting East was internationalist John R. Crawford, of New York City.

Neither side vulnerable. South deals.

Opening lead: Jack of ♠.

After dummy's ace of spades had captured the opening lead, declarer led the four of clubs off dummy. Had Crawford mechanically played a low club, declarer probably would have fulfilled his contract. He would have won the trick in his own hand, after which he would have led the diamond jack. West would have taken his ace, and let's assume that he then played a low heart, which would have been won by dummy's ace.

The king of diamonds would now be played, and this would be followed by the diamond queen. Whether Crawford ruffed with his ace of trumps or didn't, wouldn't matter, for on this trick South would discard a losing heart. Thus South's only losers would be a heart, a diamond, and a club.

But when declarer, at trick two, led a low club off the board, Crawford promptly put up his ace, and shifted to the four of hearts. West played the queen, and dummy's ace captured the trick. A low trump was then led to South's queen, picking up the two outstanding trumps.

Next came the jack of diamonds, which West won with his ace. He then returned a heart, and dummy's jack was ambushed. Crawford now made two heart tricks with his king and ten, and sent declarer down to a one-trick defeat.

From Crawford's point of view, there was nothing brilliant about his defensive play. Since he was looking at a good diamond suit in dummy, he realized that, in time, declarer would use that suit to get rid of a losing heart or two. Hence, Crawford's immediate shift to a heart at trick three, before declarer could get around to establishing the board's diamond suit.

"We could form several groups," said Steve. "We've got five who play the guitar and can also handle drums, two of us have piano and guitar, and three play drums as well as piano."

Len smiled. "You do all three. Anyone else do that?"

Steve shook his head. "No, but everyone plays at least one of the three. Eleven play drums, seven the piano, and nine the guitar."

How many were there?

Yesterday's answer: TEAR was 1069.

New Corn Discovered

MEXICO CITY (Reuter) — The Mexican agriculture ministry said Tuesday its scientists have produced a new small variety of corn that almost quadruples normal yields. A spokesman said the new corn, called Supersmall, has yielded nine tons of unthreshed ears an acre compared with the national average of about 2.5 tons obtained from conventional varieties.

Two Charged In Robbery

Two women have been charged with robbing an 82-year-old man of $1,002 Tuesday as he walked on Fisgard Street only a block away from the police station.

Lea Crowley, 21, and Sharon Lawson, 20, both of 425 Wilson, appeared in Victoria provincial court this morning and were remanded to Sept. 25 for plea on a joint charge of robbery with violence. They were released on their own undertaking.

A police spokesman said Hoy Sing Chang, address unknown, was walking in the 500 block Fisgard at 4 p.m. when he was approached by two women who demanded money.

Prosecutor Gordon Macdonald said violence was used but it was not "severe."

Egyptians, Russians Thaw Relationships

LONDON (UPI) — The Soviet Union secretly has resumed top-level contacts with Egypt in an apparent effort to thaw frozen relations with President Anwar Sadat, a Soviet publication disclosed today.

The current issue of the official English language Soviet News said President Nikolai Podgorny, while visiting Sofia, Bulgaria, earlier this month, met there with Egyptian First Deputy Premier Abdel Aziz Higazi.

Also present was Muhammed Hafez Ghanem, first secretary of the central committee of the Arab Socialist Union, the ruling party in Cairo, it said.

No details were released. The Soviet announcement gave no indication of the tenor of the talks nor what they yielded.

But diplomats considered it significant that Podgorny, who had visited Cairo for decisive talks in the past, made the contact in a "neutral" place, apparently to sound the prospects of restoring frayed relations with Egypt to a new working level.

Until now the Kremlin has avoided top level talks with the Sadat regime because it was angered by Sadat's shift from Moscow to the United States.

Moscow last summer cancelled an invitation to meet with Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy on short notice. Arms shipments were held up and the dialogue virtually cut off.

In recent weeks Russia was reported to have shown fresh interest in getting back on talking terms with Cairo now that the Middle East peace talks might be revived.

Sadat in a recent interview indicated a slow change in Moscow's attitude. He was reported as saying "the Soviet Union is beginning to understand my position and is beginning to reciprocate accordingly."

Since then fresh Russian arms shipments were reported to have gone to Egypt, including MiG jets and missiles.

Fahmy may go to Moscow next month to pave the way for a possible summit between Sadat and Communist Party General Secretary Leonid Brezhnev or Podgorny later

SOVIET SNOOPS BUGGING NATO

LONDON (UPI) — A North Atlantic Treaty Organization announcement said Wednesday that Soviet planes and ships are "snooping" persistently on NATO ship movements in their current exercise in northern waters. It said Soviet planes have been repeatedly intercepted.

The office of the commander-in-chief East Atlantic headquarters said Soviet "Badger" planes were intercepted by Royal Air Force planes Tuesday east of the Shetland Isles.

Later Soviet long-range "Bear" planes were intercepted by RAF Phantoms west of the Faroe Islands.

The announcement also said that Canadian and Dutch reconnaissance planes have joined RAF planes to keep track of "numerous Soviet ships and sumbarines in the exercise area in the North Sea and the Norwegian Sea."

The Soviets have all along been extremely sensitive to any Western defence movements in or close to the northern waters.

They have a strong fleet concentrated in the area and maintain a wide-ranging radar screen. Soviet submarines are known to be very active in the area, to watch movements of allied shipping and aircraft activities.

Defence experts said the Russians have frequently shadowed NATO ships on their manoeuvres in the Atlantic and in the Mediterranean where they maintain a considerable fleet of their own since the Arab-Israeli wars.

VICTORIA-LAUNCHED BROADCASTER DIES

Funeral service will be held Friday in Vancouver for veteran CBC broadcaster William James Herbert who started his career on the Times in 1929 and died Tuesday after suffering a series of heart attacks.

Herbert, 59, was born in Victoria, worked at the Times and later the Daily Colonist until 1937. During his careers with both papers he spent most of his spare time at the radio station CFCT.

In 1937 he joined the CBC as an announcer and public relations officer and was later made CBC correspondent covering armed forces activities on the West Coast.

Appointed special events correspondent for the CBC's international service in 1945 he later became supervisor of sports and special events, a position he held until his retirement in 1970.

Herbert is survived by his wife Nancy and daughters Page, Bridget and Brooke.

Service is scheduled for 11 a.m. Friday at St. John's Shaughnessy Church, 1490 Nanton, and family asks that contributions in lieu of flowers be made to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Yugoslavs Unearth Moscow Minions

By DUSKO DODER

BELGRADE (WP) — Soviet intelligence agencies have directed and financed an attempt by Pro-Russian Communists here to set up an underground Yugoslav Communist party advocating Yugoslavia's return to the Soviet Bloc, well-informed sources said Wednesday.

The Russians maintained control over the new party through a group of Yugoslav exiles living in the Soviet Union, the sources said. They added that clear evidence of Moscow's involvement included the fact that the underground group's official documents, encompassing party statutes and its program, were printed in the Soviet Union.

It is not known how that material was transported from the Soviet Union to Yugoslavia. However, a traffic accident involving the vehicle of a Yugoslav conspirator led to the discovery of the clandestine "party" when police discovered a load of propaganda material in his car. The accident took place near the town of Sopot, just south of Belgrade.

About 40 persons belonging to the underground group have been arrested and reportedly 30 of them are being tried in closed sessions at the peoples court in the city of Pec, in Kosovo.

The sources said that the leaders of the group, which was oranized in Communist "cells" on the pattern practised by communist parties before the Second World War, have not been caught. This could not be confirmed however.

All conspirators are reported to be Nontenegrins, although some of them have resided in Belgrade in recent years. They include a university professor and a former editor of the Montenegro Communist party newspaper Pobjeda. The editor is known to have been considered for a top executive position at Belgrade radio shortly before his arrest in late May.

According to diplomatic sources, the affair demonstrates that some elements in the Soviet leadership may be eager to regain control of Yugoslavia, particularly in view of Soviet setbacks in the Middle East. It also is believed that the Russians still smart at the memory of President Tito's rejection of Soviet hegemony in 1948.

The Yugoslavs have formally protested Soviet involvement. The protest was handled through party channels, however, and was relayed by Stane Dolanc, the executive secretary of the Yugoslav party, to Soviet Ambassador Yladimir Stepakov, according to the sources. Dolanc had handed similar protests to the ambassadors of Czechosolavia and Hungary.

Belgrade's insistence on handling the affair quietly and as a party matter indicates that Tito seems determined to continue normal and friendly relations with the Soviet Union on the governmental level.

But the incident is known to have caused considerable concern in governmental circles and wide public apprehension after Tito made details surrounding the affair public in a speech last Friday.

Wednesday, the executive bureau of the Yugoslav party, chaired by Tito, was meeting to discuss "relations with other communist parties," an apparent euphemism for the troubled state of Soviet-Yugolsav relations.

The meeting comes after the reported failure of Edward Kardelj, Tito's senior aide, to resolve the matter during his talks with Soviet officials, including party leader Leonid Brezhnev, earlier this month. Unconfirmed reports say that the Russians flatly denied any involvement in the Montenegro affair.

The Communist leader of Montenegro, Veselin Djuranovic, Tuesday delivered an attack on "antisocialist forces" in his republic. He also criticized republican authorities for lack of vigilance.

Referring to the existence of a pro-Soviet party in Montenegro, he said that its members were involved in hostile activites.

"For these elements in their 'congress' material call for a reshaping of Yugoslavia's constitutional order, for a restructuring of the constitutional order as a whole, for changing the Yugoslav League of Communists' policy.

"Our treatment of them cannot be otherwise but that of a political enemy. There is no question of hostile propaganda here, but there was an attempt at illegally organizing an action against our self-management socialist order."

The 30 persons now being tried were charged under three articles of the Yugoslav criminal code that involve "counterrevolutionary activity" against state and social order and conspiracy against the state.

91st YEAR, No. 85 ★★★ VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1974 ★★★ 15 CENTS DAILY, 20 CENTS SATURDAY

NEW NIXON SUBPOENA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski has subpoenaed former President Nixon as a prosecution witness in the Watergate cover-up trial.

Nixon has already been subpoenaed by his former No. 2 aide, John D. Ehrlichman, to appear as a defence witness in the trial scheduled to begin Oct. 1.

Jaworski's office confirmed today that the subpoena was issued Wednesday night and will be served on Nixon at his San Clemente, Calif., estate by FBI agents.

"He's been subpoenaed to testify," a spokesman for Jaworski said. "We expect him to testify."

Jaworski's subpoena calls for Nixon to appear in Judge John J. Sirica's courtroom on Oct. 1, even though he may not be called as a witness for several days.

Teachers to Seek 20-25% Pay Hike

B.C. teachers will be asking wage increase packages ranging from 20 to 25 per cent, Jim MacFarlan, president of the B.C. Teachers Federation, said in Vancouver today.

MacFarlan said wage demands are decided by teachers at the local level, but indications that have been received from some local chapters of the federation indicate the 20 to 25 per cent range.

He again emphasized that the BCTF will not consider slary bargaining on a provincial level as proposed by the B.C. School Trustees Association.

MacFarlan agreed with the calculation of the trustees association that this year the average cost of a teacher in salary and fringe benefits is $15,490.

But he said salaries vary considerably in different areas of the province, which is why the BCTF is insistent on bargaining at local levels.

He praised the few school boards that have refused to agree to provincial bargaining, and accused the BCSTA of attempting to force a breakdown in negotiations this year.

MacFarlan said the teachers' average wage increase of 11.1 per cent in 1974 was totally depreciated by inflation by mid-year.

Greater Victoria school board chairman Peter Bunn said he saw MacFarlan's statement as the first salvo in "the media battle for money every year which causes so much unhappiness".

He said the reason the B.C. School Trustees Association wants provincial bargaining on teachers' salaries is to "get the claptrap about filthy lucre out of the local scene."

Bunn said that with provincial bargaining negotiations could be conducted sensibly throughout the whole year rather than having the annual fall contest between teachers and school boards that can cause "the grossest unpleasantness."

Greater Victoria teachers won a 10.8 per cent increase for 1974, Saanich School District teachers 10.75 per cent.

B.C. PRICES HIGHEST

OTTAWA (CP) — Consumers in british Columbia and Thunder Bay, Ont., faced the largest increases in prices according to August figures released Wednesday by statistics Canada.

Halifax was one of only two cities where the August index level was less than 10 per cent higher than the level of August, 1973.

The other was Saskatoon — Regina where a combined survey of prices is done.

There were increases in all cities in August over July and the figures were: St. John's, five-tenths of one per cent; Halifax, two-tenths of one per cent; Saint John, one per cent; Quebec, 1.2 per cent; Montreal, eight-tenths of one per cent; Ottawa, eight-tenths of one per cent; Toronto, one per cent; Thunder Bay, 1.3 per cent; Winnipeg, seven-tenths of one per cent; Saskatoon-Regina, one per cent; Edmonton-Calgary, eight-tenths of one per cent; and Vancouver-Victoria 1.3 per cent.

Impaired Boating Charged

A 59-year-old man appeared in Victoria provincial court this morning charged with impaired boating after he became stranded Wednesday night when his 18-foot boat ran out of gas.

The judge also banned Rogers from boating for the next four months adding "a person like you shouldn't be at sea at all."

Oak Bay police said Rogers radioed for help over his Citizen Band radio at 10:20 p.m. to say he was floating somewhere between Clover Point and Trial Island and wanted a tow.

He told the court his engine had quit and couldn't get it started.

Sooke Woman Slain

The partly nude and badly decomposed body of a woman found in a ditch in Abbotsford Tuesday was identified today as a 24-year-old Sooke resident, Linda Marlene Dueck.

Her death, believed to have occurred about three weeks ago, brings to eight the number of women who have been killed in the province in the past year while apparently hitchhiking.

An autopsy performed in Vancouver Wednesday failed to establish cause of death or whether she had been sexually assaulted.

Known to be a frequent hitchhiker, she was last seen alive in the Hope area over the Labor Day weekend. Her father lives in Hope; her mother in Chemainus.

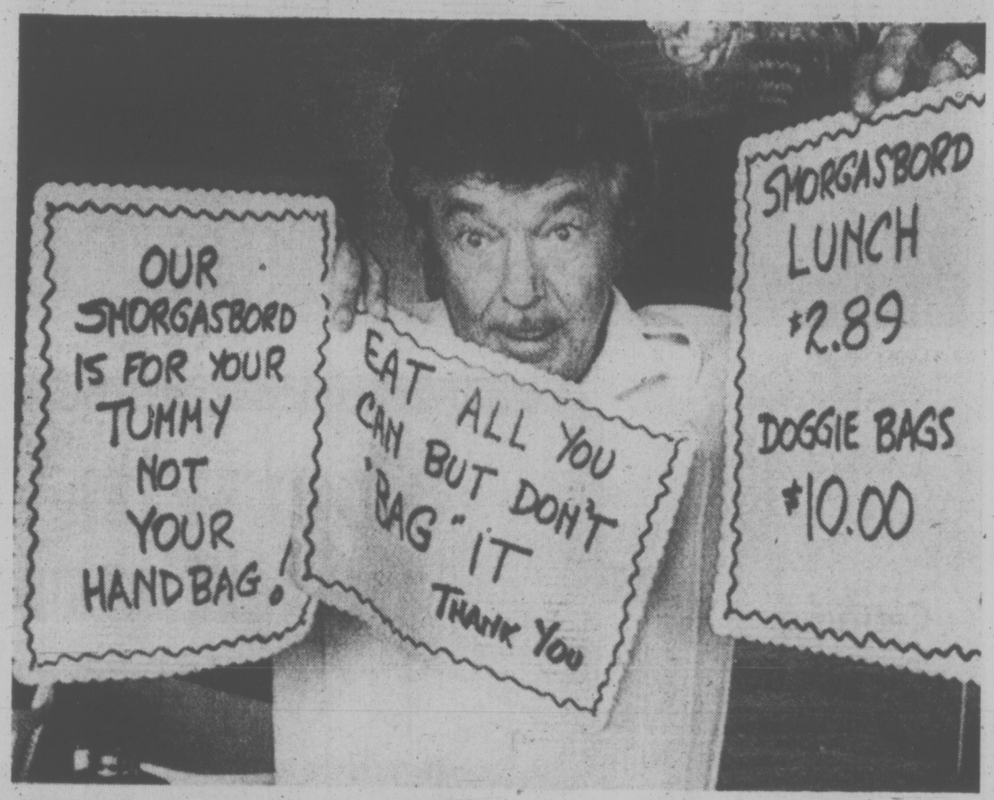
Police said she had a boyfriend in the Abbotsford area and had left Victoria on or about Aug. 19 following an appointment with a doctor here.

Police believe there may be some connection between her death and another presumed killing in nearby Matsqui two weeks ago.

A set of women's clothing, splattered with blood, was found in Matsqui about 10 feet from the Fraser River. No body has been found but police "very strongly suspect" foul play. A paper found at the scene indicated a knife blade had been wiped clean.

Attorney-General Alex MacDonald, meanwhile, has announced that there will be no formal advertising campaign to discourage young women from hitch-hiking but that the government will set up an informal education program to warn of the dangers of the practice.

The government had been considering such a campaign after police linked several deaths as probably the work of one sex killer and said all had involved hitch-hikers.



CUSTOMERS ARE BARKING up the wrong tree if they ask Frank Baker (above) for a doggie bag when they visit his West Vancouver restaurant. Baker, along with restaurant owners across North America has discovered that more and more customers are following up their lunches with a little "take-out" service for later consumption. Baker blames the spiralling cost of food for the increase in business to go. He now puts ketchup bottles without caps on the tables and has begun using individual servings of salt and pepper rather than leaving an easily-pocketed shaker available.

BONN (Reuter) — The financial losses of West Germany's biggest private bank — Herstatt, which collapsed last June — are reported to be more than double the original estimate of about $500 million.

Greece to Vote

ATHENS (Reuters) — Premier Constantine Carmanlis announced new electoral laws Wednesday night and said national elections will be held in Greece as soon as possible. Observers believe the poll will be in about 45 days.

U.S. Gas Pact Nearer

Premier Barrett and a representative of U.S. natural gas importers emerged from a meeting Wednesday saying they are "closer" to agreement on the price and amount of natural gas to be shipped south of the border this winter.

"There are no details that I can give you about our discussions," Barrett said after more than an hour of talks.

"But I think that we are closer than we were before the meeting started."

John McMillan, president of Northwest Pipeline Corp. which has a contract to import up to 800 million cubic feet of B.C. natural gas per day, concurred with Barrett's remarks.

"I think we both understand each other," he told reporters.

The premier said McMillan will return to the U.S. to discuss the results of the meeting with "his people" and he expects to have some form of reply for B.C. within a week.

Barrett would not say whether he expected a conclusive answer from McMillian and refused to elaborate.

Also at the meeting were Attorney-General Alex Macdonald, the B.C. minister in charge of energy; Kelly Gibson, chairman of Westcoast Transmission Co., which holds sales contracts with distributors, and James Rhodes, chairman of B.C. Petroleum Corp.

The B.C. government has announced its intention to seek a higher export price for gas but Northwest Pipeline has resisted the proposal on the grounds that price increases must be accompanied by an agreement to share any shortfall in supplies this winter.

B.C. also announced earlier it did not intend to share this winter's shortages.

The B.C. Petroleum Corp., said it intends to seek a price increase from 61 cents to $1 per 1,000 cubic feet and B.C. has also filed a request with the National Energy Board to raise the price to $1.35.

The premier said he will discuss the situation again on Saturday when he meets with Washington State Governor Dan Evans. (See page 8)

Rocky Worth $62.5M

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice-president-designate Nelson Rockefeller said Thursday that his personal fortune is $62.5 million, and that he receives in addition income from trusts with total assets of $120 million.

Rockefeller issued those figures in advance of congressional hearings on his confirmation, saying he wanted to set the record straight because of misleading reports of his wealth.

". . . Total assets owned outright and the two trusts amount to approximately $182.5 million," Rockefeller said in a statement distributed to reporters.

The former New York governor, an heir to one of America's great fortunes, said he issued the statement because of earlier reports that he had filed a statement with congressional committees reporting his net worth to be $33 million.

Budget Error Sparks Anger

Opposition spokesmen and B.C.'s municipal leaders reacted with shock and anger Wednesday to the announcement of a $100 million budgeting error in the provincial welfare budget.

Liberal leader David Anderson said Premier Barrett is to blame for the underestimate and other budget bungling, and should resign as finance minister.

Fellow-Liberal Pat McGeer demanded the immediate recall of the legislature's all-party public accounts committee to investigate welfare costs as well as "drastic overspending" by the Insurance Corporation of B.C.

And municipal officials were virtually unanimous in denouncing Barrett's statement Wednesday that municipalities will have to pay their share — 10 per cent or $10 million — of what the premier termed a budgeting error.

At the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention in Vernon, delegates agreed to make room on the agenda today or Friday for an emergency debate on what municipalities will do about the sudden increase in costs.

Premier Barrett said today municipalities may be "jumping the gun in terms of how much of the cost will be going back to them."

Included in the $100 million over-run are some expenses which are shareable and some which only the province pays for.

The government will explain shortly exactly what spending areas are included in the $100 million.

He said there rave been over-runs made in the human resources department before — including a "significant one" in 1970.

At that time, Barrett said, the municipalities had to pay their share of the budget over-run as well.

In a wire to Alex Fraser (SC-Cariboo), the chairman of the legislature's public accounts committee, McGeer (Vancouver-Point Grey) said the committee should "have full powers of investigation into current spending including the ability to engage auditors for the purpose of investigation."

The Liberal party's finance critic said in the wire: "If allegations of overspending in ICBC or human resources are anywhere near accurate it is irresponsible for there to be any delay in our committee commencing work."

If the legislature had to be called into session to give the committee extra powers, it

Explanation Monday

Premier Barrett said today Levi, who is out of town this week, will call reporters together to explain how his department underestimated this year's welfare budget.

The premier said earlier in the week that an "honest" clerical error had caused the government to budget for $264.5 million in welfare spending when the figure should be $100 million higher.

$5,000 Fishing Fines

SEATTLE (AP) — Five British Columbia fishermen were fined a total of $5,000 Wednesday for fishing in United States waters off Point Roberts, last week.

They each paid a $750 criminal fine and $250 civil fine, and reclaimed the boats. The boats had been held in Bellingham, where the five were brought last Friday after being seized by a Coast Guard cutter.

Four of the fishboat captains entered no contest pleas and the fifth pleaded guilty. Each admitted his boat strayed into U.S. waters but said it was accidental.

The fishermen are Arie de Vos of Richmond; John Edge of Surrey; Lon Bianco of Delta; Gregory Osaka of Steveston and Andy Kremides, also of Steveston, who pleaded guilty.

More to Qualify For Legal Aid

Extension of legal aid in B.C. to cover summary conviction proceedings and all offences under the Narcotic Control and Food and Drug Acts, was announced Wednesday by Attorney-General Alex Macdonald.

He said the extension will give practical meaning to the "right to counsel" promised under the Bill of Rights.

The expansion also includes the addition of nine regional offices to the six existing offices by March, 1975.

The B.C. Legal Aid Society will be given a $40,000 grant to launch an experimental public information campaign and legal aid staff lawyers will be given salary increases to bring them on a par with Crown counsel and other provincial legal staff.

The changes were requested by the society, which administers legal aid throughout the province.

Under existing legal aid, most summary conviction proceedings are not covered and offences under the Narcotic Control Act and Food and Drug Act are covered only at the discretion of the society or if the accused might face a jail sentence.

The new regional offices will be located in Prince Rupert, Cranbrook, Nelson, Williams Lake, Dawson Creek-Fort St. John, Surrey-Delta, Okanagan, Abbotsford-Chilliwack and Nanaimo.

The new regional offices will give legal aid a greater opportunity to expand into other areas such as landlord and tenant law, consumer law and other civil administrative matters, said Macdonald.

Extension will mean it will now be possible to secure counsel "on a fee basis in all important cases in our criminal courts," he said.

Last year legal aid handled 21,000 cases and the extension is expected to increase that figure 10 per cent.

Massive U.S. Aid to Junta Revealed

Times News Services

During the four years, 1970 to 1973, Allende was in power, U.S. economic aid dropped to $400,000 a year from $1.5 million, state department figures show.

At the same time, military grants to train Chilean military officers in the use of U.S. weapons remained at $900,000 a year, and credit sales of weapons to the Chilean generals jumped to $15 million from $5 million.

Together with the secret Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) support to political opponents of Allende, the U.S. economic and military aid programs form a pattern showing a direc U.S. effort to make it difficult for him to govern while strengthening the political and military forces that could depose him.

Meanwhile, prompted by the disclosures of CIA operations in Chile, President Ford and congressional leaders today privately reviewed the policy of covert activities abroad.

They reportedly found little support for proposed new controls on the agency.

Congressional leaders were unusually reluctant to discuss the issue when they emerged from a 90-minute meeting with Ford and Secretary-of-State Henry Kissinger.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield refused to comment on the substance of the meeting, saying only that it dealt with "the CIA in general, and Chile in particular."

Asked if his idea for a joint congressional committee to oversee the CIA had been discussed, Mansfield acknowledged that it came up briefly. But, he added, it was not received "with much favor."

Reports of secret testimony by William Colby, the director of the CIA say the United States spent $8 million on opponents of Allende from 1970 to 1973.

Two Key Posers in Priory Case

Who are the legitimate members of the Society of the Love of Jesus? And were those alleged to have been dismissed from the society removed by proper legal means?

Mr. Justice H. C. McKay said in B.C. Supreme Court Wednesday he sees these questions as the ones he must determine in the lengthy trial he is presiding over — and the lawyers for the two warring factions within the society agreed.

The society, a Roman Catholic community of religious sisters, operates an extended care hospital and a home for the aged at St. Mary's Priory in Langford. It has assets estimated at $1.5 million.

The judge visited the priory site briefly this morning, to familiarize himself with the layout, before opening the eighth day of the trial at the Law Courts.

Five plaintiffs, who, the church will argue, have been dismissed from the society, are suing for control of the society.

Termed the "traditional" faction, they include Mother Cecilia Mary Dodd, 85, who founded the society 52 years ago and who now runs an animal shelter at Mill Bay, and Sisters Mary Agnes Eaton, Mary Josephine Donovan, Mary Lucy Forde and Mary Julia Kelly. Their counsel is Hugh McMillan.

The "modern" faction, which has control of the society at present, includes Mother Prioress Leonette Hoesing and sisters Mary Elizabeth Dumbowski, Mary Grace Neider and Mary Patricia Jones.

In their brief discussion Wednesday on what lies at the heart of the case, both McMillan and Branson indicated they will be pointing to the same two past legal cases to support opposite points of view.

In evidence earlier in the day, Sister Mary Agnes Eaton, McMillan's fourth witness, told how she had been offended by activities permitted at the priory in recent years which had in the past been the cloistered residence of the nuns.

Under Prioress Hoesing, "meditation" and "encounter" groups had been allowed to meet and sometimes stay overnight at the big four-storey convent, she said.

The meditation group had been allowed to bed down wherever members wanted. She suggested some among them "used drugs," there was a "sickly odor" and they were "sort of hippie types."

Of the encounter group, she said they posted centrefolds from Playboy on walls of the convent's community room — "I thought that was going a bit too far."

Sister Eaton said her objections to these and other group activities were that they were taking place in a convent.

When Mother Leonette first came to the society (in 1965), she said the patients then housed in the priory building must go because they disturbed the sisters, said Sister Eaton. But then the group activities followed.

After one of a number of complaints to Leonette, Sister Eaton said she was told: "These people are ill and they need help."

The plaintiff sisters have complained they have been shunted aside in recent years and assigned no tasks in the community.

Sister Eaton said after repeatedly asking Mother Leonette to assign her some work, she was told: "Sister, I haven't any work to do myself. How can I give you any work?"

One of the issues the plaintiffs list is the failure of the community to say the Divine Office, a lengthy series of daily prayers, together, as had been traditional.

Sister Mary Josephine Donovan testified earlier that Mother Leonette had discontinued taking Divine Office with the traditional group after Sister Donovan emphasized the word "enemies," which occurs frequently throughout the spoken prayers.

Schools Threatening Employees—CUPE

The Canadian Union of Public Employees, Local 382 Wesnesday called for an education department investigation of the Greater Victoria school board for threatening and intimidating its employees.

In a statement read to the Victoria Labor Council, the union accused the school board of administering "nothing but intimidation, threats and coercion of its employees and manages to cause nothing but problems with its employees.

"The dictators are still empire building and this local intends to do its utmost to inform the public and requests an investigation into this school district by the education department."

"It is just the typical pressure play, the gaining of stance prior to the getting down to bargaining.

"The education department has enough work to do for the next 10 years just catching up with what it hasn't done in the last two," Bunn said of the suggested investigation.

The union, representing custodial and maintenance workers at local schools, said its members have "withdrawn their services" for night school and rentals of gyms.

"We regret that this action had to be taken but we feel we had no choice."

It said rating of schools to equalize the workloads of custodians and janitors, part of the agreement reached during the strike in 1973, has not been implemented.

"In late April and early May of this year we requested a labor officer be present to try to solve this and other infractions of the contract by management.

"They were told to settle this matter and others with the union. This they have not done. In fact they haven't even tried since May to rate any schools until such time as the union served ntice of the action they intended to take."

The school board has asked Labor Minister Bill King to intervene in the dispute.

Bunn said superintendent of schools Jake Longmore had a good talk with King about the dispute, but added that King was "not prepared to get involved at this time."

Age of The Non-Talker: Three Likely Reasons

As I may possibly have remarked before, I disagree entirely with my friend Gorde Hunter's attitude to hitch-hikers since I consider it equally unlikely that he'll be coshed by a male or accused of simulated rape by a female which, as he noted in a recent column, are his main reasons for never ever stopping.

But of late, I must admit, my life-long policy of stopping for anyone who sticks out a thumb, largely a selfish exercise to find out what other people are thinking about, has been under a bit of a strain.

Fact is I've become painfully conscious that among the young of today there seems to be a great many advanced cases of what John Collier has called Conversational Elephantitis.

There is something of a to-do these days about students reaching the university level without being able to spell or to handle the basic elements of grammar, one answer being crash remedial courses. But I wonder if we shouldn't be more concerned that we're rearing a generation that has a built-in inability to articulate in the most basic kind of communication, by mouth.

It is generalizing of the worst kind, I admit, but I would guess that four out of every five young men or women I encounter on the highways seem incapable of uttering a declarative sentence. As one who's always prided himself on an ability to draw out a person, an essential occupational ability in the trade I've followed, I'm appalled by what seems either a reluctance or an incapability to put ideas or impressions or thoughts into any kind of coherent flow of words.

The subject has interested me so much in this past year, though I've not written of it because of my feeling that we're hard enough, as it is, on young people, that I've discussed it often with teachers who are in the best position to know whether or not it's a cause for alarm.

A frequent explanation, perhaps the most charitable, is the suggestion that I've simply come up against the generation gap, that so many young people are turned off by the mess we've left for them that they simply refuse to open themselves up to a dialogue.

My guess is that there's some truth in this. Very often, when I've penetrated the iron mask of some of my riders, I've found the most extraordinary scepticism towards adults generally, an unwillingness to believe that there's anything to be gained by even a friendly rap with a stranger.

A more critical explanation is the undeniable fact that communication by speech is one of the gravest shortcomings of the school system, that we turn out high school graduates who have never learned to express themselves conversationally.

A teacher I admire tells me, for example, that a student may go through the entire experience of primary and secondary schools without ever being asked to express himself verbally. In two years as an exchange teacher in Manchester, he says, he was struck by the way English youngsters are thrown into debate, into oral exercises and discussion groups that simply have no counterpart in our curriculum. "We do not teach children in this country to talk," he concludes. "If they are not natural-born talkers, and not very many of them are, school teaches them only that the safest route is to say nothing at all."

If this is true, and I expect it is, it means that there's been very little change in teaching methods since my own school days when the shy girl or the shy boy was inculcated with an inferiority feeling that could last a lifetime.

The third explanation, the one that seems to me the weightiest, is that I am encountering the first real products of the age of television, of homes where conversation had become a rarity because the entire family is glued to the tiny screen and the flickering shadows became a substitute for talk in the one arena where it was once dominant.

LIGHTING UP before the current price of cigarettes goes up in smoke are Mrs. Venus McArthur, left, and Penny Hopkins, both of 9768 Third St., Sidney. Imperial Tobacco has announced it'll be worth more to quit smoking at the end of this month. Starting Oct. 1 a 20 or 25 cigarette package will cost two cents more and the price of a carton will be hiked 20 cents because of increases at the wholesale level. Other cigarette manufacturers are expected to follow suit.

Tough Times Ahead

Because of inflation, this year's target is up by more than 10 per cent over last year's, he said.

"It looks like a tough year to raise funds. So there is an even greater need to support the United Way."

He urged delegates to donate by payroll deduction and asked them to consider "something in the neighborhood of an hour's pay a month."

Osler said without labor's support "there would be very little likelihood of success." While many people felt the new provincial government would be funding many of the 23 agencies, this hasn't happened and "we are charged with filling the void."

The council endorsed this year's United Way Campaign and will ask its affiliated unions to support the drive. day with an objective of $698,000 for 23 member agencies.

Non-Profit Housing Plan Platform of Candidate

The Capital Region Tenants' Association Wednesday endorsed association president Ann Tarasoff as a candidate for Victoria alderman in the November civic elections.

Tarasoff, 701 Esquimalt Road, said today the main issue in her platofrm would be the construction of non-profit housing accommodation in the city.

"There is almost a no-vacancy rate in Victoria now and because money is available to municipalities for housing, we feel that if we are not represented on council the issue will not be brought up," she said.

"All councils need tenant representatives on them and we intend to get a full slate of candidates to run in all municipalities."

Tarasoff said the executive of the association would be looking for people willing to run in other municipalities in the region.

Tarasoff has been a member of the association since it was formed in 1969.

She said the group is now concentrating on circulating a petition which will be presented to provincial cabinet ministers at a meeting Sept. 25.

Appointments with Attorney-General Alex Macdonald, Consumer Affairs Minister Phyllis Young, Housing Minister Lorne Nicolson and Human Resources Minister Norm Levi have been confirmed.

The petition opposes the lifting of legislation which limits rent increases to eight per cent and asks the government of enter into a "massive non-profit housing construction program."

Tenants' associations from throughout B.C. will be represented at the meeting.

Machine Candy Up

Victoria vending machine operators will follow the lead of retail stores and increase the price of candy bars to 20 cents.

Ryan Co. manager Bob Alexander said the company received its new stock two weeks ago and the 20 cent price tags had been in effect for a week.

A spokesman for Lewis Vending Machines Ltd., said the company was trying to hold prices down but indicated they would probably rise to the 20-cent level within a few weeks.

WITNESS LIST GROWS BY ONE

A third man has been added to the list of possible witnesses Esquimalt police are seeking in connection with the brutal murder of two women in the municipality Sept. 6.

Police chief Arthur Burton said the additional witness was reported by a lady on a bus who remembered seeing a young man walking south to north on Constance across Esquimalt at 2:20 p.m. either minutes before or after the murders had occurred.

She described the man as about 5 feet, 11 inches tall with sharp features, dark complexion and wearing an olive green work suit. He was carrying a small parcel.

Police believe the man resides in the immediate area of Ray's Food Market, 1325 Esquimalt, where Isobel Plume, 51, and Florence Bevan, 62, were bludgeoned and stabbed sometime between 1:55 and 2:30 p.m.

Burton said two other witnesses are still being sought.

Both young men are in their 20s, one was apparently lounging against a fence abutting a vacant lot opposite the liquor store half a block away about the time of the murders. He is described as 5 feet, 10 inches tall, clean cut, with dark hair blocked at the back and wearing blue denims.

The other man, about the same height and complexion though stockier and attired also in blue denims was reportedly in the small corner grocery store sometime between 2 and 2:10 p.m. He was overheard, inquiring about where he might purchase some crab meat, by a customer just leaving.

Cruiser Crashes

A Victoria police cruiser was in a minor accident Wednesday at Douglas and Fisgard.

City police report today the cruiser, driven by Const. J. McDonald, was in collision with a car driven by Margaret Chesson, 3944 Winton.

Both vehicles were southbound.

Retirement Early For Beetle Expert

Dr. John Chapman, internationally-known scientist with the Canadian Forestry Service, has retired after 21 years with the Pacific Forest Research Centre in Victoria.

A specialist in insect physiology, his work on ambrosia beetles led to the forest industry being able to produce a timetable for felling timber that would bypass beetle attacks.

M. H. Drinkwater, director of the Victoria centre, says Chapman's work has had a strong influence, not only in North America, but in other parts of the world where bark beetles are a problem.

Chapman's studies also helped determine what factors led beetles to attack certain logs.

He will continue to write scientific papers, of which he has written more than 50.

Active in a number of local natural history groups, Chapman was associated with the National Science Foundation and the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He was a member of the Biological Council of Canada and served as president of the Entomological Society of British Columbia.

Recreational Utopia Promised Oak Bay

Every Oak Bay resident will have a swimming pool, sauna, whirlpool, curling rink and ice arena within one and a half miles of his front doorstep.

The Utopian-like edict comes from the municipality's superintendent of parks and recreation Duncan Russell and fruition of Facilities is slated for September, 1975.

Emerging from the concrete and steel construction site at the corner of Bee and Goldsmith streets adjacent to Oak Bay junior secondary school is the municipality's $3 million Oak Bay recreation centre, one-third completed.

A newsletter circulated to residents this week shows the multi-dimension components, including the regulation ice arena, eight lane, 25-metre pool, a training pool designed for use by senior citizens and swimming classes, two saunas, a whirlpool and curling rink as well as a social lounge on the second floor with glassed-in view of the recreational activities going on below.

In the works, are negotiations with the Greater Victoria school board for four covered tennis courts directly behind, and plans include offering school students a tennis instruction option.

"It's all kind of exciting," says Russell.

The complex will also have spill-off advantages for Victoria residents.

"The location is on the boundary of Victoria and Oak Bay and we have no intentions of using it exclusively for our residents."

He wants every inch of the building "serving all the people all the time."

The complex is funded jointly by federal, provincial and municipal governments and construction was started in January after one year's work assembling the four-acre site at a cost of $600,000.

Q. Please define the differences in the following jobs within the bureaucratic world? M.M.

A. There is no job specifications in the public service for either administrative assistant or executive assistant. Generally, however, an administrative assistant's duties are confined to acting for a minister within the minister's department while an executive assistant can also work for the minister in his constituency, assuming duties with political connotations. A personal secretary handles correspondence and other personal business for an employer while a press secretary is an information officer.

Birds Zero In on Yanks

By The Associated Press

New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles are still running 1-2 in the American League East race but the Orioles are closing fast and Boston Red Sox are moving up from behind.

Those teams moved closer together in the pennant race after the Orioles defeated the Yankees 10-4 and the Red Sox whipped Detroit Tigers 8-5 Wednesday night.

The results left the Yankees with a half-game lead over the Orioles and left the Red Sox within striking distance at 2½ games behind in third place.

The Red Sox got an extra push in the stretch run from rookie Fred Lynn. He collected four hits, including a double and triple, and drove in four runs.

In other American League games, Oakland A's beat Kansas City Royals 5-4; California Angels beat Texas Rangers 4-1 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing the second, 2-0; Cleveland Indians tripped Milwaukee Brewers 6-3 and Chicago White Sox beat Minnesota Twins 3-1.

In the National League, neither Los Angeles Dodgers nor Cincinnati Reds appear to want to win the pennant in the Western Division. Both clubs lost again Wednesday night. The Dodgers dropped a 3-2 decision to Houston Astros in 10 innings while Cincinnati lost 6-5 to San Diego Padres.

The National League East race tightened when Pittsburgh Pirates cut St. Louis' lead to 1½ games by beating the Cardinals 4-1.

Elsewhere, Montreal Expos swept a doubleheader from New York Mets 3-2 and 4-0, Chicago Cubs, topped Philadelphia Phillies 5-2 and Atlanta Braves downed San Francisco Giants 4-2.

Winning for only the seventh time in the last 24 games, the Red Sox kept alive their flickering hopes for the East title.

Lynn, starting only his second major league game since being recalled from Pawtucket of the International League, lined a run-scoring single in the first, tripled off the wall in left centre as Boston went ahead 4-3 in the third and doubled off the wall in left for two more RBI in the fourth.

Then he lined a single to right centre and scored on Dick McAuliffe's fifth homer, a drive into the Boston bullpen in right centre, in the sixth.

Rookie shortstop Rick Burleson had three hits, including a double, and scored one run while driving in another as the Red Sox broke out of a batting slump with a 14-hit attack.

Detroit's Al Kaline had a home run, double and a single, leaving him only four hits short of becoming the 12th player in history to reach the 3,000 mark.

Kaline's homer produced the Tigers' last two runs in the ninth. The blow tied Kaline with Rogers Hornsby for 14th place on the all-time RBI list with 1,579.

Mike Cuellar became a 20-game winner for the fourth time as Baltimore broke a tie with seven runs in the sixth inning and crushed New York. The triumph was Baltimore's 17th in the past 22 games.

The Orioles' big inning against three pitchers included three walks — two with the bases loaded — three singles and consecutive two-run doubles by Rich Coggins and Bobby Grich.

Cuellar, 20-10, scattered 12 hits, two apiece in the second, third, fourth and eighth innings and three in the ninth. The veteran left-hander raised his life-time mark against the Yankees to 17-7. It was the first time the Yankees have lost two games in a row since Aug. 12-13.

"I think those two games were important, but not critical," said New York Manager Bill Virdon. "I think this one tonight is critical for our club. I think we need to win this one."

Rookie outfielder Greg Gross was Houston's hero. He started an uprising in the eighth inning when the Astros broke a scoreless tie with two runs. He threw out the potential winning run at the plate in the ninth inning, and he scored the winning run in the 10th.

Light-hitting Enzo Hernandez, who said he never had driven in more than two runs in a game, knocked in four for San Diego against the Reds and scored the winning run on John Grubb's sacrifice fly.

Jim Rooker hurled a six-hitter for his 13th victory and Al Oliver doubled in two runs, boosting the Pirates past the Cardinals.

The Expos won the opener with a two-run seventh inning, capped by Tim Foli's run-scoring squeeze bunt single. They took the nightcap behind the combined four-hit pitching of rookies Dennis Blair and Dale Murray.

Anyone needing officials or interested in refereeing may obtain further information by telephoning alliance president Don Funk (479-3851 or 388-4248) or secretary-treasurer Steve Holotuk (478-7083 or 388-3637).

Kurt's New Game

By BILL WALKER
Times Staff

Orland Kurtenbach, who has owned both titles, will just as quickly agree that to him it's a brand new ball game, too.

Kurtenbach, former captain of the Vancouver Canucks of the National Hockey League, now is coach of the Seattle Totems of the Central Hockey League. On his introduction to the media at the Imperial Inn Wednesday afternoon he readily admitted:

"Everything is new to me. I used to think as a player. Game over and off you go. Now I have to analyze things differently.

"It was embarrassing to me, too, on the ice. I wasn't familiar with some of the faces in camp. I didn't know them. So the easiest thing to do was to introduce myself. Which I did."

General manager-coach Phil Maloney of the Canucks described Kurtenbach's appointment as "one of the plus things" that had happened to the Canucks, and Seattle, but he tempered the statement with the observation later that the Canucks had also lost a centre who would have to be replaced.

It was explained that the terms of Kurtenbach's contract were that the Canucks would supply Seattle with players for two years until Seattle's entry into the NHL.

Kurtenbach took that to mean that Maloney would do the selecting. But Maloney partly corrected the Seattle mentor with the observation that they would work together.

Kurtenbach said he would first have to work with Phil "then I'll have my own preferences. I will have to decide 'what's a good player . . . what's a bad player' I know that by what he picks and who he plays is what makes or breaks a coach," he admitted.

He also said that his basic coaching style wouldn't be that much different than Maloney's, if at all. Maloney explained that there were no ideals of his to be followed, as pursued. "They could be diametrically opposite," he countered.

"Kurt has his own ideas and he can play it his way," he said, "and I know it will be a professional style of hockey."

Maloney sees Kurtenbach's appointment as a gain for Seattle and a loss for Vancouver.

"We've lost our captain," said Phil, "and there's no plus there."

9 IN MEMORIAM

BAXTER — In loving memory of our dear brother Jack who passed away September 19, 1971.
"We often think of days gone by,
A shadow o'er our lives is cast
When we were all together.
Our loved one gone forever."
—Sadly missed by his sisters Ellen and Wyn.

NOBLE — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Danny Noble, passed away September 19 1973 — "always in our hearts". Mom and sisters.

"THEY SHALL GROW NOT OLD, AS WE WHO ARE LEFT GROW OLD. AGE SHALL NOT WEARY THEM, NOR THE YEARS CONDEMN. AT THE GOING DOWN OF THE SUN AND IN THE MORNING WE WILL REMEMBER THEM."
—WITH GRATITUDE, SANDS.

EDITION FINAL

91st YEAR, No. 85 — VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1974 — 15 CENTS DAILY, 20 CENTS SATURDAY

NEW NIXON SUBPOENA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski has subpoenaed former President Nixon as a prosecution witness in the Watergate cover-up trial.

Nixon has already been subpoenaed by his former No. 2 aide, John D. Ehrlichman, to appear as a defence witness in the trial scheduled to begin Oct. 1.

Jaworski's office confirmed today that the subpoena was issued Wednesday night and will be served on Nixon at his San Clemente, Calif., estate by FBI agents.

"He's been subpoenaed to testify," a spokesman for Jaworski said. "We expect him to testify."

Jaworski's subpoena calls for Nixon to appear in Judge John J. Sirica's courtroom on Oct. 1, even though he may not be called as a witness for several days.

Teachers to Seek 20-25% Pay Hike

B.C. teachers will be asking wage increase packages ranging from 20 to 25 per cent, Jim MacFarlan, president of the B.C. Teachers Federation, said in Vancouver today.

MacFarlan said wage demands are decided by teachers at the local level, but indications that have been received from some local chapters of the federation indicate the 20 to 25 per cent range.

He again emphasized that the BCTF will not consider salary bargaining on a provincial level as proposed by the B.C. School Trustees Association.

MacFarlan agreed with the calculation of the trustees association that this year the average cost of a teacher in salary and fringe benefits is $15,490.

But he said salaries vary considerably in different areas of the province, which is why the BCTF is insistent on bargaining at local levels.

He praised the few school boards that have refused to agree to provincial bargaining, and accused the BCSTA of attempting to force a breakdown in negotiations this year.

MacFarlan said the teachers' average wage increase of 11.1 per cent in 1974 was totally depreciated by inflation by mid-year.

Greater Victoria school board chairman Peter Bunn said he saw MacFarlan's statement as the first salvo in "the media battle for money every year which causes so much unhappiness".

He said the reason the B.C. School Trustees Association wants provincial bargaining on teachers' salaries is to "get the claptrap about filthy lucre out of the local scene."

Bunn said that with provincial bargaining negotiations could be conducted sensibly throughout the whole year rather than having the annual fall contest between teachers and school boards that can cause "the grossest unpleasantness."

Greater Victoria teachers won a 10.8 per cent increase for 1974, Saanich School District teachers 10.75 per cent.

B.C. PRICES HIGHEST

OTTAWA (CP) — Consumers in British Columbia and Thunder Bay, Ont., faced the largest increases in prices according to August figures released Wednesday by statistics Canada.

Halifax was one of only two cities where the August index level was less than 10 per cent higher than the level of August, 1973.

The other was Saskatoon — Regina where a combined survey of prices is done.

There were increases in all cities in August over July and the figures were: St. John's, five-tenths of one per cent; Halifax, two-tenths of one per cent; Saint John, one per cent; Quebec, 1.2 per cent; Montreal, eight-tenths of one per cent; Ottawa, eight-tenths of one per cent; Toronto, one per cent; Thunder Bay, 1.3 per cent; Winnipeg, seven-tenths of one per cent; Saskatoon-Regina, one per cent; Edmonton-Calgary, eight-tenths of one per cent; and Vancouver-Victoria 1.3 per cent.

Impaired Boating Charged

A 59-year-old man appeared in Victoria provincial court this morning charged with impaired boating after he became stranded Wednesday night when his 18-foot boat ran out of gas.

The judge also banned Rogers from boating for the next four months adding "a person like you shouldn't be at sea at all."

Oak Bay police said Rogers radioed for help over his Citizen Band radio at 10:20 p.m. to say he was floating somewhere between Clover Point and Trial Island and wanted a tow.

He told the court his engine had quit and couldn't get it started.

Police arrived 2½ hours later and found him drifting in the tide about half a mile off shore.

They said he was "obviously impaired." He had a breathalyzer reading of .34, more than four times the legal limit of impairment.

Sooke Woman Slain

The partly nude and badly decomposed body of a woman found in a ditch in Abbotsford Tuesday was identified today as a 24-year-old Sooke resident, Linda Marlene Dueck.

Her death, believed to have occurred about three weeks ago, brings to eight the number of women who have been killed in the province in the past year while apparently hitchhiking.

Her body was found at 10:45 a.m. lying in long grass and water beside a road less than half a mile from the Abbotsford RCMP station.

The discoverer was a man looking for beer bottles.

An autopsy performed in Vancouver Wednesday failed to establish cause of death or whether she had been sexually assaulted.

Known to be a frequent hitchhiker, she was last seen alive in the Hope area over the Labor Day weekend. Her father lives in Hope; her mother in Chemainus.

Police said she had a boyfriend in the Abbotsford area and had left Victoria on or about Aug. 19 following an appointment with a doctor here.

Police believe there may be some connection between her death and another presumed killing in nearby Matsqui two weeks ago.

A set of women's clothing, splattered with blood, was found in Matsqui about 10 feet from the Fraser River. No body has been found but police "very strongly suspect" foul play. A paper found at the scene indicated a knife blade had been wiped clean.

Attorney-General Alex MacDonald, meanwhile, has announced that there will be no formal advertising campaign to discourage young women from hitch-hiking but that the government will set up an informal education program to warn of the dangers of the practice.

The government had been considering such a campaign after police linked several deaths as probably the work of one sex killer and said all had involved hitch-hikers.

NEWS BRIEFS

Sound as a Dollar . . . Unfortunately!

OTTAWA — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker celebrated his 79th birthday Wednesday and told reporters. "The only bad news I had recently was when I had a medical checkup and the doctors said, 'you're as sound as a dollar.' That distressed me to no end."

Subway Accord

MONTREAL (CP) — Maintenance workers attending a union meeting voted today to end a strike against the transit commission which has left the city without subway service since Aug. 7 and with no public transportation since last Friday.

Argentine Kidnaps

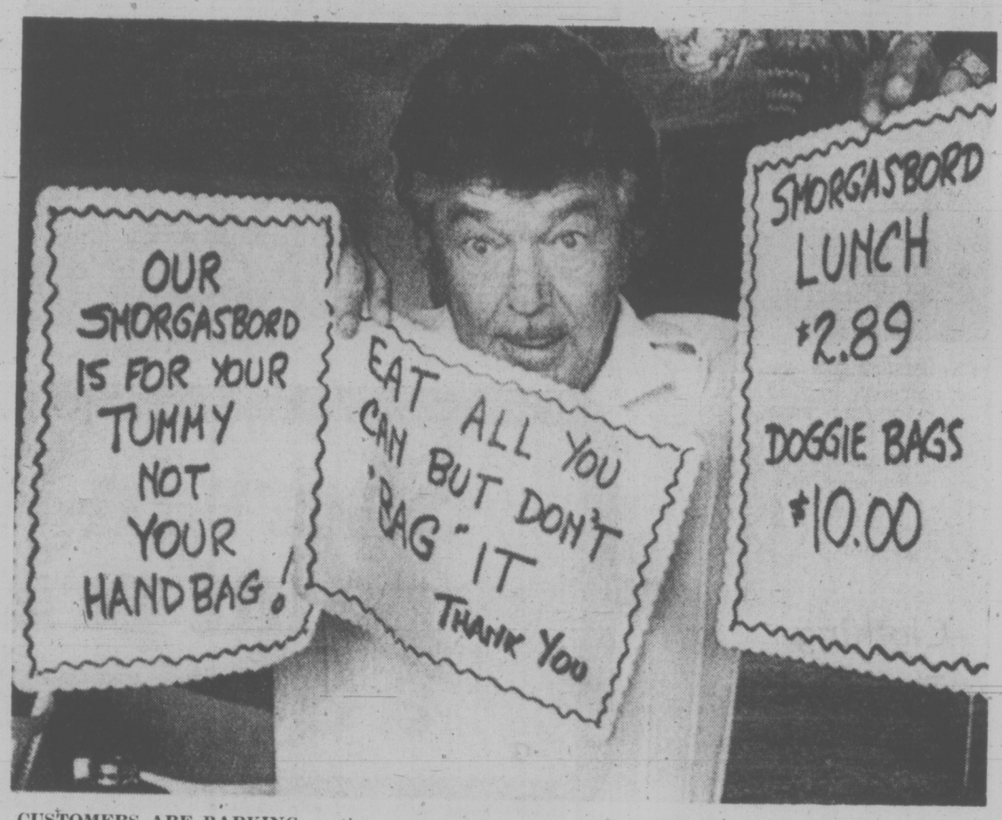
BUENOS AIRIES (UPI) — Thirty guerrillas armed with shotguns and dressed in police and telephone company uniforms kidnapped two Argentine business executives today in an elaborate operation that took the lives of a chauffeur and another executive.

Bank Debt Doubles

BONN (Reuter) — The financial losses of West Germany's biggest private bank — Herstatt, which collapsed last June — are reported to be more than double the original estimate of about $500 million.

Greece to Vote

ATHENS (Reuters) — Premier Constantine Carmanlis announced new electoral laws Wednesday night and said national elections will be held in Greece as soon as possible. Observers believe the poll will be in about 45 days.



CUSTOMERS ARE BARKING up the wrong tree if they ask Frank Baker (above) for a doggie bag when they visit his West Vancouver restaurant. Baker, along with restaurant owners across North America has discovered that more and more customers are following up their lunches with a little "take-out" service for later consumption. Baker blames the spiralling cost of food for the increase in business to go. He now puts ketchup bottles without caps on the tables and has begun using individual servings of salt and pepper rather than leaving an easily-pocketed shaker available.

U.S. Gas Pact Nearer

Premier Barrett and a representative of U.S. natural gas importers emerged from a meeting Wednesday saying they are "closer" to agreement on the price and amount of natural gas to be shipped south of the border this winter.

"There are no details that I can give you about our discussions," Barrett said after more than an hour of talks.

"But I think that we are closer than we were before the meeting started."

John McMillan, president of Northwest Pipeline Corp. which has a contract to import up to 800 million cubic feet of B.C. natural gas per day, concurred with Barrett's remarks.

"I think we both understand each other," he told reporters.

The premier said McMillan will return to the U.S. to discuss the results of the meeting with "his people" and he expects to have some form of reply for B.C. within a week.

Barrett would not say whether he expected a conclusive answer from McMillian and refused to elaborate.

Also at the meeting were Attorney-General Alex Macdonald, the B.C. minister in charge of energy; Kelly Gibson, chairman of Westcoast Transmission Co., which holds sales contracts with distributors, and James Rhodes, chairman of B.C. Petroleum Corp.

The B.C. government has announced its intention to seek a higher export price for gas but Northwest Pipeline has resisted the proposal on the grounds that price increases must be accompanied by an agreement to share any shortfall in supplies this winter.

B.C. also announced earlier it did not intend to share this winter's shortages.

The B.C. Petroleum Corp., said it intends to seek a price increase from 61 cents to $1 per 1,000 cubic feet and B.C. has also filed a request with the National Energy Board to raise the price to $1.35.

The premier said he will discuss the situation again on Saturday when he meets with Washington State Governor Dan Evans. (See page 8)

Rocky Worth $62.5M

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice-president-designate Nelson Rockefeller said Thursday that his personal fortune is $62.5 million, and that he receives in addition income from trusts with total assets of $120 million.

Rockefeller issued those figures in advance of congressional hearings on his confirmation, saying he wanted to set the record straight because of misleading reports of his wealth.

". . . Total assets owned outright and the two trusts amount to approximately $182.5 million," Rockefeller said in a statement distributed to reporters.

The former New York governor, an heir to one of America's great fortunes, said he issued the statement because of earlier reports that he had filed a statement with congressional committees reporting his net worth to be $33 million.

Budget Error Sparks Anger

Opposition spokesmen and B.C.'s municipal leaders reacted with shock and anger Wednesday to the announcement of a $100 million budgeting error in the provincial welfare budget.

Liberal leader David Anderson said Premier Barrett is to blame for the underestimate and other budget bungling, and should resign as finance minister.

Fellow-Liberal Pat McGeer demanded the immediate recall of the legislature's all-party public accounts committee to investigate welfare costs as well as "drastic overspending" by the Insurance Corporation of B.C.

And municipal officials were virtually unanimous in denouncing Barrett's statement Wednesday that municipalities will have to pay their share — 10 per cent or $10 million — of what the premier termed a budgeting error.

At the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention in Vernon, delegates agreed to make room on the agenda today or Friday for an emergency debate on what municipalities will do about the sudden increase in costs.

Premier Barrett said today municipalities may be "jumping the gun in terms of how much of the cost will be going back to them."

Included in the $100 million over-run are some expenses which are shareable and some which only the province pays for.

The government will explain shortly exactly what spending areas are included in the $100 million.

He said there have been over-runs made in the human resources department before including a "significant one" in 1970.

At that time, Barrett said, the municipalities had to pay their share of the budget over-run as well.

In a wire to Alex Fraser (SC-Cariboo), the chairman of the legislature's public accounts committee, McGeer (Vancouver-Point Grey) said the committee should "have full powers of investigation into current spending including the ability to engage auditors for the purpose of investigation."

The Liberal party's finance critic said in the wire: "If allegations of overspending in ICBC or human resources are anywhere near accurate it is irresponsible for there to be any delay in our committee commencing work."

"If the legislature had to be called into session to give the committee extra powers, it

Explanation Monday

Premier Barrett said today Levi, who is out of town this week, will call reporters together to explain how his department underestimated this year's welfare budget.

The premier said earlier in the week that an "honest" clerical error had caused the government to budget for $264.5 million in welfare spending when the figure should be $100 million higher.

$5,000 Fishing Fines

SEATTLE (AP) — Five British Columbia fishermen were fined a total of $5,000 Wednesday for fishing in United States waters off Point Roberts, last week.

They each paid a $750 criminal fine and $250 civil fine, and reclaimed the boats. The boats had been held in Bellingham, where the five were brought last Friday after being seized by a Coast Guard cutter.

Four of the fishboat captains entered no contest pleas and the fifth pleaded guilty. Each admitted his boat strayed into U.S. waters but said it was accidental.

The fishermen are Arie de Vos of Richmond; John Edge of Surrey; Lon Bianco of Delta; Gregory Osaka of Steveston and Andy Kremides, also of Steveston, who pleaded guilty.

More to Qualify For Legal Aid

Extension of legal aid in B.C. to cover summary conviction proceedings and all offences under the Narcotic Control and Food and Drug Acts, was announced Wednesday by Attorney-General Alex Macdonald.

He said the extension will give practical meaning to the "right to counsel" promised under the Bill of Rights.

The expansion also includes the addition of nine regional offices to the six existing offices by March, 1975.

The B.C. Legal Aid Society will be given a $40,000 grant to launch an experimental public information campaign and legal aid staff lawyers will be given salary increases to bring them on a par with Crown counsel and other provincial legal staff.

The changes were requested by the society, which administers legal aid throughout the province.

Under existing legal aid, most summary conviction proceedings are not covered and offences under the Narcotic Control Act and Food and Drug Act are covered only at the discretion of the society or if the accused might face a jail sentence.

The new regional offices will be located in Prince Rupert, Cranbrook, Nelson, Williams Lake, Dawson Creek-Fort St. John, Surrey-Delta, Okanagan, Abbotsford-Chilliwack and Nanaimo.

The new regional offices will give legal aid a greater opportunity to expand into other areas such as landlord and tenant law, consumer law and other civil administrative matters, said Macdonald.

Extension will mean it will now be possible to secure counsel "on a fee basis in all important cases in our criminal courts," he said.

Last year legal aid handled 21,000 cases and the extension is expected to increase that figure 10 per cent.

Times News Services

During the four years, 1970 to 1973, Allende was in power, U.S. economic aid dropped to $400,000 a year from $1.5 million, state department figures show.

At the same time, military grants to train Chilean military officers in the use of U.S. weapons remained at $900,000 a year, and credit sales of weapons to the Chilean generals jumped to $15 million from $5 million.

Together with the secret Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) support to political opponents of Allende, the U.S. economic and military aid programs form a pattern showing a direct U.S. effort to make it difficult for him to govern while strengthening the political and military forces that could depose him.

Meanwhile, prompted by the disclosures of CIA operations in Chile, President Ford and congressional leaders today privately reviewed the policy of covert activities abroad.

They reportedly found little support for proposed new controls on the agency.

Congressional leaders were unusually reluctant to discuss the issue when they emerged from a 90-minute meeting with Ford and Secretary-of-State Henry Kissinger.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield refused to comment on the substance of the meeting, saying only that it dealt with "the CIA in general, and Chile in particular."

Asked if his idea for a joint congressional committee to oversee the CIA had been discussed, Mansfield acknowledged that it came up briefly. But, he added, it was not received "with much favor."

Reports of secret testimony by William Colby, the director of the CIA, say the United States spent $8 million on opponents of Allende from 1970 to 1973.
